Legion Boos Carter 'Pardon'

Seattle (UPI) — Flag-waving members of the American Legion booed and shouted "no, no" for three minutes Tuesday to interrupt Jimmy Carter when he told them he would grant a blanket pardon to Vietnam-era draft resisters.

But at the conclusion of Carter's speech, in which he also advocated a strong military posture and a possible resumption of the draft as a last resort, he was given a standing ovation by delegates to the legion's 35th annual national convention.

Carter's speech was generally well received, and he was interrupted by applause 21 times before he came to the final passages on draft resisters.

The Democratic presidential candidate said his own son, Jack, served in Vietnam with other American fighting men and "I could never equate what they have done with those who left this country and did what they did to avoid the draft.

"But I think it is time for the damage and hatred and divisiveness of the Vietnam War to be over."

The crowd applauded and Carter went on.

"I want you to listen carefully for I want you to understand what I say. I do not favor a blanket amnesty" — and there was some applause — "but for those who violated Selective Service laws I intend to grant a blanket pardon."

There was a roar of "No!" from the Maryland delegation and from other legionnaires throughout the auditorium and about a dozen persons stood up and waved their thumbs toward the floor. The demonstration lasted three minutes.

Legion Commander Harry G. Wells of Topeka, Kan., rose next to Carter and slammed his gavel repeatedly for order, but said afterward he also disagrees with Carter's position.

"We agree 100% with half of it," said Wells. "Our position is that both draft dodgers and deserters should be taken care of on a case-by-case basis."

Past national commander Earl Cocke Jr. of Dawson, Ga., about 20 miles from Carter's home in Plains, said legionnaires are not happy with Carter's position. He said they also do not like President Ford's last effort which limited amnesty, "but we can live with it.

"Obviously, the legion's position has always been very clear," Cocke said. "At least he still wants to consider it on a case by case basis for the deserters."

Before the speech, Carter acknowledged that his decision to pardon draft evaders would be unpopular with the American Legion and others.

"I'm not going to say whether those young people were guilty or not guilty. I'm just going to say, 'What you did, whether right or wrong, you are forgiven for.' "

Going before a potentially unfriendly forum — as President Ford did in his amnesty announcement at a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago in 1974 — Carter said in his prepared speech the pardon issue was "about the single hardest decision I have had to make during the campaign."

"I think it is time for the damage, hatred and divisiveness of the Vietnam War to be over," said the Democratic presidential candidate. "I do not favor a blanket amnesty, but for those who violated Selective Service Laws, I intend to grant a blanket pardon.

"To me, there is a difference. Amnesty means that what you did is right. A pardon means that what you did — right or wrong — is forgiven."

At the news conference, Carter said: "I don't think that the person who pardoned Mr. Nixon — I think it was President Ford — specified that Nixon was guilty or not guilty."

Carter also said during the 45-minute session with reporters:

— He would consider resuming the military draft, if an upsurge in civilian employment dries up enlistments, but he did not think that would become necessary.

— He is disturbed by a U.S. Civil Rights Commission report Tuesday showing that much remains to be done to bring about full desegregation of the nations' schools.

— He doubts President Ford would have "the political advantage" in debating him.

— If elected, he will not make as much public show about church attendance as some of his predecessors — although he said he did not mean this to imply any criticism of Ford or others.

Earlier during his third and final day of a West Coast trip, Carter went to the Boeing Aircraft plant to shake hands with several hundred of the 14,000 employes.

Dictionary Doesn't Distinguish Between Amnesty, Pardon

Jimmy Carter may see a clear distinction between amnesty and pardon, but the dictionary doesn't seem to.

Carter told the American Legion national convention in Seattle that he would pardon all those who refused to be drafted to fight in Southeast Asia, but would not grant them amnesty.

"To me, there is a difference," Carter said. "Amnesty means that what you did is right. A pardon means that what you did — right or wrong — is forgiven. So, pardon — yes, amnesty — no."

Webster's Third New International Dictionary lists two definitions for amnesty. The first, described as archaic, is: "The voluntary overlooking of an offense by one offended."

The second reads: "The act of an authority (as a government) by which general pardon of an offense is granted, often before trial or conviction, especially to a large group of criminals."

Looking for a synonym for amnesty? The dictionary refers the reader to pardon.

Goodyear, URW Have Tentative Agreement

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers Union Tuesday reached tentative agreement with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. on a new contract designed to end a 127-day strike against the Big Four of the tire making industry.

Goodyear and URW negotiators reached agreement in Columbus while URW President Peter Bomarito continued talks with Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in Cleveland.

"An agreement with Firestone is very close," a URW spokesman said.

The URW struck Goodyear, Firestone, B F. Goodrich and Uniroyal at the expiration of the old-three year contract on April 21.

Negotiations with the rubber companies were held at several locations including Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Washington, D.C., and Cleveland.

The strike idled about 70,000 workers at 47 rubber plants throughout the country and has cost employes nearly $270 million in lost wages.

The new contract with Goodyear provides for wage and cost of living benefits totaling $2.04 per hour over the three years of the contract. No breakdown was given of the increases in fringe benefits.

The URW had been concentrating its negotiating efforts on Firestone in an effort to set a pattern-making contract for the other three rubber companies.

Negotiators for Firestone and the URW met in Washington last week with U.S. Labor Secretary W.J. Usery and reached agreement on basic economic issues.

"I think it is important to note that what Goodyear and the URW reached agreement on was the basic agreement reached with Usery last week," said the URW spokesman. "Goodyear just happened to be first to reach the final agreement."

The agreement with Goodyear provides for a general wage increase of $1.35 per hour over three years, a cost of living allowance and substantial boosts in pensions and other benefits.

The agreement calls for an immediate wage increase of 80 cents per hour, a second hourly increase of 30 cents effective June 6, 1977 and another 25 cents on May 1, 1978.

For those in the skilled trades, an additional 25 cents per hour was approved for the first year of the contract and 15 cents an hour for the second year.

The agreement with Goodyear calls for a cost of living allowance amounting to about six cents per hour, baed on a 6% rate of inflation in the first year of the contract.

In the second year of the contract, if the rate of inflation continues at 6%, the boost would be 26 cents an hour and could go as high as an additional 37 cents an hour in the third year of the contract.

SeTech Board Likes East Lincoln Site

A community college in east Lincoln may be built with or without the city's blessing.

Southeast Nebraska Community Technical College, which hopes to build a $4 million building near 84th and O Sts., has run into some opposition from the city administration.

Ideally the college would like the campus to be annexed into the city and thus provided with city water and sewer.

But most of the land lies within the Stevens Creek watershed, an area where the city has been discouraging development.

The SeTech governing board is currently developing building specifications, including alternatives for a separate water supply and sewer facilities.

In fact, some community colleges have used their separate sewer and water systems as additional training programs for students who want to work in this area, several board members pointed out.

The city is particularly concerned about the location of an access road from the campus site to 84th St. and about 10 acres of land on the northeast corner of 86th and O St., City-County Planning Director Doug Brogden told the board members Tuesday afternoon.

The access road could split that remaining 10 acres and make it less desirable for single family development, Brogden said.

This would then weaken the city's past position of maintaining this land for single family development, he said.

But Ken Clark, not the college, owns that 10 acres and the college cannot tell Clark what to do with his land, several board members pointed out.

Board member Don Nielsen, of Lincoln, suggested that the city and the SeTech board cooperate in looking for a more favorable site over the next two weeks. But at the same time the board will continue the process leading up to bids for construction on the 84th and O St. site, he said.

"I wouldn't want us to be a part of any spillover of development into the Stevens Creek watershed," said Nielsen, who is personally concerned about the future development of the 10-acre corner.

Other board members weren't as concerned as Nielsen.

"We're interested in being good citizens and we would prefer to use city facilities (water and sewer)" said vice chairman Alan Dunlap, of Milford.

"But I don't like the idea of us telling someone else how to use his land," added Dunlap, referring to Clark's 10-acre parcel.

Then he relayed his own opinion of city efforts to use the college to pressure Clark.

"At best it is like using the cat's paw to get the chestnuts out of the fire; at worst it is blackmail."

SeTech officials plan to meet with the city administration next week.

Two of three SeTech campuses will probably have increased enrolments this fall. Lincoln is expecting a growth of about 18 FTE (full time equivalent students) to 355 FTE this fall and Milford anticipates an increase of about 8 FTE to 330 FTE.

The Fairbury campus, which finished fall enrolment Monday, has a 275 head count, and this means a student body about equal to last years.

A fourth campus at Beatrice (the old Pershing College) will open with some classes in early October, area President Robert Eicher told the board.

FTE counts do not correspond to head counts, explained Dr. David Buettner, Lincoln campus director.

This summer's Lincoln campus FTE count of 202 is actually more than 700 students, he said.

The number of student hours taken during a year is divided by 45, (the number of hours for a full load on the quarter system) to determine FTE count.

This FTE is then used to determine the amount of state aid the community colleges will receive.

Reaction In Lincoln Appears Favorable

Lincoln rubber workers could start returning to work by Saturday if the tentative agreement between Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the union is ratified.

And if strikers on the lines late Tuesday afternoon are any indication of Lincoln's Local 286 and the other rubber workers across the country, the contract will be ratified Friday.

The United Rubber Workers and Goodyear agreed to wage increases of $1.35 an hour over three years, a cost-of-living allowance that will bring in an extra 72 to 75 cents an hour at the current rate of inflation plus boosts in pension and other benefits.

Of nine workers serving picket duty, seven said they would vote to ratify the contract when the local meets at 2 p.m. Friday in O'Donnell Hall on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus.

The two who said they would vote no on the pact indicated they were unhappy that the first year increase was only 80 cents an hour. The union originally asked for $1.

The 126-day strike has idled 1,600 workers in Lincoln and 60,000 across the nation. Goodyear is the first rubber company to reach an agreement with the union; Firestone, Goodrich and Uniroyal are still negotiating contracts.

Lincoln rubber workers made between $4.50 and $5.50 an hour before the strike. The national average is around $5.50.

Don Wright, local vice president, said he was happy with the agreement, but added there were a few things left out of the contract he would have liked to have seen included.

"You come to a point when it hurts you much more to keep going (with a strike) than it does to settle for a little less," Wright said. He added that he had heard both pro and con on the settlement from union members, and couldn't be sure how the vote would turn out.

Eight of the 15 Goodyear unions must ratify the contract, and the number voting for the pact must be a majority of the total membership.

Most workers on the picket line were pleased with the agreement.

"It looks pretty good to me," said Nadine Murphy. She said she has moved back with her parents, rented out her house and sold vegetables and macrame items at the Farmers' Market to make ends meet.

"You don't ever catch up to what you lost," Miss Murphy said. "But then, neither does the company."

James Price, another production worker, said he too would vote for ratification. "If it didn't have the cost-of-living clause, I wouldn't vote to go back," he added.

The cost-of-living allowance, which is based on the government's Consumer Price Index, will give workers a one-cent-an-hour raise for every 0.4% raise in the CPI during the first two years of the contract. In the third year, workers will get one cent for ever 0.3% raise in the CPI.

Wright said the current rate of inflation would give workers an extra seven cents in 1976, 27 or 28 cents in 1977, and 38 to 40 cents in 1978.

Workers will also receive increased pension benefits under terms of the contract. Those retiring on or after May 1, 1976 will receive $11 per month per year of service. Pension benefits increase to $11 75 next year and $12.50 in 1968.

Company-paid life insurance will be increased to $11,500. Weekly non-occupational disability benefits are raised to $110. Health benefits also will increase and a dental insurance plan is included.

Board Discusses Planning As School Opening Nears

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public School Sperintendent John Prasch closed his report on the status of school opening to the board of education Tuesday night asking:

"Are there any other questions prior to the opening this fall, er, next Monday?"

That comment seemed to be indicative of the hectic mood prevailing in the central school administration offices of this week with an eye toward opening doors to students next week.

Final plans depend on the granting of $122,500 in Federal funds for a career education program; installation of a door at Hawthoren School to accommodate handicapped students attending a new program there, purchase of four vans to haul those students; progress reports on some uncompleted buildings in the school district; a new contract for rental of space with the Southeast Technical College; insurance coverage for vehicles, buildings and personnel, and a few other minor details.

Prasch explained that orientation for new teachers has taken a different approach this year with the staffs reporting directly to their buildings on Wednesday to begin in-service training, a switch from years past when all staff attended a general session.

A special attendance problem this year might be the placement of Cambodian and Vietnamese refugee children, most of whom were concentrated in several schools last year and given special intensive training during the summer.

Plans call for letting the students attend the schools in their neighborhood, then evaluating their performance after several weeks and reassigning them if problems in language or adjustment appear prevalent, Prasch said

Prasch released a tentative schedule for future board meetings, highlighted by a joint meeting of the board and the Lincoln City Council Sept. 7. The city has outlined four areas of possible discussion; school resource officer program, long range planning (capital construction), bus operation and peak load on the streets.

Prasch added discussion of control of the joint recreation programs at the new Irving Junior High complex and possible use of the Salt Valley View area land owned by the schools as a park by the city.

The board also approved a multi-cultural education work plan for the coming year noting the importance of the name change (formerly the cultural awareness program) and the fact that the program has been shifted from a special project status to "a regular, continuing and integrated part of the school curriculum."

Unemployment Level In Britain Hits 1945 High

London (AP) — British unemployment has risen to its highest levels since 1945 both on non-adjusted and seasonally adjusted bases, the Department of Employment announced Tuesday.

Total unemployment in early August was 1,501,976, or 6.4% of the work force, or 0.2% from a month earlier. The seasonally adjusted jobless total was 1,309,-300, or 5.6% of the work force, an increase of 0.1% from July.

The number of unemployed in Britain has been rising almost without interruption since late 1973, and Britain's unemployment is now among the highest in western Europe.

Dog 'Decoys' Called Entrapment

Salt Lake City (UPI) — City Animal Control Director Douglas Sorenson says the use of "doggie decoys" to control stray dogs might amount to entrapment.

City-County Health Director Harry Gibbons suggested using female dogs in heat as a means of attracting and rounding up strays.

But Sorenson told city and county commissioners said Monday the use of decoys would not be fair because the mating urge would encourage even well-mannered dogs to stray from home.

Lincoln rubber workers could start returning to work by Saturday if the tentative agreement between Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the union is ratified.

And if strikers on the lines late Tuesday afternoon are any indication of Lincoln's Local 286 and the other rubber workers across the country, the contract will be ratified Friday.

The United Rubber Workers and Goodyear agreed to wage increases of $1.35 an hour over three years, a cost-of-living allowance that will bring in an extra 72 to 75 cents an hour at the current rate of inflation plus boosts in pension and other benefits.

Of nine workers serving picket duty, seven said they would vote to ratify the contract when the local meets at 2 p.m. Friday in O'Donnell Hall on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus.

"Are there any other questions prior to the opening this fall, er, next Monday?"

That comment seemed to be indicative of the hectic mood prevailing in the central school administration offices of this week with an eye toward opening doors to students next week.

Final plans depend on the granting of $122,500 in Federal funds for a career education program; installation of a door at Hawthoren School to accommodate handicapped students attending a new program there; purchase of four vans to haul those students; progress reports on some uncompleted buildings in the school district; a new contract for rental of space with the Southeast Technical College; insurance coverage for vehicles, buildings and personnel, and a few other minor details.

Prasch explained that orientation for new teachers has taken a different approach this year with the staffs reporting directly to their buildings on Wednesday to begin in-service training, a switch from years past when all staff attended a general session.

A special attendance problem this year might be the placement of Cambodian and Vietnamese refugee children, most of whom were concentrated in several schools last year and given special intensive training during the summer.

Plans call for letting the students attend the schools in their neighborhood, then evaluating their performance after several weeks and reassigning them if problems in language or adjustment appear prevalent, Prasch said.

Prasch released a tentative schedule for future board meetings, highlighted by a joint meeting of the board and the Lincoln City Council Sept. 7. The city has outlined four areas of possible discussion; school resource officer program, long range planning (capital construction), bus operation and peak load on the streets.

Prasch added discussion of control of the joint recreation programs at the new Irving Junior High complex and possible use of the Salt Valley View area land owned by the schools as a park by the city.

The board also approved a multi-cultural education work plan for the coming year noting the importance of the name change (formerly the cultural awareness program) and the fact that the program has been shifted from a special project status to "a regular, continuing and integrated part of the school curriculum."

Unemployment Level In Britain Hits 1945 High

London (AP) — British unemployment has risen to its highest levels since 1945 both on non-adjusted and seasonally adjusted bases, the Department of Employment announced Tuesday.

Total unemployment in early August was 1,501,976, or 6.4% of the work force, or 0.2% from a month earlier. The seasonally adjusted jobless total was 1,309,300, or 5.6% of the work force, an increase of 0.1% from July.

The number of unemployed in Britain has been rising almost without interruption since late 1973, and Britain's unemployment is now among the highest in western Europe.

Dog 'Decoys' Called Entrapment

Salt Lake City (UPI) — City Animal Control Director Douglas Sorenson says the use of "doggie decoys" to control stray dogs might amount to entrapment.

City-County Health Director Harry Gibbons suggested using female dogs in heat as a means of attracting and rounding up strays.

But Sorenson told city and county commissioners said Monday the use of decoys would not be fair because the mating urge would encourage even well-mannered dogs to stray from home.

Cosmonauts Return From 49 Days In Orbit

Moscow (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts returned to earth Tuesday after a 49-day mission orbiting aboard the Salyut 5 space laboratory.

An announcement by the official Soviet news agency Tass said the descent module carrying Boris Volynov and Vitaly Zhologov set down at 9:33 p.m. Moscow time (1:33 p.m. CDT) "in a pre-set area 200 kilometers (125 miles) southwest of the town of Kokchetav in Kazakhstan," the central Asian Soviet republic.

"The cosmonauts' general condition is satisfactory," Tass said

The cosmonauts, recently said to be suffering from "sensory deprivation," returned to earth more than a month short of the U.S. space endurance record They also failed to equal the longest Soviet stay in space

Tass said they completed "the planned working program onboard the station" Monday and on Tuesday "prepared the Soyuz 21 delivery ship for undocking and descent to earth and transferred the materials of scientific research to the descent module "

The cosmonauts separated their spaceship from the Salyut station at 6.12 a.m. Moscow time (12 12 a m CDT), Tass said The spaceship's braking engine was switched on and then shut off to free the descent module and propel it into the descent trajectory

Cushioned by its parachute system, the descent module "landed smoothly," Tass said.

The cosmonauts rocketed into Earth orbit July 6 and docked with the Salyut the next day.

By returning to Earth at the end of their 49th day, their stay was far short of the American record for a sojourn in space, 84 days by three astronauts in the Skylab program The longest Soviet stay was 63 days by two cosmonauts aboard the Salyut 4 station a year ago

Tass announced earlier Tuesday "the flight of the crew of the orbital scientific station is nearing completion "

Tass said the cosmonauts provided "extensive and valuable scientific information" on physical characteristics of the terrestrial atmosphere and of the sun.

It said the cosmonauts studied the surface of the Earth "in the interests of different branches of science and the national economy" and photographed vast areas of Soviet territory.

The flight program also included studies of the effects of weightlessness on physical processes and performance of technological operations, examined responses of human organisms to prolonged space flight and successfully tested news systems and instruments, Tass said.

The agency said Salyut 5 continued to orbit on autopilot and all its systems "are performing normally "

The Tass announcement gave no suggestion the mission was curtailed and said: "The entire program has been fulfilled completely. Qualitatively new results of scientific and technical research have been obtained."

Repeated reports said the men felt physically well, but the government newspaper Izvestia reported one week ago they were suffering a psychological condition it called "a state of sensory deprivation, a sort of sensory hunger."

Izvestia said at the time the cosmonauts were smelling, hearing and feeling temperature fluctuations "in a more intense way."

They also were asking more and more frequently for news from earth, the newspaper said On the advice of psychologists, ground control gave them the news and played music during communications sessions

Philadelphia Commissioners Reject Recall

Philadelphia (UPI) — The city commissioners, after nine weeks of studying more than 200,000 signatures, Tuesday rejected a petition to recall controversial Mayor Frank L Rizzo.

Following two hours of heated debate, the three commissioners — two Democrats and a Republican — voted 2-1 to dismiss the petition as invalid under provisions of the city charter.

An appeal to Common Pleas Court was expected

After the announcement, as he was leaving City Hall, Rizzo said: "I'm pleased I'm pleased to hear that I'll be the mayor for a while."

Chairwoman Margaret Tartaglione, a Democrat, and Commissioner John Kane, a Republican, voted to reject 122,296 signatures that had been gathered since April 17 by the Citizens Committee to Recall Rizzo. Under the charter, 145,448 signatures, one quarter of the vote in Rizzo's election, were required to force a recall vote. The commissioners received the petitions June 15

Commissioner Eugene Maier, a Democrat like Rizzo, but not considered a supporter of the mayor, voted against the ruling.

Maier called the validating procedure as "the greatest display of stonewalling, stalling and arrogant abuses of power since the Watergate episode."

He charged Mrs Tartaglione and City Solicitor Sheldon Albert of "attempting to discredit and invalidate the recall petitions."

Gregory M Harvey, attorney for the recall committee, said his findings revealed there were at least 157,000 valid signatures.

"This is exactly as we expected it would occur," Harvey said "We will take appropraite legal procedures" as soon as the committee divulges which signatures were invalidated and on what grounds

He said he was confident the recall would be on the November ballot

But the likelihood of a series of court hearings made it doubtful the matter would be settled by then.

Kane said they had relied on the city legal department — Albert's solicitors office — for guidance on validating the petitions.

"It is clear to me that I, as a city commissioner, am bound by the opinion of the city solicitor and I am required to follow his advice unless directed by a court to do otherwise."

The 145,448 figure represents 25% of those who voted in the last mayoralty election.

The Citizens Committee to Recall Rizzo sought the 145,448 signatures to force Rizzo to resign within 10 days or face a "yes-no" election on the November ballot.

The recall committee started its campaign in the spring after the city announced it faced an $80 million budget deficit for the current fiscal year and needed to raise taxes.

The movement gained impetus when construction members, loyal to the mayor, blocked off the Philadelphia Inquirer Building a few days after Rizzo filed a $6 million libel suit against the newspaper.

Under the provisions of the city charter, the commissioners had 15 days after receiving the petitions last June 15 to determine their validity, but Savitt granted two extensions.

U.N. Command, N. Korea Will Meet On Wednesday

Panmunjom, South Korea (UPI) — The U N Command and North Korea Tuesday agreed to meet in this truce village on Wednesday to get Communist guarantees for the safety of U S soldiers inside the 2½-mile demilitarized zone separating the two Koreas.

Agreement on the meeting, requested by President Ford, followed a U.S. policy switch on North Korea's message expressing regret for the ax murders of two Americans in the neutral zone last week.

South Korean officials privately deplored the U S comment that North Korea's latest announcement was "a positive step " They said the North Korean move reflected the Communists' desire to open a channel of dialogue with Washington and sideline the Seoul government

The meeting, the 380th since the Korean armistice was signed in 1953, was scheduled for 4 p m Wednesday (2 a m CDT) in this neutral village about 30 miles north of Seoul

The meeting originally was to be held Tuesday, but North Korea asked for a one-day delay at the last minute and the U N Command accepted the Communist proposal

Senate OKs $1 Billion For Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a bill Tuesday providing an additional $1 billion subsidy for the debt-ridden Postal Service and temporarily barring postal rate increases and service cutbacks. The vote was 79-9.

Designed as a stop-gap measure, it also provides for appointment of a special commission to examine postal problems and submit recommendations by Feb. 15, 1977.

A substitute measure by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., to reimpose congressional control over the Postal Service's budget was rejected by a vote of 56-26.

The bill now goes to conference with the House.

Last October the House passed a measure that, as Hollings proposed, would require the Postal Service to come to Congress each year to get an appropration.

The Senate bill is backed by the Ford administration, except for one amendment adopted Monday, but Hollings predicted it would be unacceptable to the House.

However, Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Post Office Committee said that the legislation advocated by Hollings would face certain presidential veto

McGee said the Senate measure offered the only hope of stabilizing the Postal Service's financial situation until next year. Then, he said, Congress will have to take a new look at what should be done.

Before passage of the bill, the Senate defeated 82-6 an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to permit the delivery of first-class mail by private companies.

It also rejected, 79-9, another Helms amendment to permit citizens to sue the government for damages for delays or misdelivery of mail.

The only amendment adopted over the administration's objection, offered Monday by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., would make it more difficult for the Postal Service to close or consolidate post offices.

Hollings' bill, like one passed by the House last October, would have required the Postal Service to get an appropriation from Congress each year just as the old Post Office Department did.

Under a 1970 reorganization act, the Postal Service was established outside the regular Congressional budget process and was intended to operate under a board of governors, much like a private corporation.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, led the fight against Hollings' proposal.

He said that such "a radical revision" of the Postal Reorganization Act would be vetoed by President Ford and the result "would be disastrous for the Postal Service in view of its financial crisis."

McGee's committee has recommended a bill that would pump an additional $1 billion subsidy into the Postal Service over the next two years and establish a commission to report by Feb. 15, 1977, on postal problems.

Pending submission of the commission's report, postal rates would be frozen and service cutbacks would be prohibited.

Hollings' substitute also provided for $1 billion in additional subsidies and an even longer moratorium on rate increases or service reductions, until Oct. 1, 1977.

It would also have abolished the Postal Service's Board of Governors and made the Postmaster General subject to Senate confirmation.

Hollings emphasized that it did not call for a return to political appointments of postmasters nor to postal-rate setting by Congress.

After the defeat of Hollings' substitute, Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican vice presidential nominee, offered two amendments opposed by the Ford administration.

One would have required that one of the four presidential appointees to the proposed postal commission be a representative of consumers.

Dole withdrew this amendment after he and McGee agreed that this should be urged on the President but that his hands in making appointments should not be tied by the legislation.

His other amendment would have extended the life of the study commission to Sept. 30 of next year and barred any postal rate increases or service cutbacks in that period. This was defeated.

McGee, in arguing against Hollings' substitute bill, said that Congress should not attempt basic changes in the postal system in the closing days of an election-year Congress.

He said the whole subject could and should be thoroughly examined next year after the proposed study commission has submitted its recommendations.

McGee also said that annual appropriation od postal funds "would create a nightmare of uncertainty in postal budgeting and rate-making and the Postal Service would be unable to enter into good fatih collective bargaining with its employes.

Americans Admit Smuggling Heroin Into U.S.S.R.

Moscow (UPI) — Three American men, one a self-confessed drug addict, pleaded guilty in a Moscow court Tuesday to charges of trying to smuggle an estimated $2 million worth of heroin through the Soviet Union for a group of Chinese.

The defendants, who face up to 10 years in prison if convicted, were the first U.S. citizens since 1968 to stand trial in a Soviet court. They admitted acting as paid couriers, but claimed they had no idea how much heroin was involved.

Gerald Amster, 33, of New York City, Paul Brawer, 31, of Las Vegas, Nev., and Dennis Robert Burn, 26, of Whitestone, New York, appeared before a three-judge panel that included a woman. Their case was expected to be concluded Wednesday.

They have been in custody since June 27 when Moscow Airport customs inspectors discovered 62 pounds of "brown sugar" heroin beneath false bottoms in their suitcases.

At the time the men were enroute from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, to Paris via Moscow aboard the Soviet airline, Aeroflot, because they said they thought airport security was lax in Moscow.

Western experts said the high grade heroin — up to 60% pure — could have brought $2 million on the street in the West.

About 40 persons, most of them Western newsmen and only a few Soviet citizens, were present in the courtroom. The three were represented by Soviet attorneys.

Amster, who testified he was seriously addicted to heroin for the past four months, said he and Burn were approached in Amsterdam in June by a Chinese man identified as David Lee, who proposed they work as drug couriers "because "Caucasians are not as suspect as Orientals." To make it a trio, Amster said he telephone Brawer who flew to Amsterdam from New York after hearing of the "all expenses paid vacation."

On June 21 the three left for Kuala Lumpur to pick up the heroin, after the Chinese promised a payment of $3,750 each plus the right to buy some of it.

Amster said a Chinese couple in Malaysia gave them more heroin than they had counted on.

"We had no idea whatsoever of the amount of heroin involved," he said. "We were told in advance the amount would be nowhere near this. I didn't weigh it, but it was a lot. So we were tricked by the Chinese . . They tricked us."

Brawer smiled and winked at correspondents and at one point pulled a sandwich from his pocket and munched on it as Amster spoke. Burn alone showed little emotion.

Rep. Howe Convicted On Sex Charge Again

Salt Lake City (UPI) — Rep. Allan Howe, D-Utah, Tuesday was convicted a second time on charges he offered to pay two women police decoys for sex acts.

A 3rd District Court jury of five men and three women deliberated 22 minutes before returning their verdict to end a two-day appeal trial.

Judge Bryan Croft set Wednesday for sentencing on the misdemeanor charges.

Howe testified earlier that he had only a friendly chat with the two decoys and denied charges he sought sex acts from them.

Howe took the stand in own defense at an appeals trial to describe as "a complete fabrication" the testimony of special officers who said he had solicited sex acts.

With his wife and five children looking on from the crowded courtroom, the freshman Democrat told his version of what happened the night of June 12 — a story he had been promising to tell since the day after his arrest.

Howe said that at a dance following the Salt Lake County Democratic Convention he accepted an invitation to speak to a political gathering in a home on the city's West Side.

The invitation, he said, came from a man whom he did not know. Howe told the jury he did not remember the name of the person who extended the invitation.

Howe said he was told a car would meet him at a parking lot and lead him to the gathering.

The congressman said when he pulled into the parking lot he saw two women sitting in the car. Rolling down his car window, he said, "Hello there, are you the people to take me to the party."

The two women giggled, he said, and then Officer Margret Hamblin sarcastically said, "Sure, we'll take you to a party."

He said she asked, "Aren't you Congressman Howe?"

Both decoys testified Monday they did not recognize Howe the night of the arrest.

Howe said he then asked them, "Where have I seen you before?"

Miss Hamboin replied, "We're security guards over at the airport and we've seen you there."

Howe said it dawned on him that the two were police decoys

"I couldn't resist at that point following it up," Howe said. He added that he had heard about the decoy program and was "curious to know what happened when people came there."

He said he discussed their work but never mentioned any specific sex acts or offered them money. The only mention of currency he said was his question, "What is the going price? Something like $15 or $20."

The decoys testified that Howe offered them $20.

Howe said, after the conversation he had apparently missed the person he was suppose to meet and was leaving. He said Miss Hamblin told him, "You've blown our cover. We've got to go too". Then the women drove off.

After another look around the parking lot for his contact to the political meeting, Howe said he left for home.

He said when he was pulled over by police three blocks away, "I was in a total state of shock."

Senate OKs $1 Billion For Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a bill Tuesday providing an additional $1 billion subsidy for the debt-ridden Postal Service and temporarily barring postal rate increases and service cutbacks. The vote was 79-9.

Designed as a stop-gap measure, it also provides for appointment of a special commission to examine postal problems and submit recommendations by Feb. 15, 1977.

A substitute measure by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., to reimpose congressional control over the Postal Service's budget was rejected by a vote of 58-26.

The bill now goes to conference with the House.

Last October the House passed a measure that, as Hollings proposed, would require the Postal Service to come to Congress each year to get an appropration.

The Senate bill is backed by the Ford administration, except for one amendment adopted Monday, but Hollings predicted it would be unacceptable to the House.

However, Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Post Office Committee said that the legislation advocated by Hollings would face certain presidential veto.

McGee said the Senate measure offered the only hope of stabilizing the Postal Service's financial situation until next year. Then, he said, Congress will have to take a new look at what should be done.

Before passage of the bill, the Senate defeated 82-6 an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to permit the delivery of first-class mail by private companies.

It also rejected, 79-9, another Helms amendment to permit citizens to sue the government for damages for delays or misdelivery of mail.

The only amendment adopted over the administration's objection, offered Monday by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., would make it more difficult for the Postal Service to close or consolidate post offices.

Hollings' bill, like one passed by the House last October, would have required the Postal Service to get an appropriation from Congress each year just as the old Post Office Department did.

Under a 1970 reorganization act, the Postal Service was established outside the regular Congressional budget process and was intended to operate under a board of governors, much like a private corporation.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, led the fight against Hollings' proposal.

He said that such "a radical revision" of the Postal Reorganization Act would be vetoed by President Ford and the result "would be disastrous for the Postal Service in view of its financial crisis."

McGee's committee has recommended a bill that would pump an additional $1 billion subsidy into the Postal Service over the next two years and establish a commission to report by Feb. 15, 1977, on postal problems.

Pending submission of the commission's report, postal rates would be frozen and service cutbacks would be prohibited.

Hollings' substitute also provided for $1 billion in additional subsidies and an even longer moratorium on rate increases or service reductions, until Oct. 1, 1977.

It would also have abolished the Postal Service's Board of Governors and made the Postmaster General subject to Senate confirmation.

Hollings emphasized that it did not call for a return to political appointments of postmasters nor to postal-rate setting by Congress.

After the defeat of Hollings' substitute, Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican vice presidential nominee, offered two amendments opposed by the Ford administration.

One would have required that one of the four presidential appointees to the proposed postal commission be a representative of consumers.

Dole withdrew this amendment after he and McGee agreed that this should be urged on the President but that his hands in making appointments should not be tied by the legislation.

His other amendment would have extended the life of the study commission to Sept. 30 of next year and barred any postal rate increases or service cutbacks in that period. This was defeated.

McGee, in arguing against Hollings' substitute bill, said that Congress should not attempt basic changes in the postal system in the closing days of an election-year Congress.

He said the whole subject could and should be thoroughly examined next year after the proposed study commission has submitted its recommendations.

McGee also said that annual appropriation od postal funds "would create a nightmare of uncertainty in postal budgeting and rate-making and the Postal Service would be unable to enter into good fatih collective bargaining with its employes.

Rep. Howe Convicted On Sex Charge Again

Salt Lake City (UPI) — Rep. Allan Howe, D-Utah, Tuesday was convicted a second time on charges he offered to pay two women police decoys for sex acts.

A 3rd District Court jury of five men and three women deliberated 22 minutes before returning their verdict to end a two-day appeal trial.

Forced Retirement Opposed

Birds of a feather, that's what Charley Thone and Eric Sevareid are. They see eye to eye.

Not on everything, understand. But they are in agreement on at least one item. retirement age

Sevareid, CBS' resident wise man, will turn 65 next year and faces forced retirement from the network. According to the Christian Science Monitor, he doesn't like the idea a bit, but probably won't force the issue with CBS brass and the chairman of the board — who himself is over 65.

It does seem a tremendous waste to forcibly retire people when they reach an arbitrary chronological age, especially when they are still alert, self-sufficient and productive.

Sevareid is a case in point. You may not always agree with his pontifical insights, but it has to be admitted he is not too dotty to remain on the air.

Thone, the Republican House member from Nebraska's First District, also opposes forced retirement, and says it should be eliminated and replaced with tests measuring the loss of physical and mental alertness

The number of Americans over the age of 65 is increasing at a fast rate and will double in about 45 years, Thone notes.

With even greater numbers of people who still retain their productive powers being forcibly put out to pasture, with the resulting loss of income production, an even greater burden will be falling on the young and middle-aged.

Says Thone: "The federal government should lead the way in replacing the practice of an abrupt change from full-time work to full-time leisure. Senior citizens ought to be allowed to go through a phased-in retirement . . . We must stop forcing them (senior citizens) to retire at a chronological age."

Thone is absolutely right.

The waste of older Americans' talent is extravagant.

Mandatory retirement ages might have made some sense when they were put into effect, but like most arbitrary rules, they prove to be too rigid. With more and more people living well past 65, this country might be developing an entire, separate potential work force which will be doing little of a productive nature

It's time for the public and private sectors to rethink forced retirement where it exists.

Protecting The Capitol

Opposition to proposed building height restrictions now before the Lincoln City Council is perfectly understandable.

Property owners who had invested in land in the Capitol Building area with the idea of undertaking high-rise construction in the future may find such a speculative venture short-circuited by new and lower building height maximums which are now being considered as a device to keep Nebraska's Capitol in the state of relatively splendid isolation it now enjoys.

It would have been better had the city or the state ringed the capitol environs with such protective zoning years ago.

But such was not the case and recent developments point out that existing building height limitations are not sufficient to keep other buildings from competing with the Capitol.

The Nebraska Capitol is significant enough and renowned enough that competition with other buildings should be avoided.

Moreover, the building is the property — and pride — of all the people of Lincoln and the state and preserving its esthetic setting must be of higher priority than the success of a limited number of private speculative ventures.

Either the city or the state must act to erase the errors made by governmental inaction with regard to the protection of the capitol and its environs

A zone of more restrictive building heights around the capitol is necessary to maintain its integrity and premier place on the Lincoln skyline

Surely the Lincoln council understands its obligations to the people of Lincoln and the entire state.

The proposed restrictions should be enacted now until such time as they may be judged to be too severe.

The Biggest Of Big Government

"NOPE, NONE OF OUR BUSINESS — NEITHER OF THEM SEEMED TO BE MEMBERS OF THE SOCIALIST WORKERS PARTY"

NEW YORK — Republican oratory at Kansas City and the Republican platform adopted at the national convention seemed to leave no doubt at all that the Grand Old Party and the Ford-Dole ticket were opposed to "Big Government." But are they? A leisurely perusal of the platform confirms one man's memory of most of the oratory; there was no opposition in Kansas City to the biggest government of all — government by snoops, spooks, taps and plumbers

Oh, there's a little lip service here — "Government must protect your constitutional rights," says the platform preamble grudgingly — and a little doubletalk there — "We do care about your basic freedom to manage your own life with a minimum of government interference."

There is also a warning against abuse of federal data banks, and some good words about privacy of financial records, but in the official Republican Party platform for 1976, year of the Bicentennial, there is not a single mention of Watergate

There is no reference whatever to the documented and confessed misdeeds of the Central Intelligence Agency, at home or abroad Reading this historic document, no American need ever reflect that the Federal Bureau of Investigation not only did numerous bag jobs on orders from above, but also lied about these practices to its own director, or that the FBI attempted to push the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr to commit suicide, or that the bureau is now being investigated for pervasive internal corruption

In view of the fact that a platform is a political document, it may be excusable that the Republicans omitted discussion of Richard M Nixon and the Watergate case — although the essence of the Watergate matter was that through burglaries, wiretaps dirty tricks, illegal cash and outright perjury, the Nixon administration not only tried to circumvent constitutional processes but to obstruct justice in concealing its malefactions

That's not the kind of thing any party likes to discuss in its own platform — the Democrats didn't bring up Elizabeth Ray or Judith Exner — but it's bigger government than most Nixon voters bargained for when they gave him his landslide in 1972. (So, in all probability, was the singlehanded decision of the unelected Gerald Ford to pardon the unprosecuted Nixon, another piece of big government not denounced in the GOP platform).

But what excuse do the Republicans have for taking no notice of the CIA and the FBI — save for pledges to restore "the effectiveness of the intelligence community" and help it keep its secrets — in a platform otherwise reeking with pious opposition to big government? Most of the transgressions of these agencies were not directly chargeable to the Republicans; they apparently occurred with as much enthusiasm and as little control under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations as under the Nixon-Agnew-Ford administration

Why shouldn't a party opposed to big government denounce illegal mail openings? Why isn't unwarranted wiretapping as much an invasion of "your basic freedom to manage your own life" as a judge's busing order? Who is kidding whom about the need for "less government" when nothing is said about the CIA's conducting illicit surveillances of thousands of Americans, or the FBI disrupting political organizations and harassing political dissenters?

I put such questions to a conservative friend at the Kansas City convention and he replied a little defensively: "Oh, I suppose our people think things like that are necessary for national security "

No doubt that's it, because despite Republican opposition to big government, the party's platform also calls for a "major modernization program for our strategic missile and bomber forces, the development of a new intercontinental ballistic missile, a new missile-launching submarine force and a modern bomber — the B1 . a major ship-building program new fighters and interceptor aircraft for the Air Force, Navy and Marines "

The platform does not explain how the party will provide these massive forces through "less government, less spending." Can it be that the Republicans really are not opposed to big government as such, but are dedicated rather to this proposition from the second paragraph of their platform. "In other words, we want you to retain more of your own money to use as you see fit "

Maybe to buy privacy with — or free speech, or political dissent or even unopened mail

Trying To Make It On Our Own

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

NEW YORK — Assuming the impossible that the next president really can "get the government off our backs," what would life be like for an average person suddenly free of all federal bondage and protection?

Just thinking about it is enough to boggle the mind. Because, although everybody nowadays is anti-Washington (or says he is), the bureaucracy is so vast it's like outer space you know it's there, but you can't comprehend how big it really is

Obviously there are some things we couldn't kick cold turkey, no matter what they cost We'd always need people to handle national defense, although probably not the 3 1 million we pay to do it now And, no matter how tempting, it might not be smart to close up Congress right away Or the Supreme Court

But, just for fun, let's say somebody really got in there and weeded out all the other Big Brother stuff, leaving us strictly on our own. Could we handle it? Could we even get through a single day?

My first sound of freedom, at this time of year, anyway, would ring out with the alarm clock With no government-ordered daylight savings time, I could sleep an hour later if I wanted to. As it happens, I like DST, but now it would be my decision, not Uncle Sam's

Coping with breakfast would bring on mixed feelings Totally free enterprise might make the grapefruit and eggs cheaper but with no more food regulators around to count rat hairs and chemical additives, we might have to get used to eating only fresh foods

With private business running the postal service, though, we might get to do what they used to do in the movies. read the morning mail at breakfast Instead of after lunch

Old Dad would catch a commuter train run strictly by a profit-making corporation unregulated and unsupported by the government Chances are the fare would go up, but if the trains ran on time it might be worth it And he could pay the increase directly, instead of sending more tax money to Washington

At the office he could wheel and deal as he pleased, with no government watchdogs looking over his shoulder to make sure he followed the anti-trust rules, hired the right minorities, deducted the right taxes from paychecks and filled out his quota of government forms in triplicate.

At home we'd be spending more time with the budget, since the biggest change brought on by our new freedom would be financial. Or, as one lawmaker puts it, "You can't get the federal government off your back until you get your hand out of its pocket "

That means no more Social Security pensions no Medicare or Medicaid no federal welfare or food stamps or subsidized housing and no special grants for research, education, etc , etc , etc

This is a multi-billion-dollar tab, and not all of it can be picked up by state and local governments As individuals, we'll be responsible not only for our own sunset years, but for the support of aging parents and handicapped children

That's going to put a big bite in many a family bank account On the other hand, Social Security taxes wouldn't be coming out of the paycheck any more

Critics of our bloated bureaucracy say we'll have the money to handle it, once we shrink the government down to manageable size

(As of now, five million people, or one in every 43, draw federal paychecks for an annual total of almost $42 billion. This means that, in the past 185 years when the population multiplied 53 times, the number of federal workers increased 1,500 times.)

Presumably, getting the government out of our lives would mean less federal spending, which would mean lower taxes, which would leave us more cash to do for ourselves

Whether we would or not is something else to think about

Trouble is, we'll never get the chance to find out New presidents always promise to streamline the bureaucracy and cut down on spending, but once on the job it never fails They hire even more people and spend even more money

And that must be the way we want it Why else do we keep dumping all our problems on Big Brother's doorstep?

Wouldn't it be good to hear thunder roar again and to see lightning flash as rain poured from the clouds, watering the parched earth and closing the large cracks It might be too late to help many growing things, but it would still be good for others Trees and shrubs and flowers, as well as man, have to have water to live

Trees need a great deal of water When the ground freezes and exposes the roots to the cold, they will die We should water our trees well in the fall and mulch them with dirt or barnyard manure if it is available.

We should all take care of our trees A good tree is worth $800 any place

I am writing to protest the City Council budget cut of 10 men from the Fire Department, and also the possible reductions made to accomplish this Is it possible that the loss of 10 fire-fighters to a city of this size is not a tragedy? I hope all thinking people will ask themselves if the present early response isn't the reason for our city's good record in preventing fire loss and survival in medical emergencies

I am particularly concerned that the City of Lincoln may not spread the additional risk equally throughout the city, requiring all engines to operate short of manpower for full protection part of the time, since the first response that can be made in those early minutes is so crucial, whether it is a fire or a medical emergency

What if the decision is made for only one section of the city to face a dramatic loss of fire protection, thereby allowing the rest of the city to be adequately covered? Northeast Lincoln has had two engines and a truck company since the 1920's Over the years there has been a dramatic growth here, as all over Lincoln, and no additional fire-fighters have been added to this area since the 1920's I am thinking specifically of the industrial growth along Cornhusker Highway, the Havelock shops, Goodyear, and especially the highly hazardous Archer-Daniels, Midland Could they possibly consider leaving this entire area with one engine company instead of the two they have had for 50 years? How many extra minutes would it take for other stations to provide response to calls in this area when the first engine is already in use?

If any engine is taken out of use to accomplish this foolhardy reduction of fire-fighters, let it be an engine which according to past records has had the least use Our engines will always be there in that case

We hope The Star will help to insure that the people of Northeast Lincoln do not have to face a 50% reduction in order to assure protection to the rest of the city where the City Council members live Without such help to generate enough information for the rest of the people to see what is being done, we will again need to bear the brunt of any lack of services

The 'Why' Of It

Why do I want to preserve Wilderness Park as it is now instead of passively accepting the proposed highway plans? Because Wilderness Park was designed to preserve wildlife as it really should be — free and wild. Every human intrusion detracts a little from the established balance of nature

Then why am I so anxious to preserve a day care camp that specializes in human activities? Because having an area of this park dedicated to children learning about wildlife and the balance of nature helps them learn to preserve for tomorrow the values and ideals that are so likely to be thrown away today

Can't the kids go somewhere else (another park or wilderness area) and learn the same things? I suppose to some degree they could, BUT

Should we at every opportunity teach our children that whatever the government bureaucrats want should be accepted without question? Should we teach them to live for today without thought for tomorrow? Should we teach them that plants animals and people can always be pushed aside a little because immediate selfish needs are always more important than respecting the rights of others — human or otherwise? (Remember the Indians, slaves, passenger pigeons, decimated forests, polluted streams, endangered species, ad infinitum ad nauseum)

Who's to say that what is right for one or two is ultimately right for all?

Why do I want to preserve Wilderness Park as it is now instead of passively accepting the proposed highway plans? Laws On Chemicals

Lincoln, Neb

Legislation to test and control potentially dangerous chemicals may get approved in Congress this week — thanks to the strong support of a broad range of consumer, environmental, labor and civic groups — and no thanks to John McCollister McCollister's Douglas County was shown to have a cancer death rate in the upper 10% nationally and it is now accepted that most cancer in humans — 60% to 90% — is caused by environmental factors From these two facts, one would hope that he would represent his district by supporting a law to require pre-market testing of selected chemicals Instead, he led the attempt to weaken it

McCollister explains his position by saying he is protecting small business But some officials or committees of very big business have taken an interest in his Senate race, including the following petrochemical firms who made donations of from $100 to $500 to his Senate campaign fund Standard Oil of California, ASARCO (American Smelting), DuPont, Olin, Standard Oil of Indiana, American Cyanamid, and Union Carbide Coincidence, perhaps

It took us 20 years or more to learn about the effects of substances like kepone and polyvinyl chloride Fortunately, we need wait only until November to do something about the danger McCollister poses to public health

Bullied By Police

Boston, Mass

While visiting Lincoln, I had an experience unfortunately reminiscent of the police brutality which has poisoned so many of our great American cities As incredible as it may seem, I was actually followed home by an officer of the Lincoln police force after receiving a ticket for — dare I say it! — allowing dogs to run at large in a city park The officer was rude, abrasive and ended his tirade by warning my companion never to show her face in a city park again

Granted, I was at fault for allowing my dogs to run at large in a city park Nevertheless, I found the officer's extreme reaction frightening

I enjoyed my stay in Lincoln, a lovely city, but it certainly was shocking to be bullied by an officer of the law in such a manner

Forced Retirement Opposed

Birds of a feather, that's what Charley Thone and Eric Sevareid are. They see eye to eye.

Not on everything, understand. But they are in agreement on at least one item: retirement age.

Sevareid, CBS' resident wise man, will turn 65 next year and faces forced retirement from the network. According to the Christian Science Monitor, he doesn't like the idea a bit, but probably won't force the issue with CBS brass and the chairman of the board — who himself is over 65.

It does seem a tremendous waste to forcibly retire people when they reach an arbitrary chronological age, especially when they are still alert, self-sufficient and productive.

Sevareid is a case in point. You may not always agree with his pontifical insights, but it has to be admitted he is not too dotty to remain on the air.

Thone, the Republican House member from Nebraska's First District, also opposes forced retirement, and says it should be eliminated and replaced with tests measuring the loss of physical and mental alertness.

The number of Americans over the age of 65 is increasing at a fast rate and will double in about 45 years, Thone notes.

With even greater numbers of people who still retain their productive powers being forcibly put out to pasture, with the resulting loss of income production, an even greater burden will be falling on the young and middle-aged.

Says Thone: "The federal government should lead the way in replacing the practice of an abrupt change from full-time work to full-time leisure. Senior citizens ought to be allowed to go through a phased-in retirement . . . We must stop forcing them (senior citizens) to retire at a chronological age."

Thone is absolutely right.

The waste of older Americans' talent is extravagant.

Mandatory retirement ages might have made some sense when they were put into effect, but like most arbitrary rules, they prove to be too rigid. With more and more people living well past 65, this country might be developing an entire, separate potential work force which will be doing little of a productive nature.

It's time for the public and private sectors to rethink forced retirement where it exists.

Protecting The Capitol

Opposition to proposed building height restrictions now before the Lincoln City Council is perfectly understandable.

Property owners who had invested in land in the Capitol Building area with the idea of undertaking high-rise construction in the future may find such a speculative venture short-circuited by new and lower building height maximums which are now being considered as a device to keep Nebraska's Capitol in the state of relatively splendid isolation it now enjoys.

It would have been better had the city or the state ringed the capitol environs with such protective zoning years ago.

But such was not the case and recent developments point out that existing building height limitations are not sufficient to keep other buildings from competing with the Capitol.

The Nebraska Capitol is significant enough and renowned enough that competition with other buildings should be avoided.

Laws On Chemicals

Lincoln, Neb.

Legislation to test and control potentially dangerous chemicals may get approved in Congress this week — thanks to the strong support of a broad range of consumer, environmental, labor and civic groups — and no thanks to John McCollister. McCollister's Douglas County was shown to have a cancer death rate in the upper 10% nationally and it is now accepted that most cancer in humans — 60% to 90% — is caused by environmental factors. From these two facts, one would hope that he would represent his district by supporting a law to require pre-market testing of selected chemicals. Instead, he led the attempt to weaken it.

McCollister explains his position by saying he is protecting small business. But some officials or committees of very big business have taken an interest in his Senate race, including the following petrochemical firms who made donations of from $100 to $500 to his Senate campaign fund: Standard Oil of California, ASARCO (American Smelting), DuPont, Olin, Standard Oil of Indiana, American Cyanamid, and Union Carbide. Coincidence, perhaps.

It took us 20 years or more to learn about the effects of substances like kepone and polyvinyl chloride. Fortunately, we need wait only until November to do something about the danger McCollister poses to public health.

Bullied By Police

Boston, Mass.

While visiting Lincoln, I had an experience unfortunately reminiscent of the police brutality which has poisoned so many of our great American cities. As incredible as it may seem, I was actually followed home by an officer of the Lincoln police force after receiving a ticket for — dare I say it! — allowing dogs to run at large in a city park. The officer was rude, abrasive and ended his tirade by warning my companion never to show her face in a city park again.

Granted, I was at fault for allowing my dogs to run at large in a city park. Nevertheless, I found the officer's extreme reaction frightening.

I enjoyed my stay in Lincoln, a lovely city, but it certainly was shocking to be bullied by an officer of the law in such a manner.

South African Economy Depends On Black Workers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Attempts by black militants in Soweto township outside Johannesburg to stage a mass job boycott underlines the crucial role played by black labor in South Africa's white-run economy

The nation's four million whites, who enjoy one of the highest standards of living in the world, heavily depend on blacks at all levels of the economy

Deep underground, in the mines that tunnel under the skyscrapers of Johannesburg, black labor each year produces tons of gold totaling half the world s annual supply The precious metal is one of South Africa's chief exports

Blacks keep the country's factory production lines running and are the backbone of the harbors, the railways, the construction industry and agriculture

They serve as clerks domestic servants, gardeners, messengers chauffeurs, mailmen, garbage collectors and bus drivers

Blacks touch virtually every facet of white society, which has come to depend on them for the comfortable life style dubbed "the traditional South African way of life

The latest available statistics show blacks make up almost 71 per cent of the nation's labor force, which means that of a work force of 9.2 million people, 6 4 million are blacks

As one black recently put it in an interview: "This is the most modern industrial economy in Africa and without us it could never have been done"

In 1974, the mining sector, for example, employed 89,105 whites and 638,943 blacks. In the public sector in 1974 there were 458,842 white employes and 586,111 blacks. In the clothing industry in 1975, there were 9,500 whites but 38,400 blacks. The same year the textile industry employed 8,600 whites and 67,000 blacks

According to one private study in 1970, blacks made up the following percentages of the labor force· agriculture 90 per cent, mining 89 6 per cent, manufacturing 50 per cent, construction and energy production 59 8 per cent, trade 38 6 per cent, transport 41 4 per cent and services 67 7 per cent

A growing shortage of skilled white labor has forced the architects of apartheid, or "separate development" of the races, to concede their mounting need for skilled blacks

It has been impossible to determine exactly how many blacks are participating in the partial job boycott by Soweto blacks, either voluntarily or under threat by its promoters

Tens of thousands of blacks appear to be involved but it is doubtful that more than 150,000 of the 250,000 daily black commuters from Soweto to Johannesburg have taken part so far

That assessment is based on rough estimates of the number of commuter trains canceled and informal polls of companies reporting absenteeism

Some factories have reported absenteeism as high as 80 per cent and if the boycott is sustained the work stoppage could cripple some companies Several hotels have had to ask guests to make their own beds because black chambermaids did not show up for work

Production in some factories has been affected, and the absence of black clerks and messengers has disrupted the normal flow of business communication in the city

But the unrest has not extended to the gold mines, which have separate housing facilities for black workers If the boycott spreads to the mines — and there is no indication yet that it will — it could have repercussions in the gold industry.

Most observers, however, believe the boycott in Soweto will not last long for several reasons

Economists note that unofficial estimates put the current number of blacks out of work in South Africa's recession-ridden economy at about two million

And many blacks now holding jobs are wary of losing the income they now enjoy no matter how opposed they may be to the government's race policies, the economists say

Zulu Tribesmen Kill Militant Black Enforcers

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — Hundreds of Zulu tribesmen armed with clubs and knives and chanting war songs rampaged through the black township of Soweto Tuesday, killing at least six black militants trying to enforce a work boycott, witnesses said.

Police said five persons had died in violence in the township since it started Monday. A spokesman said, one black was shot and killed by police and four were assault victims. A police spokesman would not confirm any deaths were caused by the Zulu tribesmen.

Hospital sources at the all-black Baragwanath Hospital near Soweto, south of Johannesburg, said about 90 persons had been treated for injuries from the violence.

Police said groups of Zulu vigilantes escorted black commuters from trains and buses when they returned from Johannesburg The Zulus, the majority tribe among the one million inhabitants of Soweto, clashed repeatedly with the strike gangs, police said

Witnesses said the violence was sparked off when a group of blacks tried to set fire to a Zulu boardinghouse and the tribesmen, chanting war songs, retaliated

They said some Zulus attacked homes and smashed cars and many residents fled the area

The six victims were members of black gangs roaming the segregated township for the second day to enforce a three-day strike at Johannesburg factories. They intimidated workers returning from their jobs and threatened to burn down their homes, witnesses said

In another incident, a spokesman for the South African Railways that serves Soweto said an object placed on the tracks derailed six empty passenger coaches

Witnesses said crowds of blacks tried to set fire to the coaches and police used gunfire to break them up

Police said four bodies were found in Soweto Tuesday, all assault victims, but they could not confirm that all four were killed by black vigilantes. In addition, police reported Tuesday that a sharpshooter picked out a black "ringleader" and shot him dead during racial rioting Monday in Soweto

Police said by late Tuesday the violence had subsided in most areas and they had the situation under control

Police said two houses were set on fire and two schools burned down in Soweto Tuesday. Witnesses said one of the homes was set ablaze by a group of blacks because the owner had defied the strike call

The Johannesburg daily, The Star, said according to unconfirmed reports seven blacks were killed by worker vigilante committees formed to protect themselves from intimidators The report could not be independently confirmed

'Progress' Made In Desegregation

Washington (UPI) — "Substantial progress" is being made in desegregating the nation s schools, the Civil Rights Commission said Tuesday although it concluded that both President Ford and some members of Congress are impeding the process

"If the goal of eliminating racial discrimination is to be met, the commission said in a 315-page report, "Leaders at the national, state and local levels must accept the fact that desegregation of the nation s schools is a constitutional imperative"

Reporting on a 10-month nationwide study, the commission said there was no evidence that desegregation caused "white flight from the cities to the suburbs

There is one conclusion that stands out above all others· desegregation works, ' it said

The report said local school and civic officials are dependent on the tone set by leaders at the national level.

"This commission therefore, takes issue with the president and those members of Congress who seek to curb the role of the courts, the report said

"The President s recent submission of the School Desegregation Standards and Assistance Act of 1976 falls within this category. This bill seeks both to narrow the definition of illegal segregation and to restrict the scope of remedies available to the courts.

"Such efforts undermine the desegregation process and jeopardize the rights of minority students," the commission said. 'Furthermore these attempts contribute to the position of some individuals that desegregation can be avoided"

Ford asked in Vail, Colo, to comment on the commission's conclusions, said " I think the Departments of Justice and Health, Education and Welfare have followed the law and I have faith in the attorney General and the secretary of HEW."

At a news conference in Washington releasing the report, Chairman Arthur S Flemming said commission members are prepared to debate anyone in the country on its finding that desegregation works.

"The evidence . . . indicates that there are both white and black parents who welcome desegregation," he said, and the commissioners hope "we can keep the issue beofre the public until the election It is the most important constitutional issue confronting the nation'

The commission said troubles in such places as Boston and Louisville were traced to lack of local leadership

"On balance, however," the commission said, "this report makes it clear that substantial progress is being made in the desegregation of our schools"

The commission — an independent agency created by Congress in 1957 — concluded that while some school districts "have experienced a significant decline in white enrollment, evidence does not support the widely held belief that urban school desegregation causes massive white flight."

Even in Boston and Louisville where there have been turbulent demonstrations against busing, the report said, desegregation is working in the "vast majority of schools . . . in spite of the determination of some citizens and their leaders to thwart its purpose."

While many school districts have complied with court decisions dating back to the Supreme Court's rejection in 1954 of the "sparate but equal' doctrine, the commission said, "numerous others remain segregated"

Hijacking Called Try To Undermine Sadat

Cairo, Egypt (UPI) — The hijacking of an Egyptian jetliner by agents for Libyan strongman Col Moammar Khadafy was an attempt to undermine the reelection chances of President Anwar Sadat a government source said Tuesday

(In Jerusalem the Israeli government issued rare praise for Egypt for the foiling of the hijacking and the rescue of its passengers calling the action "courageous"

("The decision taken by the government of the Arab Republic of Egypt in respect to the abduction of the Egyptian aircraft and the rescuing of the passengers on board was both courageous and correct," a Transport Ministry spokesman said

("The Egyptian government decision and actions are a further welcome step to ensuring the safety of civil aviation throughout the world, ' he said)

The Egyptian government source noted the hijacking Monday of the Egyptair Boeing 737, which was on a domestic flight from Cairo to Luxor, came on the eve of massive demonstrations to show support for Sadat's re-election as president.

The source said the hijacking, as well as an earlier wave of bombing incidents, was aimed at creating an atmosphere of instability which Khadafy believed might affect Sadat's chances of being re-elected

Sadat's term expires in October, but Parliament is scheduled to meet Wednesday to nominate him for another six-year term. The nomination will have to be approved by the people in a nationwide referendum scheduled for Sept 16

Brig Nabil Shukry, commander of the Egyptian army Saqa forces, told a news conference Tuesday the commando raid which rescued the passengers and crew of the hijacked plane was "clear 100% and all passengers and crew were freed without any harm."

He said two of his men entered the hijacked plane disguised as technicians on a reconnaissance mission. He said three army commandos, also disguised as airline technicians, later stormed the plane and overpowered the hijackers by beating them with screw-drivers and wrenches and overpowering them in 30 seconds.

Shukry said the three hijackers, who were originally scheduled to appear at the news conference, did not show up because two of them were being treated at the military hospital from "medium injuries."

For years we have brought you P.S. Beef—Personally Selected—because we feel it's the best we can buy for your satisfaction. By adding T.V.T., True Value Trim, we further assure you of getting a good buy. T.V.T. means each cut is trimmed of excess fat and bone before it's weighed so you get more usable meat for your money. Only enough fat (about ½" trim) is left on for full flavor and cooking ease. Excess bones and tips are also removed. We guarantee each piece marked P.S., T.V.T. is tender and flavorful. For best home storage, there are a few rules to follow: All fresh, cured, cooked and some canned meats should be refrigerated at no more than 36-40+. You can safely store pre-packaged, film wrapped meats in its original wrap if the seal is not broken. However, some still prefer to rewrap or cover the meat loosely with wax paper. Most meats can be refrigerated for 2-6 days. Stew meat, ground meat, liver, sausage, and poultry should be used within 2 days or should be frozen.

Restriction Asked On X-Ray Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Routine use of X-rays to detect breast cancer should be restricted to women over 50 and those younger women in high-risk groups, the National Cancer Institute said Tuesday.

The institute, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society, issued the recommendations because of studies suggesting that the X-ray screening process itself may increase the risk of breast cancer in some women.

The interim guidelines were sent in letters to the directors of 27 centers participating in the National Breast Cancer Detection Demonstration Project, a program sponsored by the institute and the ACS.

The letters said final guidelines on mammography will be issued after further studies are completed.

While the guidelines are mandatory only for the demonstration project, an NCI spokesman said it was hoped all physicians and hospitals using X-ray mammography would follow the recommendations.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, said earlier this week that the recommendations are based upon continuing studies of mammography that say such examinations are very valuable to women over 50.

Younger women may be exposed to unnecessary risks because regular screening means many repeated exposures to radiation that can increase overall cancer risk.

About 270,000 women, aged 35 and older, are enrolled in the national breast cancer screening program that became operational in January 1973. The project uses medical history followup, physical examinations, mammography and thermography to screen for cancer.

Thermography is a process of looking for the heat differences between cancerous and normal tissues, Recently published studies have cast doubts on thermography's effectiveness, but it is considered safe.

The new guidelines say that mammography is acceptable for a woman of any age for diagnosing a suspected breast cancer. The procedure also is acceptable for any woman considered a special risk, such as those with a family history of breast cancer.

The institute said that while it assumes there is a possible risk of inducing breast cancer with mammography, the risk for any individual woman using the procedure "is very small."

The guidelines said mammography should not be withheld from a woman under 50 if she and her physician agreed it was in her best immediate interest. However, risks as well as benefits should be fully explained.

The recommendations reemphasized that radiation dosage must be kept to the lowest level consistent with good quality X-ray pictures.

The letter to project directors said the program will not be closed down or phased out regardless of final recommendations concerning mammography.

Philippine Chief Refuses Offer Of U.S. Quake Aid

Manila, The Philippines — President Ferdinand Marcos Tuesday rejected an American offer of aid for more than 175,000 victims of last week's earthquake and tidal wave disaster in the southern Philippines.

In a cable to Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Marcos said his country would "meet our present difficulties through our own initiative and resources."

Mansfield was the author of a Senate resolution pledging support for relief efforts in The Philippines.

Manila newspapers, meanwhile, denounced a reported American plan to use the offer of assistance to win concessions in talks on the future of U.S. bases in The Philippines.

"It appears that some American diplomats have been on the lookout for opportunities to use aid as, to put it charitably, a PR (public relations) gesture," The Daily Express said in an editorial. "This may do for pantyhose makers, but it is hardly becoming of a nation like the United States."

The Evening Post said the alleged "attempt to turn The Philippine misfortune into a U.S. launching pad for concessions in the bases talks . . . vividly demonstrated the perils of accepting aid from foreign sources."

Proposed Amendments Received By Beermann

By United Press International

Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann Tuesday received a rough draft of the eight amendments to the Nebraska Constitution which were proposed during the 1975-76 legislative sessions and will be placed on the November general election ballot.

Beermann said his copy of the amendments will be reviewed before being printed on the Nebraska ballots. He also said the amendments will be published three times in state newspapers three weeks prior to the Nov. 2 election.

In addition, Beermann said, a ballot for Spanish-speaking Nebraska voters is being prepared and will be available by the Nov. 2 election. Although the Spanish-language ballot will be available in November, Beermann said, no one requested a similar ballot during the May primary.

The constitutional amendments, prepared by the Nebraska Legislature's executive board of the Legislative Council, address legislative actions such as bill readings, vetos, session dates and lawmakers' salaries.

One amendment calls for removing the lieutenant governor as the Legislature's presiding officer and requests authorization for the lawmakers to pick their own presiding officer.

Another amendment provides for the legislative session to reconvene on the second Monday in December of each year, instead of on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January as it currently is scheduled. The amendment also says 90-day sessions would be held on even-numbered years, while 60-day sessions would convene on odd-numbered years.

Salary increases for state lawmakers is the subject of another amendment which calls a $675 monthly salary, compared to the $400 monthly salary ceiling now.

Officials Meet With Prisoners

Attica, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials met with prisoners to try to settle a two-day strike at Attica State Prison Tuesday, but a corrections commissioner said "the protest is holding" and most inmates stayed in their cells.

The orderly demonstration for parole and sentence reform was in contrast to the violent 1971 riot at the prison that killed 43 in the nation's bloodiest jail revolt.

Among the demands of the inmates was one for a maximum five-year sentence for any offense.

Corrections Commissioner Benjamin C. Ward, Attica Warden Harold Smith, Executive Corrections Commission Director Louis Douglas and Associate Corrections Commissioner Mark Corrigan met with about 10 prisoner representatives for several hours Tuesday.

"Today's effort is to break up the issues basically into three categories — those which relate to population, those which require legislative action and those which pertain to this institution," Corrigan said.

"My reports indicate that the protest is holding, that the inmates are staying in their cells," he added.

About 335 of the prison's 1,843 inmates left their cells for breakfast and about 600 ate lunch. Prison officials refused to deliver food to cells of striking inmates.

A mid-afternoon tour of the facility by newsmen showed many areas of the prison deserted and few inmates showing up for work details.

Only 17 of the 100 inmates assigned to the night shift in the prison's metal shop showed up for work.

"We have 17 here today," said a shop employe. "That's five more than we had yesterday. These are the guys that have a mind of their own."

All four of the prison's yards were empty during the tour. Convicts weren't in cellblock hallways, either. But the halls were littered with paper bags and paper cups, apparently discarded as inmates ate from foodstuffs stockpiled in their cells.

Restriction Asked On X-Ray Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Routine use of X-rays to detect breast cancer should be restricted to women over 50 and those younger women in high-risk groups, the National Cancer Institute said Tuesday

The institute, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society, issued the recommendations because of studies suggesting that the X-ray screening process itself may increase the risk of breast cancer in some women.

The interim guidelines were sent in letters to the directors of 27 centers participating in the National Breast Cancer Detection Demonstration Project, a program sponsored by the institute and the ACS

The letters said final guidelines on mammography will be issued after further studies are completed.

While the guidelines are mandatory only for the demonstration project, an NCI spokesman said it was hoped all physicians and hospitals using X-ray mammography would follow the recommendations

Dr Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, said earlier this week that the recommendations are based upon continuing studies of mammography that say such examinations are very valuable to women over 50

Younger women may be exposed to unnecessary risks because regular screening means many repeated exposures to radiation that can increase overall cancer risk

About 270,000 women, aged 35 and older, are enrolled in the national breast cancer screening program that became operational in January 1973. The project uses medical history followup, physical examinations, mammography and thermography to screen for cancer.

Thermography is a process of looking for the heat differences between cancerous and normal tissues, Recently published studies have cast doubts on thermography's effectiveness, but it is considered safe.

The new guidelines say that mammography is acceptable for a woman of any age for diagnosing a suspected breast cancer The procedure also is acceptable for any woman considered a special risk, such as those with a family history of breast cancer.

The institute said that while it assumes there is a possible risk of inducing breast cancer with mammography, the risk for any individual woman using the procedure "is very small."

The guidelines said mammography should not be withheld from a woman under 50 if she and her physician agreed it was in her best immediate interest However, risks as well as benefits should be fully explained.

The recommendations re-emphasized that radiation dosage must be kept to the lowest level consistent with good quality X-ray pictures

The letter to project directors said the program will not be closed down or phased out regardless of final recommendations concerning mammography.

Proposed Amendments Received By Beermann

By United Press International

Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann Tuesday received a rough draft of the eight amendments to the Nebraska Constitution which were proposed during the 1975-76 legislative sessions and will be placed on the November general election ballot.

Beermann said his copy of the amendments will be reviewed before being printed on the Nebraska ballots. He also said the amendments will be published three times in state newspapers three weeks prior to the Nov. 2 election.

In addition, Beermann said, a ballot for Spanish-speaking Nebraska voters is being prepared and will be available by the Nov. 2 election. Although the Spanish-language ballot will be available in November, Beermann said, no one requested a similar ballot during the May primary.

The constitutional amendments, prepared by the Nebraska Legislature's executive board of the Legislative Council, address legislative actions such as bill readings, vetos, session dates and lawmakers' salaries.

One amendment calls for removing the lieutenant governor as the Legislature's presiding officer and requests authorization for the lawmakers to pick their own presiding officer.

Another amendment provides for the legislative session to reconvene on the second Monday in December of each year, instead of on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January as it currently is scheduled. The amendment also says 90-day sessions would be held on even-numbered years, while 60-day sessions would convene on odd-numbered years.

Salary increases for state lawmakers is the subject of another amendment which calls a $675 monthly salary, compared to the $400 monthly salary ceiling now.

Philippine Chief Refuses Offer Of U.S. Quake Aid

Manila, The Philippines — President Ferdinand Marcos Tuesday rejected an American offer of aid for more than 175,000 victims of last week's earthquake and tidal wave disaster in the southern Philippines.

In a cable to Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Marcos said his country would "meet our present difficulties through our own initiative and resources."

Mansfield was the author of a Senate resolution pledging support for relief efforts in The Philippines

Manila newspapers, meanwhile, denounced a reported American plan to use the offer of assistance to win concessions in talks on the future of U.S. bases in The Philippines.

"It appears that some American diplomats have been on the lookout for opportunities to use aid as, to put it charitably, a PR (public relations) gesture," The Daily Express said in an editorial. "This may do for pantyhose makers, but it is hardly becoming of a nation like the United States."

The Evening Post said the alleged "attempt to turn The Philippine misfortune into a U.S. launching pad for concessions in the bases talks ... vividly demonstrated the perils of accepting aid from foreign sources."

Officials Meet With Prisoners

Attica, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials met with prisoners to try to settle a two-day strike at Attica State Prison Tuesday, but a corrections commissioner said "the protest is holding" and most inmates stayed in their cells.

The orderly demonstration for parole and sentence reform was in contrast to the violent 1971 riot at the prison that killed 43 in the nation's bloodiest jail revolt.

Among the demands of the inmates was one for a maximum five-year sentence for any offense.

Corrections Commissioner Benjamin C. Ward, Attica Warden Harold Smith, Executive Corrections Commission Director Louis Douglas and Associate Corrections Commissioner Mark Corrigan met with about 10 prisoner representatives for several hours Tuesday.

"Today's effort is to break up the issues basically into three categories — those which relate to population, those which require legislative action and those which pertain to this institution," Corrigan said.

"My reports indicate that the protest is holding, that the inmates are staying in their cells," he added.

About 335 of the prison's 1,843 inmates left their cells for breakfast and about 600 ate lunch. Prison officials refused to deliver food to cells of striking inmates.

A mid-afternoon tour of the facility by newsmen showed many areas of the prison deserted and few inmates showing up for work details.

Only 17 of the 100 inmates assigned to the night shift in the prison's metal shop showed up for work.

"We have 17 here today," said a shop employe. "That's five more than we had yesterday. These are the guys that have a mind of their own."

All four of the prison's yards were empty during the tour. Convicts weren't in cellblock hallways, either. But the halls were littered with paper bags and paper cups, apparently discarded as inmates ate from foodstuffs stockpiled in their cells

School Closings Question Inspires Task Force Plan

Talk of school closing reared its ugly head at the Lincoln Board of Education meeting Tuesday night.

Superintendent John Prasch told the board that he and his staff are negotiating a new contract for use of the Whittier Junior High facilities with members of the board of Southeast Technical College next week. The outcome of those negotiations could have some bearing on a long-standing question about the future of that facility at 2240 Vine.

Prasch is seeking the formation of a task force to work with the city department of urban development to use some of the data available about neighborhood growth projections in Lincoln in coming years. He said such information could have bearing on more than just Whittier.

Board president Williamette Shafer said that the Whittier issue has been "around a long time," and added that the board owes some kind of answer to the parents.

Prasch noted that the school-age population in the area has dwindled and will probably disappear when rehabilitation of the area, thought by many to be attractive to retirees and college students, is completed.

Opening of an alternative junior high program at Havelock School may breathe some new life into that facility, as will special programs at Pershing and Bethany. New growth in west Lincoln will probably keep Everett alive, but Saratoga Elementary, 2215 S. 13th, may be on the list of those in question, Prash said.

Further decisions will be the topic of a Sept. 21 board meeting.

Cavett Recalls Innocence Of Lost Plains Youth Era

Benedict (AP) — Television interviewer Dick Cavett, a native of Nebraska, paused for a minute as he sat on the swing at a home near here.

"I'm glad to be back in Nebraska," he said. "I could have been happy here. But show business called when I was growing up."

The comments were made on a recent visit to the home of his former Lincoln High School classmate, Mrs. Karen Harrington, and her husband Tom, who live near this northern York County town of 200.

"There is something here ... something about these plains," Cavett said.

His trip had two purposes: to visit his parents in Lincoln and to gather material for a book, "something about the high school years."

"Maybe it was the last of the innocent age. It was pre-drugs, pre porno. It was a wonderful time," Cavett said.

"And it all happened right here in Nebraska. I didn't appreciate it then; I do now."

He said his old friends are beginning to turn 40. I'm talking to a few of them to see what they think now as opposed to their views 22 years ago. I want to see if a pattern is emerging."

One of Cavett's more prominent television interviews was with the late Nebraska poet laureate John Neihardt.

"My folks mentioned I should put him on the show," Cavett said. "Well, everybody knows somebody who should be on the show. But they were so right.

"Neihardt turned out to be one of the best. He rekindled my interest in the Indians — one I've always had since childhood."

After the interview, Neihardt's publication began selling 15,000 copies a week.

"It was wonderful to bring him that kind of fame," Cavett said. "It's too bad it didn't come earlier. He could have hit the lecture trail. He would have been great with college students."

Cavett's contract with CBS is running out, he said, and he plans to tape a week of shows in London soon.

Then he plans to work on his book.

Burglars Active Around Lincoln

Burglars broke into Northeast High School Tuesday morning by smashing a window in the breezeway, entered the office and made off with a typewriter, a dictating machine, and a photocopier, according to police.

Combined value of the missing equipment was $1,400.

Also Tuesday morning, delivery vans belonging to two Lincoln businesses were burglarized.

Police said $1,200 worth of tools were taken from a van at General Fire Equipment Co., 3920 N. 27th St., and $570 worth of tools from another van at Midwest Plumbing, 4139 O St. In both cases, the vans' wing windows were pried open.

Another Tuesday morning burglary occurred at Sullivan Garage, 1151 Saunders. Four garbage trucks were broken into, as well as a toolroom. Three radios, tools, and a hydraulic floor jack were missing. Total value of the goods was $540.

This was the second recent theft at that garage. Last Friday, $800 worth of equipment was reported stolen from parked trucks and the toolroom.

1.1% Contributed

New York (UPI) — A study by the Conference Board, a nonpartisan fact-finding group, shows that U.S. corporations contribute about $2.25 billion annually to philanthropic causes. In the last decade, according to the study, contributions have averaged about 1.1% of the firms' net pretax income.

Man Arrested For Taking Child

County Sheriff's deputies Tuesday night arrested an Iowa man involved in the possible kidnapping of a 16-month-old girl.

They stopped the man's car at 48th and Hwy. 2 in response to an alert from Iowa authorities.

He had entered Nebraska at Nebraska City, with the child in his car, and was proceding west.

The man, whose identity was not released, was being held pending charges.

The child was taken to Lincoln General hospital for observation.

She did not appear to be harmed, officials said.

Teachers Enter Classes Early During Staff Orientation Days

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools open their doors to students Monday, but teachers have already returned to the classroom for staff development workshops.

For Marlin Kaufman and members of his staff at the Havelock Extended Learning Program (HELP) at Havelock School, planning began a week ago in a rather unique setting.

Kaufman, Associate Superintendent Ron Brandt and five teachers took a canoe float trip on the Niobrara River near Valentine last week to plan their program in a setting "far from the hassles of city life," Kaufman said.

Aided by a University of Nebraska consultant, the group spent up to seven hours a day for three days planning in the wilderness locations, accessible only by canoe.

"There were no phones ringing, no other demands on our time," Kaufman said of the sessions which he deemed highly productive.

The outward-bound retreat concept is popular in the mountainous western states he said, adding that it might catch on in other areas.

This week, Kaufman and Karn Brick, Bob Guenzel, Helen Holmes, Melony Rawlins and Richard Treadway are finishing goal statements made during the retreat, in preparation for the start of the program which is new to the system this year.

The return of the teachers to individual classroom this early is also new this year. Gone are the large general sessions where all of the teachers gathered in one place to listen to speeches before going to their buildings.

This change of pace came at the request of principals who felt that they could better use the time in their own buildings, school officials said. The 80 full-time teachers new to the system met with system public relations personnel and viewed a slide show in order to familiarize themselves with the workings of the system.

Dr. Betty Dillon, director of staff development for the schools, is in charge of the workshops in the various buildings and Dr. Carroll Sawin, assistant superintendent for personnel, is heading new teacher orientation.

Some of the sessions are specialized, like the one at Morley School, 6800 Monterey, where the staff is becoming familiar with a recently completed addition, Mrs. Dillon said.

Dim View Predicted For Future City Plan

By BOB REEVES
Star Staff Writer

City-County Planning Commission Chairman George Williamson spoke candidly Tuesday evening about the city's comprehensive plan.

When the final version of the plan is published, hopefully by December, "it won't be as well received as I would like . . . as anyone would like," he said.

He was talking to the Greater Eastside Citizens Association, which has staunchly opposed the widening of 84th St., an element of the street plan the commission has recommended be included in the comprehensive plan.

When finally approved, the plan will plot land use and growth patterns for Lincoln and Lancaster County until the year 2000, or until the city's population reaches 325,000, whichever comes first.

The new comprehensive plan will replace a plan started in 1961 but revised many times since.

"It has taken us six years, probably $400,000, and countless man-hours" to produce, Williamson said. A "change in basic philosophy" by the City Council is partly responsible for delay in completing the plan.

In July 1975, when citizen opposition to the widening of 48th St. became intense, the council "refused to recognize the need for more new roads," he said.

"This stopped us (the commission) dead," Williamson said.

A system of roads has to work "as a system," according to Williamson. If key streets, such as 48th St., are removed from the network, the system breaks down.

Williamson explained that 48th St. became overcrowded, then 56th, then 70th. "The misery moved east" because 48th was not widened.

"One stipulation in my coming to speak to this group was that I would not talk about 84th St.," Williamson noted. Then he proceeded to field questions about it.

The widening of 84th St. will occur only when increased traffic justifies it, Williamson said. Inclusion in the plan does not mean automatic widening.

The planning commission has never recommended that 84th St. be designated a truck route, he said. "Truck route locations have nothing to do with the street plan," he added.

But State Senator Jerome Warner, a member of the commission who also attended the meeting, reminded him ttat the commission did urge the City Council, the County Commission, and the State to consider an alternate truck by-pass to the east of 84th St.

Williamson urged the citizens to go directly to the city council to get the trucks off the street, which has been "temporarily" designated a truck-route.

One group member suggested that getting rid of the trucks might also stop the widening, because traffic would not increase as predicted.

Opening of an alternative junior high program at Havelock School may breathe some new life into that facility, as will special programs at Pershing and Bethany. New growth in west Lincoln will probably keep Everett alive, but Saratoga Elementary, 2215 S. 13th, may be on the list of those in question, Prash said.

Further decisions will be the topic of a Sept. 21 board meeting.

Cavett Recalls Innocence Of Lost Plains Youth Era

Benedict (AP) — Television interviewer Dick Cavett, a native of Nebraska, paused for a minute as he sat on the swing at a home near here.

"I'm glad to be back in Nebraska," he said. "I could have been happy here. But show business called when I was growing up."

The comments were made on a recent visit to the home of his former Lincoln High School classmate, Mrs. Karen Harrington, and her husband Tom, who live near this northern York County town of 200.

"There is something here ... something about these plains," Cavett said.

His trip had two purposes: to visit his parents in Lincoln and to gather material for a book, "something about the high school years."

"Maybe it was the last of the innocent age. It was pre-drugs, pre porno. It was a wonderful time," Cavett said.

"And it all happened right here in Nebraska. I didn't appreciate it then; I do now."

He said his old friends are beginning to turn 40. I'm talking to a few of them to see what they think now as opposed to their views 22 years ago. I want to see if a pattern is emerging."

One of Cavett's more prominent television interviews was with the late Nebraska poet laureate John Neihardt.

"My folks mentioned I should put him on the show," Cavett said. "Well, everybody knows somebody who should be on the show. But they were so right.

"Neihardt turned out to be one of the best. He rekindled my interest in the Indians — one I've always had since childhood."

After the interview, Neihardt's publication began selling 15,000 copies a week.

"It was wonderful to bring him that kind of fame." Cavett said. "It's too bad it didn't come earlier. He could have hit the lecture trail. He would have been great with college students."

Cavett's contract with CBS is running out, he said, and he plans to tape a week of shows in London soon.

Then he plans to work on his book.

Burglars Active Around Lincoln

Burglars broke into Northeast High School Tuesday morning by smashing a window in the breezeway, entered the office and made off with a typewriter, a dictating machine, and a photocopier, according to police.

Combined value of the missing equipment was $1,400.

Also Tuesday morning, delivery vans belonging to two Lincoln businesses were burglarized.

Police said $1,200 worth of tools were taken from a van at General Fire Equipment Co., 3920 N. 27th St., and $570 worth of tools from another van at Midwest Plumbing, 4139 O St. In both cases, the vans' wing windows were pried open.

Another Tuesday morning burglary occurred at Sullivan Garage, 1151 Saunders. Four garbage trucks were broken into, as well as a toolroom. Three radios, tools, and a hydraulic floor jack were missing. Total value of the goods was $540.

This was the second recent theft at that garage. Last Friday, $800 worth of equipment was reported stolen from parked trucks and the toolroom.

1.1% Contributed

New York (UPI) — A study by the Conference Board, a nonpartisan fact-finding group, shows that U.S corporations contribute about $2.25 billion annually to philanthropic causes. In the last decade, according to the study, contributions have averaged about 1.1% of the firms' net pretax income

Man Arrested For Taking Child

County Sheriff's deputies Tuesday night arrested an Iowa man involved in the possible kidnapping of a 16-month-old girl.

They stopped the man's car at 48th and Hwy. 2 in response to an alert from Iowa authorities.

He had entered Nebraska at Nebraska City, with the child in his car, and was proceding west.

The man, whose identity was not released, was being held pending charges.

The child was taken to Lincoln General hospital for observation.

She did not appear to be harmed, officials said.

Teachers Enter Classes Early During Staff Orientation Days

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools open their doors to students Monday, but teachers have already returned to the classroom for staff development workshops.

For Marlin Kaufman and members of his staff at the Havelock Extended Learning Program (HELP) at Havelock School, planning began a week ago in a rather unique setting.

Kaufman, Associate Superintendent Ron Brandt and five teachers took a canoe float trip on the Niobrara River near Valentine last week to plan their program in a setting "far from the hassles of city life," Kaufman said.

Aided by a University of Nebraska consultant, the group spent up to seven hours a day for three days planning in the wilderness locations, accessible only by canoe.

"There were no phones ringing, no other demands on our time," Kaufman said of the sessions which he deemed highly productive.

The outward-bound retreat concept is popular in the mountainous western states he said, adding that it might catch on in other areas.

This week, Kaufman and Karn Brick, Bob Guenzel, Helen Holmes, Melony Rawlins and Richard Treadway are finishing goal statements made during the retreat, in preparation for the start of the program which is new to the system this year.

The return of the teachers to individual classroom this early is also new this year. Gone are the large general sessions where all of the teachers gathered in one place to listen to speeches before going to their buildings.

This change of pace came at the request of principals who felt that they could better use the time in their own buildings, school officials said. The 80 full-time teachers new to the system met with system public relations personnel and viewed a slide show in order to familiarize themselves with the workings of the system.

Dr. Betty Dillon, director of staff development for the schools, is in charge of the workshops in the various buildings and Dr. Carroll Sawin, assistant superintendent for personnel, is heading new teacher orientation.

Some of the sessions are specialized, like the one at Morley School, 6800 Monterey, where the staff is becoming familiar with a recently completed addition, Mrs. Dillon said.

Dim View Predicted For Future City Plan

By BOB REEVES
Star Staff Writer

City-County Planning Commission Chairman George Williamson spoke candidly Tuesday evening about the city's comprehensive plan.

When the final version of the plan is published, hopefully by December, "it won't be as well received as I would like ... as anyone would like," he said.

He was talking to the Greater Eastside Citizens Association, which has staunchly opposed the widening of 84th St., an element of the street plan the commission has recommended be included in the comprehensive' plan.

When finally approved, the plan will plot land use and growth patterns for Lincoln and Lancaster County until the year 2000, or until the city's population reaches 325,000, whichever comes first.

The new comprehensive plan will replace a plan started in 1961 but revised many times since.

"It has taken us six years, probably $400.000, and countless man-hours" to produce, Williamson said A "change in basic philosophy" by the City Council is partly responsible for delay in completing the plan

In July 1975, when citizen opposition to the widening of 48th St became intense, the council "refused to recognize the need for more new roads," he said.

"This stopped us (the commission) dead," Williamson said.

A system of roads has to work "as a system," according to Williamson. If key streets, such as 48th St., are removed from the network, the system breaks down

Williamson explained that 48th St. became overcrowded, then 56th, then 70th. "The misery moved east" because 48th was not widened.

"One stipulation in my coming to speak to this group was that I would not talk about 84th St.," Williamson noted. Then he proceded to field questions about it.

The widening of 84th St. will occur only when increased traffic justifies it, Williamson said. Inclusion in the plan does not mean automatic widening.

The planning commission has never recommended that 84th St. be designated a truck route, he said "Truck route locations have nothing to do with the street plan," he added.

But State Senator Jerome Warner, a member of the commission who also attended the meeting, reminded him ttat the commission did urge the City Council. the County Commission, and the State to consider an alternate truck by-pass to the east of 84th St.

Williamson urged the citizens to go directly to the city council to get the trucks off the street, which has been "temporarily" designated a truck-route.

One group member suggested that getting rid of the trucks might also stop the widening, because traffic would not increase as predicted.

Libertarians Challenge Despite Slim Chances

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Admitting they have little chance for victory in November, Libertarian Party members Monday delivered petitions to the state to put an Independent presidential ticket on the Nebraska general election ballot.

Earlier in the day, backers of former Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy also delivered petitions to Secretary of State Allen Beermann in a separate but identical move to win a ballot position.

Beermann was presented with 236 petitions bearing 2,907 signatures listed as Nebraska registered voters nominating Libertarians Roger L. MacBride for president and David Bergland for vice president.

MacBride, 46, is from Charlottesville, Va., and Bergland, 40, is from Huntington Beach, Calif. Both are lawyers. MacBride operates a farm, is an author and TV producer.

Beermann said in both cases he has "no authority" to file the petitions officially. He accepted all the petitions and marked them "received" for custodial purposes only.

Neither of the Independent campaign efforts has met the three requirements for presidential candidates. Electoral college electors must be chosen at a state political party convention. The state petitioning law excludes candidates for president and vice president. The law requires that nominations for those two offices must be certified to Beermann by officers of a national party nominating convention.

Beermann told Libertarians he will consult with the Nebraska attorney general about the petitions. The MacBride backers said Kansas officials allowed the ticket on the ballot by consent decree. McCarthyites claimed a favorable Kansas court ruling.

Despite no Nebraska provision for an Independent candidacy for the presidency, both groups were guided by the Tuesday filing deadline for other Independents seeking statewide offices by petition.

Burton Jay of Omaha, Libertarian Party secretary, said the Nebraska group's attorney will file within two days in U.S. District Court to consolidate its action with the suit that McCarthy backers have already brought.

Jay said the Libertarians will seek the same ruling as the McCarthyites want, to have Nebraska presidential election laws declared unconstitutional, and to petition their candidates onto the ballot.

Petitions for McCarthy, who ran for President in 1968 as a Democrat, bore a total of 2,981 signatures. Phyllis Paine of Omaha presented them. She's listed as a McCarthy running mate, a stand-in until he announces his official choice.

She said 2,200 of the signatures were of Lancaster County residents. In the McCarthy bid for 45 state ballots, with success in 15 to 20 to date, she said a convention of electors will be held soon.

The McCarthy petitions nominated five presidential electors: Ellen Sim Dewey of Lancaster County, Edwin H. Garrison Jr. and Harry Mendelson of Douglas County, David R. Stevenson of Buffalo County and Pat L. Watkins of Custer County.

The MacBride petitions also nominated five electors: Daniel H. Haak, 910 Lakeshore Drive, a Lincoln consultant actuary; Guy Curtis of Imperial, an attorney; and Omahans Gale R. Arch, a salesman, Elizabeth A. Arch, a piano teacher, and Jay, a business manager.

Mrs. Arch said Independent ballot spots for the Libertarian Party candidates have been verified in 21 states and notification based on satisfied requirements is awaited in 17 more. She cited successes in challenging laws similar to Nebraska's.

She said MacBride has been campaigning since Sept. 1975, although the Nebraska effort is just now beginning. Asked what his election odds realistically are, she said, "I don't think we have a chance for him to become President this year."

But "we consider this a starting point" to promote seriously the idea of Libertarians as a strong force and alternative or replacement party in the future.

Mrs. Arch said the Libertarians may end up on ballots in 38 to 42 states. Jay said if the ticket gets even 3% to 4% of the vote nationally, that will mean "people are listening" to the party goals, which will have "an impact on legislation."

The party stands for reducing government power and spending in "a consistent viewpoint which the major parties lack," he said. It's neither left- nor right-wing, he added.

Charles Burris of Tulsa, Okla., a Libertarian field organizer, said the party is in the "transit stage" attracting populists and economic conservatives as well as disenchanted GOP's and Democrats.

Omahan Would Keep KOIL For Charity

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha businessman has filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to operate KOIL and KEFM temporarily for the benefit of local charities.

The Omaha radio properties are scheduled to go off the air Sept. 1 after the operator, Star Stations Inc., was denied license renewals by the FCC.

Nathan Novak, 44, president of Omaha Computer Services, said he acted to keep the stations operating as community assets and to retain their staffs and facilities until a permanent operator is named by the FCC.

Novak estimated the profits to charity would be in "six figures annually."

Novak proposes forming a non-profit corporation headed by a board that would not include any persons interested in seeking a license for the stations.

He said the formats of the station would be retained if the application is granted.

In a letter accompanying the application, Don Burden, president of KOIL and KEFM, offered the nonprofit interim operators free use of the stations' physical facilities for the first 90 days of operation.

The two stations are among five denied license renewals by the FCC. The others are in Indianapolis and suburban Portland, Ore.

Suit Over $8 Unsettles Postal Service

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

A University of Nebraska-Lincoln graduate student took on a huge federal bureaucracy . . . and won.

Gerry Egan of Eagle, also a Southeast Community College instructor, took the Postal Service in Lincoln to small claims court over failure to return an $8 deposit on a post office box. Tuesday, he learned the postal service will settle out of court.

He rented the box to hold mailings for his graduate research in adult education; he paid the $8 deposit at the time.

But Egan found another way to have his mail kept, and cancelled the box a week later. He asked for a refund on the deposit; the Postal Service refused.

Egan sent a letter to Washington. His answer, from the Consumer Affairs Office, explained that the refund could not be made because the postal service is "trying to provide better services," Egan said.

Then, he said, he contacted Congressman Charles Thone; no help there, but Egan did get a letter from Lincoln Postmaster L.G. Moore explaining that if his money was refunded, the post office's audit would not come out.

Finally, Egan reached the end of his rope. Since the postal service is no longer a federal agency, citizens do have recourse against it, he reasoned. So he filed suit in small claims court.

The case was to have been heard Wednesday.

But, Tuesday afternoon, Postmaster Moore called Egan and to say that the postal service had decided to settle out of court.

Moore is worrying that the postal service brass in Washington "possibly opened Pandora's box" since the decision is "contrary to policy and printed instructions" which prohibit refunds. However, "from a business standpoint," the postal service "did not feel like going through court action," he said.

While the outcome leaves Egan reveling that he "beat out this huge monster agency," Moore has one more headache: what funds to charge the $8 refund against. "I may have to go to Congerss" to get the appropriation approved, he said — only half jokingly.

Nebraska City Beef Plant To Reopen

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — A beef processing plant at Nebraska City Neb., will be reopened in about 60 days with a limited work force, an official of MBPXL Corp. at Wichita said Tuesday.

The plant, formerly owned by American Beef Packers, was closed in January, 1975, when ABP filed limited bankruptcy papers. Purchase of the plant for $440,000 was announced this week by MBPXL, one of the nation's largest beef packing firms formed in the 1975 merger of Kansas Beef Industries and Missouri Beef Packers.

Larry Dilling, vice president for accounting, said Tuesday the Nebraska City plant is being renovated to correct leaky roofs and to improve refrigeration facilitites. The work is expected to take about 60 days, Dilling added, and the plant will be put back into operation then.

"Our primary interest in this plant is its large freezer capacity, which we plan to use as outside storage for our Rockport (Mo.) plant," Dilling said. "We also plan to use the plant to process cooked meats and special products, after everything is ready to go."

Dilling added MBPXL has not projected future employment for the plant, but said it is not expected to be close to the 120 employes who once worked there for American Beef.

"Right now I think we're expecting about two dozen employes to work there, but it's really too early to project our needs," he said.

MBPXL has three processing plants at Wichita and other facilities at Planeview, Friona and Amarillo, Tex., Potwin, Kan., Boise, Idaho, Denver and Philadelphia.

The plant at Rockport, Mo., has been the subject of a 20-week strike by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters union and the strike spread to Wichita for three weeks until pickets were withdrawn last Friday to end a sympathy walkout at the Wichita plants.

Explosion Victim's Funeral Thursday

Hastings — Funeral services for James A. Clark, 36, who died Monday in a Lincoln hospital from explosion burns, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Church of the Nazarene in Hastings.

The Hastings man suffered third degree burns to 90% of his body Aug. 13 when two explosions rocked the Central Soya grain elevator.

Two other men injured in the blasts — Bobby Good, 39, and Clinton Edwards, 26, both of Sabetha, Kan., remain hospitalized in Kansas.

Grain dust ignited by welding torches has been blamed for the explosions in both the top and bottom of the elevator head house.

Prison Escapee Found Tuesday In Lincoln

An inmate who escaped from a work release center Sunday was arrested Tuesday morning near 24th and Sewell by Nebraska State Patrol and Lincoln police officers.

State Patrol Capt. Lynn Parks said Robert Coleman, 34, was apprehended in the basement of a Lincoln home. Coleman didn't offer any resistance.

Coleman was being questioned by officials at the work release center Sunday when he jumped out a window and escaped. He was serving time on three counts of burglary and escape from Lancaster and Douglas counties.

Capt. Parks said Coleman was returned to the penal complex.

Police Storm Bar After Man Killed

Omaha (AP) — An unemployed roofer, wielding a carving knife, stabbed a bar patron to death and critically injured another before being captured by a special force of Omaha policemen early Tuesday.

Investigators still don't know why Jimmy Green, 31, began the long siege in a small tavern in a blue collar area of South Omaha.

But statements of relatives and officials led to speculation that the Pawnee, Okla., man may have been on drugs, may have been being chased, or simply lost his mind.

After his capture, Green was taken to the psychiatric ward of a local hospital.

"We had to go in," said Deputy Chief Joe Friend shortly after the tense, 17-hour ordeal ended.

Green entered Whitcombs Halfway Tavern about 2:30 p.m. Monday, apparently to seek shelter from what he said was a pursuer, police said. He held a man and two women hostage at knife point.

The siege ended about 7:20 a.m. when members of the Omaha Police Division's Emergency Reaction Team (ERT) rushed the bar.

The man being held hostage, Nathan H. "Joe" Culbertson, 59, a regular bar patron, was stabbed to death. Culbertson was known as "Pepsi Joe" in the neighborhood because he always drank cola when in the bar.

Frank Pane, a prosecutor with the Douglas County Attorney's office, said Culbertson was stabbed nine times — once in the neck, once in the shoulder, and seven times in the chest. He also had several deep gashes on his arms.

One of the women hostages escaped unharmed, while the wife of the bar owner had her throat cut, and was listed in fair condition late Tuesday after undergoing surgery in a local hospital.

An ERT member, Sgt. William Miller, suffered a chest wound when his shotgun accidently discharged while Green was being wrestled into submission. He was listed in good condition.

Miller's life was saved by his standard-issue "flak vest," said Mayor Edward Zorinsky.

Friend, who served as the negotiator in the efforts to lure Green out of the usually quiet, but "fortress-like" bar, was among those storming the tavern.

Police Chief Richard Andersen used the "fortress-like" description in telling newsmen about the problems faced by his men. He said another problem was the number of crank calls to the bar during the night.

Green, a former standout high school football player at Pawnee, had become a drifter after a two-year stint in the Army.

Family members said he had not maintained close contact and that he had lived in several parts of the country working at a number of different jobs.

Most recently, he had been working in the Omaha area for an independent roofing firm, but had quit.

Green telephoned his sister-in-law in Pawnee, Mrs. Bertha Green, last Saturday night, saying "someone was after him and was trying to kill him."

Mrs. Green said he called from Omaha, and said "the syndicate" was after him because he had beaten a woman.

While Green's former employer said he felt the suspect was capable of violence, family members described him as being "quiet and easy going."

Omaha police said Green has no previous local criminal record, and the suspect's father, Woody Green, 68, asked, "Has he lost his mind or what? He was never in no kind of trouble."

Police had declared their intentions to wait Green out, but their course of action changed abruptly when Green's brothers peered through the bar and saw Culbertson, his neck bloody, lying on the floor.

Zorinsky stood near the door as the ERT members scrambled in to subdue Green.

Zorinsky said the incident was handled "in a highly professional manner. At all times the odds (of having the hostages injured or killed) were considered."

Zorinsky said Green was not agitated and that police met his every demand.

The mayor explained that when Green asked for a car, he volunteered his own rented vehicle. However, Green said he wanted a four-door model, and Zorinsky's car has two doors.

Green demanded a pistol, a rifle and ammunition, and it was provided. However, Zorinsky said the ammunition provided did not fit the weapons placed at the front door of the sand-colored brick tavern.

The placement of the weapons led to freedom for one of the hostages, Phyllis Utnage, 35.

Green sent the Utnage woman, a part-time bartender, to fetch the guns. He apparently was unaware that ERT members were right outside the only door leading from the bar.

When she leaned out, the ERT members snatched her away to safety. She cried as she was led from the area.

A short time later, Green's two brothers, who had been flown in from Pawnee, Okla., on a chartered jet to help talk their brother out, approached the building.

Shouts were exchanged, then the brothers, both dressed in red jackets saying "Pawnee Booster Club," retreated.

Moments later, the ERT members stormed through the front door.

The wife of the bar's owner, Mrs. Lloyd Aikens, 38, had her throat cut, and was rushed to a hospital after Friend and three other officers subdued Green in the bar's ladies room.

Mrs. Aiken had taken over the bar with her husband about one month ago.

Green was carried bodily from the bar, shoved into the back seat of a police cruiser, and taken to a hospital.

Detectives combed the bar for three hours before Culbertson's body was removed. One investigator was seen carrying away a bloody kitchen carving knife with a blade measuring six or seven inches, but at least two other knives were picked up as evidence, Acting Coroner Henry Wendt said.

Wendt said he was unaware of any firearms in the building.

Green's actions stunned his brothers, R. D. and Johnny.

Zorinsky, who spent the night at the site, said the Green brothers said Jimmy was "way out . . . his eyes were glassy."

"They have never seen him that way before," Zorinsky said the brothers told him.

Zorinsky speculated that Green may have been "pumped up on drugs," and Friend said Green "was never reasonable" in all the talks he had with him.

Pane said no court proceedings against Green have been scheduled, and that he would wait for investigating officers to file their reports before he filed any charges.

Pane said he is considering a "long list" of possible charges including, among others, first degree murder, kidnaping, the use of a weapon in the commission of a felony and assault.

Frantic Call Left Family Wondering

Pawnee, Okla. (AP) — A man accused of holding three hostages in an incident that left one man dead in Omaha Tuesday called his sister-in-law here Saturday night. "He was frantic, he said someone was after him and was trying to kill him," his sister-in-law said.

Jimmy Green, 31, said "the syndicate" was after him because he had beaten a woman, said Berthena Green, Green's sister-in-law.

Green said he was calling from the Omaha bus station, and "had been running" from people who came into the station after him while he was waiting for a bus, Mrs. Green said.

Green "has always been quiet and easy going, he kept to himself," said Mrs. Green, 35, who knew her brother-in-law since childhood. "I don't understand; I don't know why he's this way. He's never been a violent type person."

When Green called his sister-in-law, he asked to speak to his brother, Johnny, or Mrs. Green's husband, R.D., Mrs. Green said. Neither was home, so Mrs. Green took down a phone number from Jimmy Green, she said.

But attempts to reach Jimmy at the number later were unsuccessful.

"We were frantic," Mrs. Green said.

'Pepsi Joe' To Drink No More

Omaha (UPI) — "Pepsi Joe," a nickname derived from his non-alcoholic drinking habits of at least 10 years, walked to Whitcombs Halfway Tavern Monday afternoon as he had done many times before.

At 10:15 a.m. Tuesday the body of the man whose given name was Nathan H. Culbertson, 59, Omaha, was removed from the tavern.

His throat had been slashed.

"He was a real nice guy. He wouldn't hurt a fly," said Ray Voycheske, owner of a body shop Culbertson had passed on his way to an afternoon of talk with cronies.

"They'd probably tell the same story over and over, but that didn't matter," said Don Klein, a cousin.

Culbertson was a retired welder and lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Culbertson. The father sat on a curb across the street from the tavern Tuesday morning waiting for his son to be brought out.

Culbertson was born in Oakland, Iowa, and his parents moved to Omaha in the 1940s. He was in the infantry during World War II, but was discharged due to a basic training injury.

A marriage ended in divorce several years ago.

Culbertson, due to an auto accident, had a steel plate in his head.

One of two other hostages was literally yanked to safety by police as she looked out the door of the tavern to see if anyone was there. She was Mrs. Phyllis Utnage, a part-time barmaid. Behind her, a knife was being held at Culbertson's throat.

Yeutter Name On OSU Search List

Washington (AP) — Clayton Yeutter, President Ford's deputy special representative for trade negotiations, said Tuesday he has many friends in Oklahoma who have submitted his name as a candidate for the presidency of Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

"The only reason I went to the Oklahoma State campus" last week, Yeutter said, "is that we have many friends in Oklahoma dating back many years.

"They have submitted my name to the university's search committee as a man to replace the retiring president. They are encouraging me toward the job."

Yeutter said he had "never seen the campus, and so while we were in the general area, I decided to look over the campus."

He said he was not interviewed for the presidency, noting that "as I understand their search process, they won't even start interviewing people until November or December."

Yeutter said it is "much too premature to say if I'm interested or that my visit can be interpreted as a sign of interest."

Yeutter, 45, is an attorney and was a professor of agricultural economics at the University of Nebraska in the mid 1960s. He later became executive assistant to former Republican Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

Yeutter headed a University of Nebraska agricultural mission in South America and served as assistant secretary of agriculture before he moved to the White House office for trade negotiations.

He has a large farming and livestock operation near Cozad, Neb.

Hastings Road Plan Spurs Request For Legal Opinion

Hastings (AP) — The Adams County Board voted Tuesday to ask the state attorney general for an opinion on whether the county can legally spend $150,000 to build roads on private land at the Hastings Industrial Park West. The roads would be deeded later to the county.

Deputy County Atty. Al Madgett said a decision could be expected in about 90 days.

The board decided to seek the opinion after a group of citizens appeared at Tuesday's meeting to question county participation in the project and to say they were forming a committee to examine the county role in the industrial park.

The board of supervisors also went on record in opposition to a proposal to merge the Midland and South Central Area Agencies on Aging.

Coffee Trees Needed

Mexico City (AP) — Mexican Agricultural experts estimated that Mexico must spend about $120 million in the next three years on coffee tree replanting and technical development in the industry if it wants to cut out a larger share for its coffee exports on world export markets.

By United Press International

Three persons were killed in Nebraska traffic accidents Tuesday, and the Nebraska State Patrol said one man was killed in a crash Monday night near Waco.

One person was killed in the collision of a train and truck at the intersection of Neb. 2 and 67 on the north edge of Dunbar, the Otoe County Sherif's Office said.

Officials were still at the scene Tuesday night trying to remove the wreckage, which blocked Neb. 2, forcing traffic to be routed through the town.

And the State Patrol said two people were killed in an accident one mile west of Humphrey. No other details were available.

Names of the victims were being withheld pending notification of relatives.

Clifford W. Mountray, 19, Waco, was killed Monday night in a one-vehicle crash northeast of Waco on a county road. The patrol said Mountray was southbound on a gravel road when he lost control of the car and struck a power pole.

Norfolk Man Dead After Truck Tips

Braman, Okla. (UPI) — A cattle truck overturned in a construction zone on an interstate highway early Tuesday, killing the driver and 35 head of cattle.

Richard Allen Horn, 29, of Gretna, Neb., who was riding in the sleeper of the cab, was treated at the hospital.

Trooper Roger Sixkiller of the Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Potter apparently fell asleep. The truck hit three barrels in the construction zone, ran off the roadway and crashed into a stack of lumber and steel rods, before flipping onto its side.

The truck was hauling 101 young bulls. Sixkiller said the dead cattle were valued at about $5,775.

The accident happened about two miles southwest of Braman on Interstate 35 in Kay County.

The hearing is one of several to solicit public comments on the panel's study. "Housing and Business Investment in Nebraska," which addressed community development needs.

Thursday afternoon, the committee will hear testimony on redevelopment problems of business districts. The 1 p.m. hearing will begin at 1 p.m. in the Capitol, Room 1019.

Yeutter Name On OSU Search List

Washington (AP) — Clayton Yeutter, President Ford's deputy special representative for trade negotiations, said Tuesday he has many friends in Oklahoma who have submitted his name as a candidate for the presidency of Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

"The only reason I went to the Oklahoma State campus" last week, Yeutter said, "is that we have many friends in Oklahoma dating back many years.

"They have submitted my name to the university's search committee as a man to replace the retiring president They are encouraging me toward the job"

Yeutter said he had "never seen the campus, and so while we were in the general area, I decided to look over the campus"

He said he was not interviewed for the presidency, noting that "as I understand their search process, they won't even start interviewing people until November or December"

Yeutter said it is "much too premature to say if I'm interested or that my visit can be interpreted as a sign of interest."

Yeutter, 45, is an attorney and was a professor of agricultural economics at the University of Nebraska in the mid 1960s. He later became executive assistant to former Republican Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

Yeutter headed a University of Nebraska agricultural mission in South America and served as assistant secretary of agriculture before he moved to the White House office for trade negotiations.

He has a large farming and livestock operation near Cozad, Neb.

Hastings Road Plan Spurs Request For Legal Opinion

Hastings (AP) — The Adams County Board voted Tuesday to ask the state attorney general for an opinion on whether the county can legally spend $150,000 to build roads on private land at the Hastings Industrial Park West. The roads would be deeded later to the county.

Deputy County Atty. Al Madgett said a decision could be expected in about 90 days.

The board decided to seek the opinion after a group of citizens appeared at Tuesday's meeting to question county participation in the project and to say they were forming a committee to examine the county role in the industrial park

The board of supervisors also went on record in opposition to a proposal to merge the Midland and South Central Area Agencies on Aging.

Coffee Trees Needed

Mexico City (AP) — Mexican Agricultural experts estimated that Mexico must spend about $120 million in the next three years on coffee tree replanting and technical development in the industry if it wants to cut out a larger share for its coffee exports on world export markets.

Federal Appeals Court Decision Upholds Omaha Busing Plan For School Integration

Omaha (AP) — A federal appeals court upheld Tuesday the Omaha School District integration plan scheduled for implementation Sept. 7, the first day of the fall term.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis turned down appeals to change the plan-one by a group of black parent intervenors, the other by the school district.

The intervenors asked that mandatory reassignments of pupils be broadened to include first grade pupils. The school district sought to limit the plan or modify it somewhat.

The district also asked the Circuit Court to reverse its opinion of last year that called initially for the systemwide integration. The court rejected that request.

Attorneys for the Legal Aid Society, which represented the intervenors, were unavailable for comment on whether they plan further appeal.

While seeking minor changes in the plan approved by U.S. District Court Judge Albert Schatz of Omaha, the school district has been working to get the plan ready for use in September.

John Barnhart, president of the Board of Education, said he was happy with the Circuit Court ruling.

"I think it takes the guesswork out of it," Barnhart said. "The people deserve to have a plan they can depend on, and I hope the air is cleared for effectively carrying out the thing in the 10 days we have."

Barnhart said acceptance of the intervenors' requested changes "would have caused immense problems. It would have been a catastrophe."

The plan approved by Schatz, drawn up largely by the school district with modifications from the U.S. Justice Department, calls for mandatory reassignment of about 9,300 of the district's 57,000 pupils. The intervenors' plan would have shifted more than 13,000 students.

All eight members of the full Circuit Court considered the appeals at a hearing in St. Paul, Minn., last Tuesday.

"In our view, the plan meets constitiutional standards and is consistent with the mandate of this court," the decision said.

"We understand the plan for integrating the first grade is initially a trial one and that the District Court will review the plan after a reasonable time to determine whether, in operation, the first-grade plan meets constitutional standards."

The plan calls for first graders to be involved in integrated activities on occasion. No first grade pupils will be reassigned from their neighborhood schools, but voluntary transfers are available.

Judge Smith Henley concurred with the seven other members of the court but filed a separate opinion saying he favors a review of the plan that would lead to full integration of first graders the second year.

Massive busing will be used in the integration plan.

Under the plan, 2,388 black and 3,321 white elementary pupils will be reassigned, as will 1,372 black and 2,286 white students from junior high schools. Officials say nine out of 10 students affected will be bused.

More Omaha Teachers Quitting Than In Previous School Years

Omaha (AP) — There have been 58 teacher resignations from the Omaha School District in the last two months, compared with 24 for the same two months last year and 19 the year before.

More than 240 prospective teachers refused job offers from the district. Last year, about 40 prospective teachers turned down a job offer.

School district and teacher association officials said they don't think there is a strong tie between the figures and the impending court-ordered integration.

Rather, they said, there are teacher shortages in some subject areas and teachers have other offers.

John Thies, executive director of the Omaha Education Association, which represents the district's teachers, said: "They're simply being offered more money in new positions elsewhere."

Thies said that if teachers were balking at integration-related reassignments, there would have been more resignations last summer when large-scale faculty reassignments were begun. He said there were only a handful at that time.

Although this will be the first year that large student reassignments will be made, Thies said he has not heard that this has led to resignations.

He said he thinks another factor in the increased number of contract refusals is the lack of a salary settlement for the coming year. Negotiators for the board and teachers group have failed to arrive at terms.

Asst. Supt. Ron Anderson told board members Monday he couldn't say how many teachers quit because of reassignments. He said some departures could have been related to integration.

Many stemmed from other job offers and others resulted from people leaving the teaching profession, he said.

More than one-fourth of the classroom teachers this fall will be in new settings, he said. That figure is much higher than other years.

Altogether, more than 730 teachers will be in new positions. That results from 268 new teachers and about 465 reassignments. Of the 465 teachers given new teaching posts, 353 are directly tied to the court order for faculty integration, Anderson said.

UNL Begins General Registration

Students who have not preregistered for the fall semester at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln may do so at general registration Wednesday through Friday.

Registration lasts from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Drop and add begins Monday, the first day of classes.

Figures indicate that more UNL students are registering early, according to Ted Pfeifer, director of registration and records. Preregistrations received for the fall semester number 17,044, compared with 16,371 a year ago.

More Omaha Teachers Quitting Than In Previous School Years

Omaha (AP) — There have been 58 teacher resignations from the Omaha School District in the last two months, compared with 24 for the same two months last year and 19 the year before.

More than 240 prospective teachers refused job offers from the district. Last year, about 40 prospective teachers turned down a job offer.

School district and teacher association officials said they don't think there is a strong tie between the figures and the impending court-ordered integration.

Rather, they said, there are teacher shortages in some subject areas and teachers have other offers.

John Thies, executive director of the Omaha Education Association, which represents the district's teachers, said: "They're simply being offered more money in new positions elsewhere."

Thies said that if teachers were balking at integration-related reassignments, there would have been more resignations last summer when large-scale faculty reassignments were begun. He said there were only a handful at that time.

Although this will be the first year that large student reassignments will be made, Thies said he has not heard that this has led to resignations.

He said he thinks another factor in the increased number of contract refusals is the lack of a salary settlement for the coming year. Negotiators for the board and teachers group have failed to arrive at terms.

Asst. Supt. Ron Anderson told board members Monday he couldn't say how many teachers quit because of reassignments. He said some departures could have been related to integration.

Many stemmed from other job offers and others resulted from people leaving the teaching profession, he said.

More than one-fourth of the classroom teachers this fall will be in new settings, he said. That figure is much higher than other years.

Altogether, more than 730 teachers will be in new positions. That results from 268 new teachers and about 465 reassignments. Of the 465 teachers given new teaching posts, 353 are directly tied to the court order for faculty integration, Anderson said.

UNL Begins General Registration

Students who have not preregistered for the fall semester at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln may do so at general registration Wednesday through Friday.

Registration lasts from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Drop and add begins Monday, the first day of classes.

Figures indicate that more UNL students are registering early, according to Ted Pfeifer, director of registration and records. Preregistrations received for the fall semester number 17,044, compared with 16,371 a year ago.

Winter Fuel Shortage Possible, Says Peters

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

A chilly, wet fall and cold winter could produce a fuel shortage in Nebraska, according to Bill Peters, state tax commissioner.

As tax commissioner, he has the responsibility of allocating fuel supplies in the state largely because his office was the only place in state government that had any data on where fuel was used in Nebraska.

"I will flat guarantee we will see a fuel shortage if it stays as cold as it was last January," he predicted Tuesday.

Peters, testifying before the Legislature's Committee on Agriculture, revealed that he is still allocating fuel for various uses in the state.

"The only people who really believe we have a fuel problem are the administrators of fuel programs. It is time we had some continued interest in the fuel problem from the legislative branch of government," Peters told the senators.

"I was accused of being against agriculture because I wouldn't allocate fuel for fall plowing. I was trying to keep fuel supplied to some pork processing plants. If those plants were forced to close the bottom would have dropped out of the hog market," he said.

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan outlined a program for solving the fuel crisis at the state level. "There is no way one state can do it alone, but we can contribute to the solution," he said.

His program includes:

—Formalizing a state corporation administered by state officials and representatives of the private sector to distribute state and federal funds in research programs on energy.

—Establishing a solar collector and equipment testing center similar to the Nebraska Tractor Testing Station for testing all solar heating devices to be sold in the state.

—The establishment of a set of standards for evaluating solar heating equipment.

—The addition of 10,000 square feet to the greenhouse complex now under construction at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln for use in a biomass solar heating research program.

—Tough new laws designed to force people to ride in car pools and encourage other fuel saving measures.

—Efforts to cut fuel use in irrigation by increasing irrigation efficiency.

—Establishing a state energy office to coordinate all state efforts to allocate, conserve and control all sources of energy and to keep track of various research programs in energy areas in the private as well as government-funded research sectors.

Whelan praised Peters for his work in the energy field. "Bill got roped into this because as tax commissioner he was collecting taxes on fuels. He has done a commendable job," Whelan said.

Peters revealed he is operating a number of energy programs, including studies on fuel use in agriculture, with the cooperation of a number of farmers and ranchers.

"Testing a four-wheel drive vehicle in a laboratory on rubber rollers by a government engineer and driving it on a ranch or muddy country road are totally different things," he noted.

Most of the programs are aimed at encouraging more efficient use of energy in the home, on the farm and in factories. One special program is aimed at helping small business firms cut fuel and lighting costs without the cost of hiring a consultant.

Schmit Calls For Checkoff To Finance Gasohol Plant

"The cost of a grain alcohol plant wouldn't amount to a pimple on a bull's nose. If we built one and it didn't work, it wouldn't be the first time we did something like that. Besides, I think it will work," said Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood Tuesday at a hearing of the Nebraska Legislature's Agricultural Committee.

Schmit indicated that he will support an effort to launch a two-cent-a-bushel checkoff program on all grain in the state to produce funds to build an alcohol plant.

"That may make some recoil in horror, but it isn't the first time something I have suggested produced that kind of reaction. That two cents would build a plant in one year's time. The grain price changes a lot more than two cents in any day," he said.

Under the Schmit plan, the farmer would receive a stock certificate in exchange for this two cents a bushel when he marketed the grain. He would in effect become a stockholder in the grain alcohol plant and benefit from any profits the plant might make.

"Such a plant could return 20% on its investment if you assume you could borrow 75% of the cost at 10% on a 20-year loan and get the other 25% in funds by the stockholders," said Dr. William Scheller, technical advisor to the state Gasohol Committee.

Scheller said a number of companies had expressed an interest in building a grain alcohol plant, but noted that their interest was always tied to some sort of incentive such as a tax write-off or a guaranteed loan of some kind.

"I don't think we are going to get a federal loan or grant until some firm comes along and says it will build a plant,"

Scheller said a 20 million-gallon-a-year plant would use eight million bushels of grain a year, but indicated it would have an effect on grain prices only locally.

"You have to remember we produce a lot of grain. It would amount to less than one per cent of our production but it would help, particularly in the case of damaged grain which such a plant can use," he said.

The plant could process potatoes, all kinds of grains, sugar beet tops and a number of other products containing starch into alcohol, according to Scheller.

Charles Fricke, administrator of the Gasohol Committee programs, noted the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association had already passed a resolution supporting a checkoff program aimed at building a grain alcohol plant.

Sen. Dick Lewis of Holbrook raised a public relation's problem for grain alcohol in gasoline under the gasohol program.

"People are getting grain alcohol confused with wood alcohol, which is often cited as a failure in motor fuel experiments," he said.

Scheller agreed. "Methanol is quite different from ethanol which we make from grain. Chemists know the difference, but we have 1.5 million Nebraskans who aren't chemists and don't know the difference. We know grain alcohol works in gasoline without problems, but people confuse the two kinds of alcohol," he said.

Boat Thief Leaves No Trail(er)

An official of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service parked a boat and trailer in the Air National Guard Air Base parking lot this weekend. When he went to drive home, something was missing — his boat and trailer.

M. R. Billiard told Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies Monday that the boat and trailer were stolen sometime while he was at the Air National Guard offices. The trailer was found, but the 14-foot, aluminum outboard boat still is missing.

PSC Decides It Has Authority Over Airline

The Nebraska Public Service Commission decided Monday it has jurisdiction over the Pioneer Airways Inc. application to establish commuter service to nine communities.

Commissioners directed PSC staff to contact representatives of the towns to select locations and dates for outstate public hearings on the Denver aviation firm's proposal to haul passengers, freight and mail.

Pioneer opponents in a Lincoln hearing had claimed the PSC has no jurisdiction in the case, because the commission cannot regulate interstate commercial aviation with the proposed Denver link.

Staff attorney James Paine told commissioners that precedents in case law and decisions by regulatory agencies in other states indicate the PSC does have jurisdiction in Pioneer intrastate rates and economic regulation, or entry into the field.

As an air taxi operator, Pioneer is exempt form some federal regulations, which Paine said also strengthens the state jurisdiction position. He explained later that doesn't apply to safety or airworthiness, for example, which are federally governed, or to rates when a flight leg origin or destination is Denver.

Three of the five commissioners present agreed to Paine's analysis without dissent.

The action overrules an attempt led by Kearney City Atty. Michael E. Kelley to block the PSC from handling the case. He filed the maneuver on behalf of the cities of Kearney, McCook, Sidney, Hastings, the Kearney and Hastings airport authorities, and the Southern Route Commission.

Pioneer proposes to serve those communities plus Alliance, Chadron, Columbus, Lincoln and Omaha with a Denver connection. Pioneer is attempting to replace Frontier Airlines service with eight-passenger planes on two or three flights daily and a night freight run.

Frontier has indicated it wants to provide more service to fewer Nebraska communities. Air Wisconsin is also pursuing possibilities as a replacement commuter airline.

In other business, the PSC denied a request by United Telephone Co. of the West, Scottsbluff, to increase its station connection and directory listing charges.

Wiretap Controls Offered

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee sent to the floor Tuesday legislation setting new guidelines for the use of domestic wiretaps and other kinds of electronic snooping on foreign agents.

Members hope the full Senate will vote next week on the bill, which has been criticized both as being too strict and too lax.

Chairman Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and many committee members said they had reservations about the measure, but said it still is the best compromise available to safeguard Americans while permitting electronic surveillance of foreign spies.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said he may propose an amendment on the floor if negotiations aimed at getting the Justice Department to provide more timely information on current wiretaps have not been satisfactorily concluded by the time the Senate votes.

His amendment would make the attorney general give the committee information on what electronic surveillance has been carried out and is in progress "from time to time" — not just on a yearly basis.

Under terms of the committee's bill, requests for domestic wiretaps or other forms of electronic surveillance would have to be sent first to the attorney general for approval.

Don't Tell William, But He's Been Upstaged

Shooting apples off somebody's head has a long tradition in Switzerland, but Zurich magician Hans Moretti goes William Tell one better. He shoots it off his own head. He fires one bolt, which, if it hits the target, fires the second which fires the third which fires the fourth which hits the apple.

Iowan Takes Revenge On State Fair Rule

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Bob Davis had to wait nearly 30 years, but he finally has a prize from the Iowa State Fair for his tasty butter and jellies.

In 1948 — Davis was 14 — he entered his homemade jellies and jams in the culinary competition at the fair. He was denied ribbons and premium money because the fair had a "women-only" rule then.

Mrs. James Dwyer, superintendent at the time, said Davis "would probably have won two firsts and a couple of seconds and thirds."

His gooseberry jelly, she said, was especially outstanding, and the others were of such high quality that they would have ranked at or near the top of their classes.

Davis, 43, was back this year — for the first time since 1948 — and he took home the sweepstakes award in both the jelly and butter divisions. But the nametags on the ribbons read Mrs. at first and had to be changed.

"I tried just for the fun of it — and to see if I could still win," said Davis, a draftsman. "And besides, the kids were entered too."

Karen, his 13-year-old daugher, won the junior jelly sweepstakes award for the second year in a row. And Greg, his 17-year-old son, beat him out for first in the jam division.

Those prizes, plus others won by daughters Katherine, 20, and Karol, 19, brought the Davis family total to 38 ribbons and premimums in culinary, horticulture and arts and crafts.

Crime Rises Faster Outside Big Cities

Washington (UPI) — Serious crime is increasing at a faster rate in rural America and the smaller towns than it is in the big cities, according to an FBI report released Tuesday that found an overall one year jump of 10%.

The agency's annual uniform crime reports, which came up with final figures for 1975, said that there were nearly 11.3 million serious crimes committed last year but that only one in five ended in arrest.

That broke down nationally to an average of 21 serious crimes committed every minute last year, including a violent crime every 31 seconds.

Crime has been rising at a slightly faster rate outside major urban areas. Serious crimes — such as murder, robbery and burglary — rose by 10% in the suburbs last year and 8% in rural areas. For those dwelling in cities with more than 250,000 residents, the rate was 7%.

Walden Kennedy, of the agency's uniform crime reports section, said the study indicates "that the biggest volume of crime is in the mass of Middle America, the average sized towns and cities."

He said the crime rates in city and rural areas were offset by volume of crime in suburban areas, which were considered those with large populations that fell below 250,000.

There was a larceny-theft every five seconds; a burglary each 10 seconds; a motor vehicle theft every 32 seconds; a rape every five minutes and a murder every 26 minutes.

Both Claim Falls

Buenos Aires, Argentina (UPI) — Both Argentina and Brazil can claim the Iguazu Falls as a major tourist attraction.

The Iguazu River, which serves as a border between the two countries, plunges over a 195-foot precipice in 275 falls.

Both Argentina and Brazil have national parks surrounding the falls and first-class hotels on either side.

Winter Fuel Shortage Possible, Says Peters

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

A chilly, wet fall and cold winter could produce a fuel shortage in Nebraska, according to Bill Peters, state tax conmissioner.

As tax commissioner, he has the responsibility of allocating fuel supplies in the state largely because his office was the only place in state government that had any data on where fuel was used in Nebraska.

"I will flat guarantee we will see a fuel shortage if it stays as cold as it was last January," he predicted Tuesday.

Peters, testifying before the Legislature's Committee on Agriculture, revealed that he is still allocating fuel for various uses in the state.

"The only people who really believe we have a fuel problem are the administrators of fuel programs It is time we had some continued interest in the fuel problem from the legislative branch of government," Peters told the senators.

"I was accused of being against agriculture because I wouldn't allocate fuel for fall plowing I was trying to keep fuel supplied to some pork processing plants. If those plants were forced to close the bottom would have dropped out of the hog market," he said.

Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan outlined a program for solving the fuel crisis at the state level. "There is no way one state can do it alone, but we can contribute to the solution," he said.

His program includes:

—Formalizing a state · corporation administered by state officials and representatives of the private sector to distribute state and federal funds in research programs on energy.

—Establishing a solar collector and equipment testing center similar to the Nebraska Tractor Testing Station for testing all solar heating devices to be sold in the state.

—The establishment of a set of standards for evaluating solar heating equipment.

—The addition of 10,000 square feet to the greenhouse complex now under construction at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln for use in a biomass solar heating research program.

—Tough new laws designed to force people to ride in car pools and encourage other fuel saving measures.

—Efforts to cut fuel use in irrigation by increasing irrigation efficiency.

—Establishing a state energy office to coordinate all state efforts to allocate, conserve and control all sources of energy and to keep track of various research programs in energy areas in the private as well as government-funded research sectors

Whelan praised Peters for his work in the energy field. "Bill got roped into this because as tax commissioner he was collecting taxes on fuels. He has done a commendable job," Whelan said.

Peters revealed he is operating a number of energy programs, including studies on fuel use in agriculture, with the cooperation of a number of farmers and ranchers.

"Testing a four-wheel drive vehicle in a laboratory on rubber rollers by a government engineer and driving it on a ranch or muddy country road are totally different things," he noted.

Most of the programs are aimed at encouraging more efficient use of energy in the home, on the farm and in factories. One special program is aimed at helping small business firms cut fuel and lighting costs without the cost of hiring a consultant.

Schmit Calls For Checkoff To Finance Gasohol Plant

"The cost of a grain alcohol plant wouldn't amount to a pimple on a bull's nose. If we built one and it didn't work, it wouldn't be the first time we did something like that. Besides, I think it will work," said Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood Tuesday at a hearing of the Nebraska Legislature's Agricultural Committee.

Schmit indicated that he will support an effort to launch a two-cent-a-bushel checkoff program on all grain in the state to produce funds to build an alcohol plant.

"That may make some recoil in horror, but it isn't the first time something I have suggested produced that kind of reaction That two cents would build a plant in one year's time. The grain price changes a lot more than two cents in any day," he said.

Under the Schmit plan, the farmer would receive a stock certificate in exchange for this two cents a bushel when he marketed the grain. He would in effect become a stockholder in the grain alcohol plant and benefit from any profits the plant might make.

"Such a plant could return 20% on its investment if you assume you could borrow 75% of the cost at 10% on a 20-year loan and get the other 25% in funds by the stockholders," said Dr. William Scheller, technical advisor to the state Gasohol Committee.

Scheller said a number of companies had expressed an interest in building a grain alcohol plant, but noted that their interest was always tied to some sort of incentive such as a tax write-off or a guaranteed loan of some kind.

"I don't think we are going to get a federal loan or grant until some firm comes along and says it will build a plant."

Scheller said a 20 million-gallon-a-year plant would use eight million bushels of grain a year, but indicated it would have an effect on grain prices only locally.

"You have to remember we produce a lot of grain It would amount to less than one per cent of our production but it would help, particularly in the case of damaged grain which such a plant can use," he said.

The plant could process potatoes, all kinds of grains, sugar beet tops and a number of other products containing starch into alcohol, according to Scheller.

Charles Fricke, administrator of the Gasohol Committee programs, noted the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association had already passed a resolution supporting a checkoff program aimed at building a grain alcohol plant.

Sen. Dick Lewis of Holbrook raised a public relation's problem for grain alcohol in gasoline under the gasohol program.

"People are getting grain alcohol confused with wood alcohol, which is often cited as a failure in motor fuel experiments," he said.

Scheller agreed "Methanol is quite different from ethanol which we make from grain. Chemists know the difference, but we have 1.5 million Nebraskans who aren't chemists and don't know the difference. We know grain alcohol works in gasoline without problems, but people confuse the two kinds of alcohol," he said.

Boat Thief Leaves No Trail(er)

An official of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service parked a boat and trailer in the Air National Guard Air Base parking lot this weekend. When he went to drive home, something was missing — his boat and trailer.

M. R. Billiard told Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies Monday that the boat and trailer were stolen sometime while he was at the Air National Guard offices. The trailer was found, but the 14-foot, aluminum outboard boat still is missing.

PSC Decides It Has Authority Over Airline

The Nebraska Public Service Commission decided Monday it has jurisdiction over the Pioneer Airways Inc. application to establish commuter service to nine communities.

Commissioners directed PSC staff to contact representatives of the towns to select locations and dates for outstate public hearings on the Denver aviation firm's proposal to haul passengers, freight and mail.

Pioneer opponents in a Lincoln hearing had claimed the PSC has no jurisdiction in the case, because the commission cannot regulate interstate commercial aviation with the proposed Denver link.

Staff attorney James Paine told commissioners that precedents in case law and decisions by regulatory agencies in other states indicate the PSC does have jurisdiction in Pioneer intrastate rates and economic regulation, or entry into the field.

As an air taxi operator, Pioneer is exempt form some federal regulations, which Paine said also strengthens the state jurisdiction position. He explained later that doesn't apply to safety or airworthiness, for example, which are federally governed, or to rates when a flight leg origin or destination is Denver.

Three of the five commissioners present agreed to Paine's analysis without dissent.

The action overrules an attempt led by Kearney City Atty. Michael E. Kelley to block the PSC from handling the case. He filed the maneuver on behalf of the cities of Kearney, McCook, Sidney, Hastings, the Kearney and Hastings airport authorities, and the Southern Route Commission.

Pioneer proposes to serve those communities plus Alliance, Chadron, Columbus, Lincoln and Omaha with a Denver connection. Pioneer is attempting to replace Frontier Airlines service with eight-passenger planes on two or three flights daily and a night freight run.

Frontier has indicated it wants to provide more service to fewer Nebraska communities. Air Wisconsin is also pursuing possibilities as a replacement commuter airline.

In other business, the PSC denied a request by United Telephone Co. of the West, Scottsbluff, to increase its station connection and directory listing charges.

Wiretap Controls Offered

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee sent to the floor Tuesday legislation setting new guidelines for the use of domestic wiretaps and other kinds of electronic snooping on foreign agents.

Members hope the full Senate will vote next week on the bill, which has been criticized both as being too strict and too lax.

Chairman Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and many committee members said they had reservations about the measure, but said it still is the best compromise available to safeguard Americans while permitting electronic surveillance of foreign spies

Sen Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said he may propose an amendment on the floor if negotiations aimed at getting the Justice Department to provide more timely information on current wiretaps have not been satisfactorily concluded by the time the Senate votes

His amendment would make the attorney general give the committee information on what electronic surveillance has been carried out and is in progress "from time to time" — not just on a yearly basis

Under terms of the committee's bill, requests for domestic wiretaps or other forms of electronic surveillance would have to be sent first to the attorney general for approval.

Iowan Takes Revenge On State Fair Rule

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Bob Davis had to wait nearly 30 years, but he finally has a prize from the Iowa State Fair for his tasty butter and jellies

In 1948 — Davis was 14 — he entered his homemade jellies and jams in the culinary competition at the fair He was denied ribbons and premium money because the fair had a women-only" rule then

Mrs James Dwyer, superintendent at the time, said Davis "would probably have won two firsts and a couple of seconds and thirds."

His gooseberry jelly, she said, was especially outstanding, and the others were of such high quality that they would have ranked at or near the top of their classes

Davis, 43, was back this year — for the first time since 1948 — and he took home the sweepstakes award in both the jelly and butter divisions But the nametags on the ribbons read Mrs at first and had to be changed

"I tried just for the fun of it — and to see if I could still win," said Davis, a draftsman "And besides, the kids were entered too"

Karen, his 13-year-old daugher, won the junior jelly sweepstakes award for the second year in a row And Greg, his 17 year-old son, beat him out for first in the jam division

Those prizes, plus others won by daughters Katherine, 20, and Karol, 19, brought the Davis family total to 38 ribbons and premimums in culinary, horticulture and arts and crafts.

Crime Rises Faster Outside Big Cities

Washington (UPI) — Serious crime is increasing at a faster rate in rural America and the smaller towns than it is in the big cities, according to an FBI report released Tuesday that found an overall one year jump of 10%

The agency's annual uniform crime reports, which came up with final figures for 1975, said that there were nearly 11 3 million serious crimes committed last year but that only one in five ended in arrest

That broke down nationally to an average of 21 serious crimes committed every minute last year, including a violent crime every 31 seconds

Crime has been rising at a slightly faster rate outside major urban areas Serious crimes — such as murder, robbery and burglary — rose by 10% in the suburbs last year and 8% in rural areas For those dwelling in cities with more than 250 000 residents, the rate was 7%

Walden Kennedy, of the agency's uniform crime reports section, said the study indicates "that the biggest volume of crime is in the mass of Middle America, the average sized towns and cities"

He said the crime rates in city and rural areas were offset by volume of crime in suburban areas, which were considered those with large populations that fell below 250,000

There was a larceny-theft every five seconds, a burglary each 10 seconds, a motor vehicle theft every 32 seconds, a rape every five minutes and a murder every 26 minutes

Buenos Aires Argentina (UPI) — Both Argentina and Brazil can claim the Iguazu Falls as a major tourist attraction

The Iguazu River, which serves as a border between the two countries, plunges over a 195-foot precipice in 275 falls

Both Argentina and Brazil have national parks surrounding the falls and first class hotels on either side

Nichol Told Two Jobs Would Be In Conflict

By the Associated Press

The Legislature's Conflict of Interest Committee told Scottsbluff Sen. William Nichol Tuesday that he should not try to hold his Unicameral seat and simultaneously work for the Nebraska Association of County Officials.

Nichol previously said he "probably would resign," from the 48th District seat, but he changed that position after meeting with the committee.

The meeting was closed to reporters. Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, chairman of the panel, declined comment after the session, saying, "It is up to Sen. Nichol to say whatever he wants."

Nichol said he had requested the meeting. He said he asked the committee if there would be a conflict of interest if he accepted a job as executive director of the association while continuing to serve his remaining two years in the Legislature.

"They said there would be a conflict," Nichol said.

Asked if he was still leaning toward resignation, Nichol said: "There is less possibility of it now than there was before."

"There's a possibility I would not take it (the county officials post)" and elect to stay in the Unicameral because of the committee decision, which Nichol said "I go along with."

Nichol had hoped to get around any possible conflict of interest by having the association hire someone else to do its lobbying, while he handled other work.

Nichol's talk of resignation led to speculation that Gov. J. James Exon might consider appointing former veteran lawmaker Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff to the post.

Exon said that if Nichol resigned, he would consider Carpenter, but would not rule out the former lawmaker's chances nor say that he would be selected.

Nichol discounted speculation that his concern was that Carpenter would be appointed, and that he didn't want that to happen.

Nichol won the legislative seat from Carpenter in a close race that eventually led to a court fight.

"I have no say in whoever the governor would appoint if I resign."

Nichol said he would meet Thursday with John Paris of Crawford, president of the county officials association.

"I will make some decision after that meeting," Nichol said, "but I will not announce any decision immediately, I will tell you that."

State Office Building To Be Done On Time

"We're definitely on target" meeting construction goals for the new state office building in Lincoln, according to Harry Hoffman of the State Building Division.

"We expect total completion of the building approximately Oct. 25," ahead of the scheduled agency moves beginning Nov. 1. The six-story white structure fills the block bounded by 14th and 15th from L to M Sts.

Cost to move in 44 state agencies is estimated between $100,000 and $200,000, which has been budgeted. Hoffman said bids will be received Sept. 15. Moving will take from six weeks to two months, and officials hope to complete it before Christmas.

The Revenue Department now in the Capitol, will be the first to move and will occupy the second floor.. It's "very near completion," Hoffman said, predicting finishing touches will be applied by Sept. 15.

Working after the second-floor focus from the top down, contractors have reached 95% completion at a "rough guess," Hoffman said. Ceiling grids and light fixtures have been installed. Unfinished items include heating, painting and carpeting.

New furniture will be provided only for those agencies to occupy offices in the "mall level" (the first or ground floor): Public Service Commission, Motor Vehicles Department, Administrative Services material and personnel divisions, and the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

The furniture for those agencies is expected to arrive in early December, in time for their moves, Hoffman said. All other agencies will take the furniture they currently use in state-owned or leased offices with them into their new quarters.

Total cost of the building is approximately $20 million, financed by cigarette tax revenue. The 518,000 gross square footage includes a basement.

Big Green Lottery Challenged

By United Press International

The Nebraska attorney general Tuesday filed an appeal brief in the State Supreme Court claiming Omaha's Big Green lottery is unconstitutional.

City Betterment Corporation, Omaha, was blocked from operating the lottery by the Douglas County District Court, and the action was appealed to the state's high court.

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas's appeal brief said the lower court's ruling should be upheld because the corporation "is not an organization whose primary activities are conducted for charitable or community betterment purposes."

The brief also said lotteries are unlawful unless specifically authorized by the Nebraska Legislature, and Big Green did not have legislative authorization.

The attorney general also filed a cross-appeal brief stating Nebraska lotteries are unlawful and unconstitutional when "the gross proceeds are used for any purpose other than for charitable or community betterment" and when prizes are awarded to participants.

In addition, the brief said it is unconstitutional for the lottery's promoter (anyone who helps advance the lottery) to receive a profit from its operation.

Industrial Relations Post To Be Filled By McGinley

Donald F. McGinley, former state senator and Nebraska congressman, was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon to the State Court of Industrial Relations.

Currently president of the Mid-Plains Technical Community College Area Board of Governors, McGinley will complete the term of Wallace Rudolph. He resigned to accept the University of Puget Sound Law School deanship.

A Nebraska native now of Ogallala, McGinley was graduated from Georgetown University Law School in 1949. He is admitted to practice in both the District of Columbia and Nebraska.

McGinley's term on the court will expire June 9, 1977.

He served three Unicameral terms beginning in 1955, 1957 and 1963. McGinley's term in the U.S. House was from 1959-61, representing the now defunct 4th District.

Governor Picks Omahan Wear For Real Estate Commission

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday appointed Frank Wear of Omaha to the Nebraska Real Estate Commission. He succeeds Marvin P. Olson, whose term expires Saturday.

To serve a six-year term, Wear is president of a real estate company that bears his name. Until recently, he served as Nebraska Appeals Tribunal employer representative since his 1960 appointment by then Gov. Ralph Brooks.

Wear is past state president of Independent Fee Appraisers, a National Association of Review Appraisers member, and he was specially recognized for helping to implement the Real Estate Appraiser License Act provisions.

Bellevue Principal Appointed

Bellevue High School Principal Lloyd Boileson was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon to the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission, which enforces educator standards and ethics.

Boileson replaces James Huge, who resigned as Lincoln East High School principal to take a superintendent post in Wyoming. Boileson's term expires April 25, 1978.

Exon also announced appointments to the Potato Development Committee: Robert Edwards of Harrisburg and Richard O'Bannon of Gering to two-year terms, replacing Dale Rose of Gibbon and J. Randall O'Bannon of Gering; Roy Ferguson and Louis Knoflicek of Alliance reappointed to two-year terms.

Hastings Regional Center Air Conditioning Bid OKd

By United Press International

Vern Clark, state building division administrator, Tuesday said Gov. J. James Exon has approved a bid for installing air conditioning in a building at the Hastings Regional Center.

Clark said the $389,111 bid was awarded to Reinhardt's Plumbing and Heating, North Platte, which will install air conditioning in building No. 7.

Clark said the budget for the center's entire air conditioning project, which is to be completed by May 1977, totals more than $2.9 million.

Work already has been completed on the main institute, two activities buildings and the hospital's west wing, he said, while four other buildings are under contract and bids for three others have been taken.

The recommended appropriation for building No. 7 was $412,457, he said, and projections indicate funds from the total appropriation remaining for contingencies amount to $163,318.

Golden Girl Dreams Keep Her Practicing

Every day, Connie Pomajzl of Crete takes her silver wand, tipped with rubber at both ends, and works out, building up twirling speed, smoothness, precision and showmanship.

After all, practicing is where it's at . . . when you're 15 years old, already the featured twirler with the Crete High School Band, the winner of 20 trophies, and you dream that in four years you will be the Golden Girl with the University of Nebraska Cornhusker Marching Band.

Far from the spangles and tinseled costumes, the thrill of the Astroturf and roaring crowds, are private hours of sweat on a concrete driveway.

Connie and her mother travel to Lincoln every other week for lessons with Mrs. Dwight Thimgan, better known to many as Joyce Burns, NU's first Golden Girl who won 364 trophies during her baton twirling career.

Mrs. Alvin Pomajzl watches from the garage, applauding her daughter's catches, groaning at her drops.

"We live the baton," she said.

"The possibility of being first" — that was the impetus Mrs. Thimgan said inspired her to practice as much as six to eight hours a day before national contests.

Although "I was privileged enough to feel honored at every win," she said her greatest honor was being chosen UNL's first Golden Girl.

She stopped competing at 21 — the age limit for contests — with no regrets.

"I did it to the fullest. I did it with much exuberance. I did it to the hilt. I did everything I wanted to do. I'm very satisfied being a wife and a mother."

All baton twirlers don't have such highstrung victory dreams, of course; many like the fun and companionship.

Several years ago, Barbara Downey, 23, was a member of a baton twirling team of high school students. The group performed routines Mrs. Thimgan choreographed — a Hawaiian dance under black lights was especially popular.

Ms. Downey was killed June 27 in a motorcycle accident. That spirit of team comradeship was still there, Mrs. Thimgan said. All members of the team responded immediately and established a scholarship fund in her name.

Mrs. Thimgan first enrolled in ballet, tap and acrobatic classes "because I was so shy. I was sort of the 'hang on mother's apron strings' type."

Her dance lessons were above Dietze Music Store and Mrs. Thimgan, who was 8 at the time, remembered peering through the cracked door, watching the baton class that preceded her own.

She began twirling soon afterwards and won second place in her first contest.

Mrs. Thimgan credits her parents — who raised eight other children — for her success.

"Twirling was a family thing," she said.

When it was time for practice, her mother joined her, coaching from the sidelines. Her parents took her to all her contests.

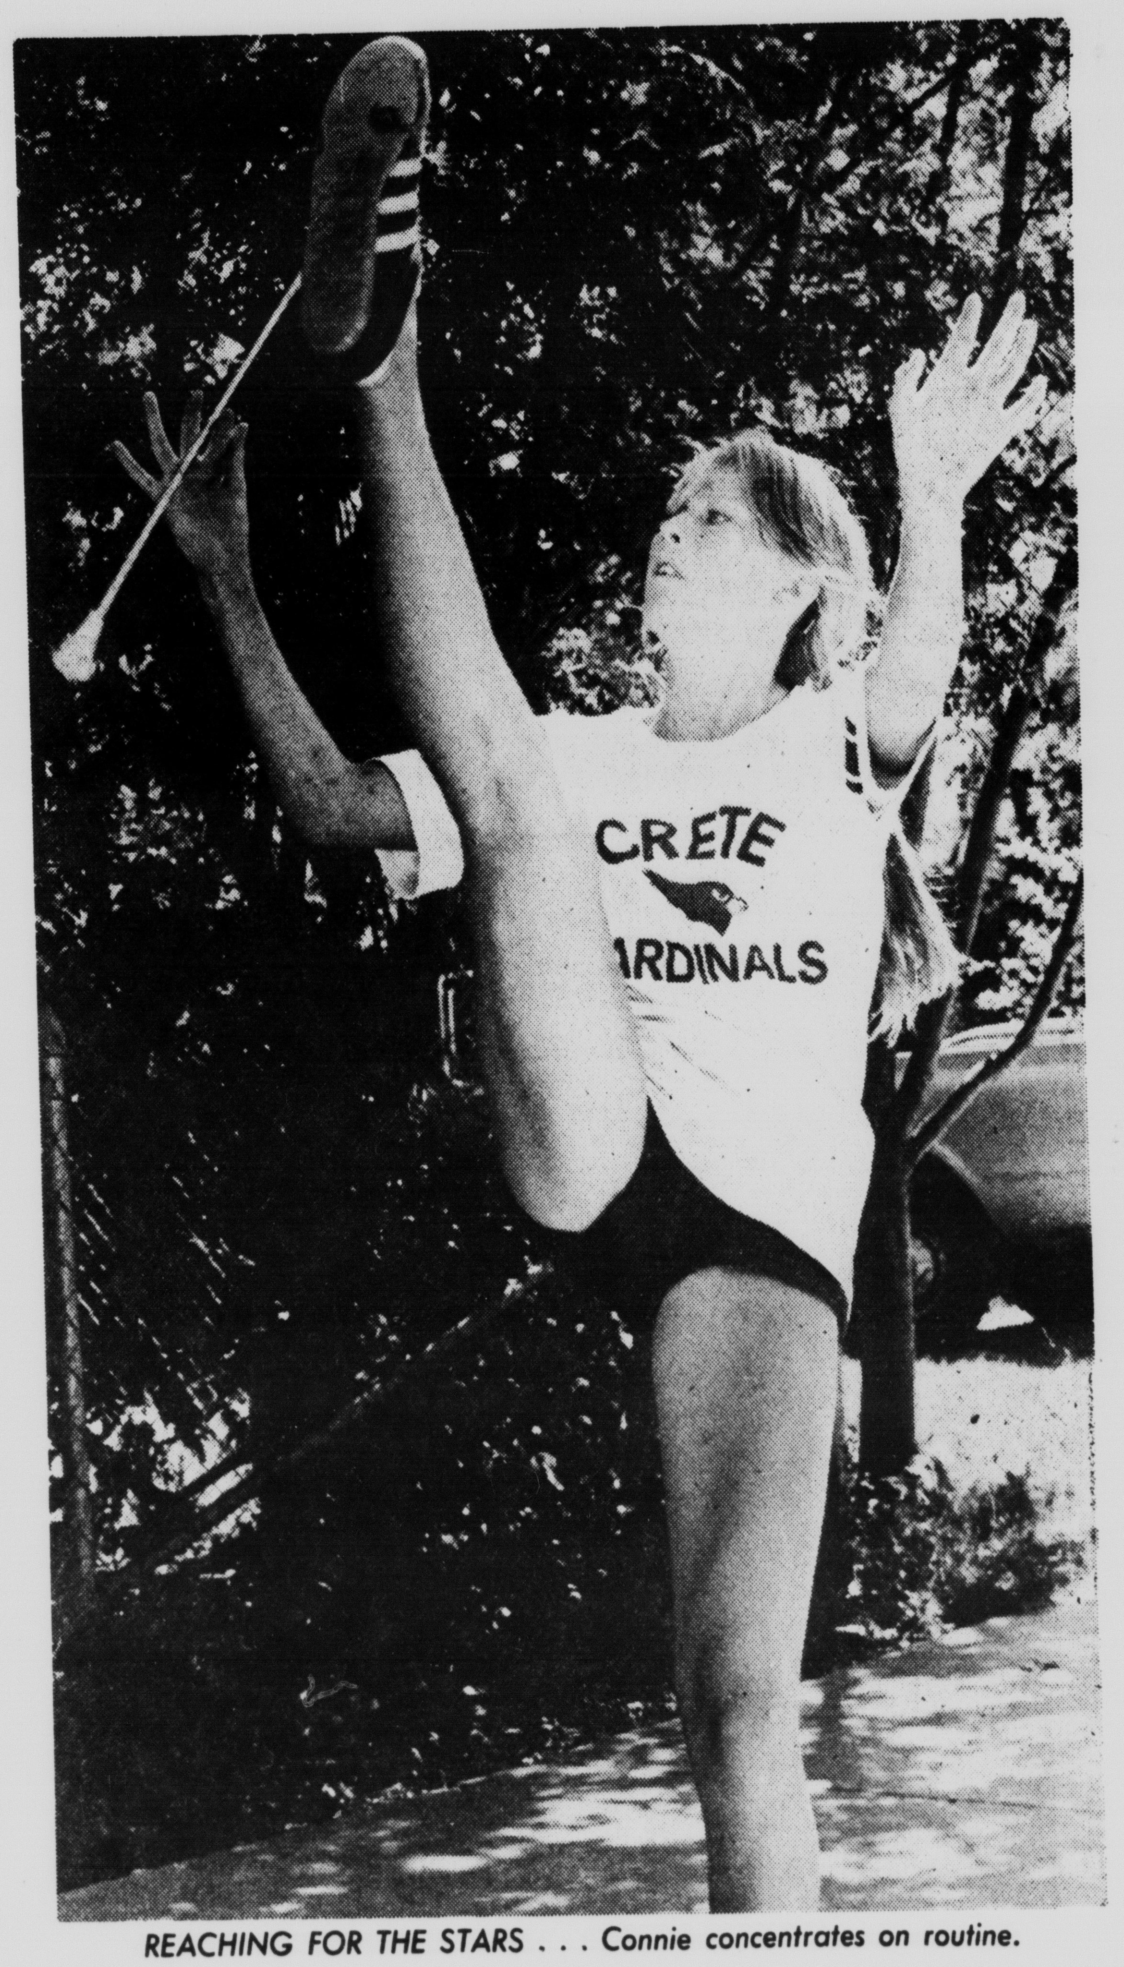
"It takes more than a child. It takes a mom and dad's interest," she said.

Because of those trips, Mrs. Thimgan traveled throughout the country. She won, to name only a couple, an international championship in North Carolina and a five-foot high replica of the Space Needle — first place in World's Fair competition.

Mrs. Thimgan recalled the first performance, the moment she surprised thousands of halftime fans as she burst from a bass drum — the first woman in the Cornhusker Marching Band.

"It was the greatest sound I've ever heard," she said. "It was opening my eyes in the middle of a dream. After four years my golden costumes and batons still twirl and spin. Is it really me inside or just the golden girl of my dreams? Can I take the golden charm of success with me?"

The names may change, but the gleam of that dream, as Connie Pomajzl knows, still has luster.



REACHING FOR THE STARS . . . Connie concentrates on routine.

Single Girl Upset By Married Mailman Who Wears No Ring

DEAR ABBY I am terribly upset right now I just asked a man whom I have admired for a long time if he was married, and when he said, "yes," I came into the house and had a good cry.

Abby, why doesn't a man wear a wedding ring if he's married? This one doesn't have the kind of job that would make wearing a ring dangerous because he is a postman

It seems to me that a married man — especially one who is out-of-this-world handsome — would want the girls he meets to know that he is already spoken for Don't men who go around without a wedding ring realize that they leave the impression that they aren't married?

Abby, please tell married men to wear wedding rings because I'm not the only girl who respects marriage

SINGLE AND 27

(P S My mother says that the problem is with ME I don't understand why It's the MAN who gives the mistaken impression that he's available when he's not.)

DEAR SINGLE: Your mother is right, dear. Only a small percentage of married men wear wedding rings, so a girl shouldn't assume that the absence of a ring is an "all-clear" signal.

DEAR ABBY I have a great idea I think all the men who have had vasectomies should form a club (they could call it the "V" Society — for vasectomy) and carry a membership card signed by their physicians as proof that they're sterile That way a girl wouldn't have to worry about getting P.G.

TRUDY

DEAR TRUDY: Right. Then, all she'd have to worry about would be getting V.D.

DEAR ABBY Three years ago my daughter married a young man with teaching credentials but so far he's taught only one year.

He's had several job offers, but he turned them down because they were in "undesirable" schools. He's supposed to be looking for another kind of job, but he'll never find one unless he meets someone on the tennis court who offers him one.

Meanwhile. my beautiful daughter works five days a week while I look after her preschool child If I say a word to her about her "tennis bum." she defends him.

Abby, if a man refuses to support his wife and child, isn't that sufficient grounds for divorce? How can I get my daughter to see this?

TIRED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter wants a divorce, let her dig up her own grounds. The word from here is, don't meddle, Mama.

DEAR ABBY For several years now we have sent our son-in-law a check for his birthday We used to buy him gifts, but it is so hard to pick out a gift to please a 28-year-old man, we thought a check made more sense.

We have never received a thank-you, verbal or written. He and our daughter live here in town, and we see them fairly often, so it would be a simple matter for him to say "Thank you for the check."

The only way we know that he has received these checks is because they come back cancelled with our bank statement.

Our son-in-law is not dumb. He went to college. He has a birthday coming up soon, and I'm considering sending him a card so he won't think we've forgotten him — but no check this time. His money is easier to come by than ours. Or should I just forget his birthday altogether?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I would.

Goodyear Blimp Deflated, Packed Away In Big Box

Houston (UPI) — All that's left for the Goodyear blimp Mayflower is a slow "psssst" and a box about the size of two coffins in the spare parts department.

Dwarfed by towering thunderclouds, the airship made a final flight over downtown before being decommissioned.

She was accompanied on the four-hour farewell ride by the new sister ship that will replace her. Together they looked like a pair of plump jellybeans bowing and curtsying as the pilots alternately raised and lowered their noses.

"Since I started with and trained on this airship, I'm sorry to see it go," said Ron Bell, a Mayflower pilot who spent 4,000 hours flying her. "But I'm also anxious to get into the new equipment."

The Mayflower's career spanned eight years, two more than the average blimp's life. She logged 12,500 hours flying at an average speed of 30 miles per hour.

Her last official assignment was a flyover of the Parade of Tall Ships in New York harbor July the Fourth.

Usually when Goodyear decommissions one of its blimps, the hardware is refurbished and the giant air sack simply scrapped. Such won't be the case for the Mayflower.

Instead, the 147,300 cubic feet of nonflamable helium that fills her will be let out and the 160-foot by 50-foot rubber-coated polyester bag will be folded neatly and packed into a box.

Almost 475,000 miles of lazy travel behind her, the Mayflower will become a spare part for her replacement, also named Mayflower, since the two ships are the last of a smaller breed of blimps.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - six of hearts.

It was Somerset Maugham who said that bridge is "the most intellectually challenging game ever devised by the wit of man." Today's hand may not altogether prove the point, but it illustrates the kind of reasoning a careful declarer must sometimes apply.

West leads a heart and South wins East's jack with the king. It is true that declarer would often duck the jack with this heart combination, but here he does not do so because he is afraid East may shift to a club.

South's next step is to try to establish dummy's diamonds, but he must pursue the task in a gingerly fashion. Thus, if he plays the A-K of diamonds, or plays the ace and a low diamond, he goes down one against proper defense.

Instead, South leads a diamond at trick two and follows low from dummy. In the actual hand, East wins with the ten and returns the nine of hearts, overtaken by West with the ten. Declarer ducks but wins the next heart in dummy with the ace, noting that East follows suit.

If South now makes the mistake of leading the ace of diamonds — hoping to find the suit divided 3-2 — he goes down. But this would be a terribly wrong thing to do, as he can guarantee the contract 100 per cent by leading a low diamond from dummy instead. Eventually South scores three diamond tricks and three sets of A-Ks.

Note that every play by declarer is strictly dictated by logic. South takes every step possible to guard against a 4-1 diamond division (because he reasons that if the diamonds are divided 3-2 he is sure to make the contract) and he is ultimately well rewarded for doing everything just right.

Nichol Told Two Jobs Would Be In Conflict

By the Associated Press

The Legislature's Conflict of Interest Committee told Scottsbluff Sen. William Nichol Tuesday that he should not try to hold his Unicameral seat and simultaneously work for the Nebraska Association of County Officials.

Nichol previously said he "probably would resign," from the 48th District seat, but he changed that position after meeting with the committee.

The meeting was closed to reporters. Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, chairman of the panel, declined comment after the session, saying, "It is up to Sen. Nichol to say whatever he wants."

Nichol said he had requested the meeting. He said he asked the committee if there would be a conflict of interest if he accepted a job as executive director of the association while continuing to serve his remaining two years in the Legislature.

"They said there would be a conflict," Nichol said.

Asked if he was still leaning toward resignation, Nichol said: "There is less possibility of it now than there was before."

"There's a possibility I would not take it (the county officials post)" and elect to stay in the Unicameral because of the committee decision, which Nichol said "I go along with."

Nichol had hoped to get around any possible conflict of interest by having the association hire someone else to do its lobbying, while he handled other work.

Nichol's talk of resignation led to speculation that Gov. J. James Exon might consider appointing former veteran lawmaker Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff to the post.

Exon said that if Nichol resigned, he would consider Carpenter, but would not rule out the former lawmaker's chances nor say that he would be selected.

Nichol discounted speculation that his concern was that Carpenter would be appointed, and that he didn't want that to happen.

Nichol won the legislative seat from Carpenter in a close race that eventually led to a court fight.

"I have no say in whoever the governor would appoint if I resign."

Nichol said he would meet Thursday with John Paris of Crawford, president of the county officials association.

"I will make some decision after that meeting," Nichol said, "but I will not announce any decision immediately, I will tell you that."

State Office Building To Be Done On Time

"We're definitely on target" meeting construction goals for the new state office building in Lincoln, according to Harry Hoffman of the State Building Division.

"We expect total completion of the building approximately Oct. 25," ahead of the scheduled agency moves beginning Nov. 1. The six-story white structure fills the block bounded by 14th and 15th from L to M Sts.

Cost to move in 44 state agencies is estimated between $100,000 and $200,000, which has been budgeted. Hoffman said bids will be received Sept. 15. Moving will take from six weeks to two months, and officials hope to complete it before Christmas.

The Revenue Department now in the Capitol, will be the first to move and will occupy the second floor.. It's "very near completion," Hoffman said, predicting finishing touches will be applied by Sept. 15.

Working after the second-floor focus from the top down, contractors have reached 95% completion at a "rough guess," Hoffman said. Ceiling grids and light fixtures have been installed. Unfinished items include heating, painting and carpeting.

New furniture will be provided only for those agencies to occupy offices in the "mall level" (the first or ground floor): Public Service Commission, Motor Vehicles Department, Administrative Services material and personnel divisions, and the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

The furniture for those agencies is expected to arrive in early December, in time for their moves, Hoffman said. All other agencies will take the furniture they currently use in state-owned or leased offices with them into their new quarters.

Total cost of the building is approximately $20 million, financed by cigarette tax revenue. The 518,000 gross square footage includes a basement.

Hastings Regional Center Air Conditioning Bid OKd

By United Press International

Vern Clark, state building division administrator, Tuesday said Gov. J. James Exon has approved a bid for installing air conditioning in a building at the Hastings Regional Center.

Clark said the $389,111 bid was awarded to Reinhardt's Plumbing and Heating, North Platte, which will install air conditioning in building No. 7.

Clark said the budget for the center's entire air conditioning project, which is to be completed by May 1977, totals more than $2.9 million.

Work already has been completed on the main institute, two activities buildings and the hospital's west wing, he said, while four other buildings are under contract and bids for three others have been taken.

The recommended appropriation for building No. 7 was $412,457, he said, and projections indicate funds from the total appropriation remaining for contingencies amount to $163,318.

Big Green Lottery Challenged

By United Press International

The Nebraska attorney general Tuesday filed an appeal brief in the State Supreme Court claiming Omaha's Big Green lottery is unconstitutional.

City Betterment Corporation, Omaha, was blocked from operating the lottery by the Douglas County District Court, and the action was appealed to the state's high court.

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas's appeal brief said the lower court's ruling should be upheld because the corporation "is not an organization whose primary activities are conducted for charitable or community betterment purposes."

The brief also said lotteries are unlawful unless specifically authorized by the Nebraska Legislature, and Big Green did not have legislative authorization.

The attorney general also filed a cross-appeal brief stating Nebraska lotteries are unlawful and unconstitutional when "the gross proceeds are used for any purpose other than for charitable or community betterment" and when prizes are awarded to participants.

In addition, the brief said it is unconstitutional for the lottery's promoter (anyone who helps advance the lottery) to receive a profit from its operation.

Industrial Relations Post To Be Filled By McGinley

Donald F. McGinley, former state senator and Nebraska congressman, was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon to the State Court of Industrial Relations.

Currently president of the Mid-Plains Technical Community College Area Board of Governors, McGinley will complete the term of Wallace Rudolph. He resigned to accept the University of Puget Sound Law School deanship.

A Nebraska native now of Ogallala, McGinley was graduated from Georgetown University Law School in 1949. He is admitted to practice in both the District of Columbia and Nebraska.

McGinley's term on the court will expire June 9, 1977.

He served three Unicameral terms beginning in 1955, 1957 and 1963. McGinley's term in the U.S. House was from 1959-61, representing the now defunct 4th District.

Governor Picks Omahan Wear For Real Estate Commission

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday appointed Frank Wear of Omaha to the Nebraska Real Estate Commission. He succeeds Marvin P. Olson, whose term expires Saturday.

To serve a six-year term, Wear is president of a real estate company that bears his name. Until recently, he served as Nebraska Appeals Tribunal employer representative since his 1960 appointment by then Gov. Ralph Brooks.

Wear is past state president of Independent Fee Appraisers, a National Association of Review Appraisers member, and he was specially recognized for helping to implement the Real Estate Appraiser License Act provisions.

Bellevue Principal Appointed

Bellevue High School Principal Lloyd Boileson was named Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon to the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission, which enforces educator standards and ethics.

Boileson replaces James Huge, who resigned as Lincoln East High School principal to take a superintendent post in Wyoming. Boileson's term expires April 25, 1978.

Exon also announced appointments to the Potato Development Committee: Robert Edwards of Harrisburg and Richard O'Bannon of Gering to two-year terms, replacing Dale Rose of Gibbon and J. Randall O'Bannon of Gering; Roy Ferguson and Louis Knoflicek of Alliance reappointed to two-year terms.

REACHING FOR THE STARS . . . Connie concentrates on routine.

Golden Girl Dreams Keep Her Practicing

Every day, Connie Pomajzl of Crete takes her silver wand, tipped with rubber at both ends, and works out, building up twirling speed, smoothness, precision and showmanship.

After all, practicing is where it's at . . . when you're 15 years old, already the featured twirler with the Crete High School Band, the winner of 20 trophies, and you dream that in four years you will be the Golden Girl with the University of Nebraska Cornhusker Marching Band.

Far from the spangles and tinseled costumes, the thrill of the Astroturf and roaring crowds, are private hours of sweat on a concrete driveway.

Connie and her mother travel to Lincoln every other week for lessons with Mrs. Dwight Thimgan, better known to many as Joyce Burns, NU's first Golden Girl who won 364 trophies during her baton twirling career.

Mrs. Alvin Pomajzl watches from the garage, applauding her daughter's catches, groaning at her drops.

"We live the baton," she said.

"The possibility of being first" — that was the impetus Mrs. Thimgan said inspired her to practice as much as six to eight hours a day before national contests.

Although "I was privileged enough to feel honored at every win," she said her greatest honor was being chosen UNL's first Golden Girl.

She stopped competing at 21 — the age limit for contests — with no regrets.

"I did it to the fullest. I did it with much exuberance. I did it to the hilt. I did everything I wanted to do. I'm very satisfied being a wife and a mother."

All baton twirlers don't have such highstrung victory dreams, of course; many like the fun and companionship.

Several years ago, Barbara Downey, 23, was a member of a baton twirling team of high school students. The group performed routines Mrs. Thimgan choreographed — a Hawaiian dance under black lights was especially popular.

Ms. Downey was killed June 27 in a motorcycle accident. That spirit of team comradeship was still there, Mrs. Thimgan said. All members of the team responded immediately and established a scholarship fund in her name.

Mrs. Thimgan first enrolled in ballet, tap and acrobatic classes "because I was so shy. I was sort of the 'hang on mother's apron strings' type."

Her dance lessons were above Dietze Music Store and Mrs. Thimgan, who was 8 at the time, remembered peering through the cracked door, watching the baton class that preceded her own.

She began twirling soon afterwards and won second place in her first contest.

Mrs. Thimgan credits her parents — who raised eight other children — for her success.

"Twirling was a family thing," she said.

When it was time for practice, her mother joined her, coaching from the sidelines. Her parents took her to all her contests.

"It takes more than a child. It takes a mom and dad's interest," she said.

Because of those trips, Mrs. Thimgan traveled throughout the country. She won, to name only a couple, an international championship in North Carolina and a five-foot high replica of the Space Needle — first place in World's Fair competition.

Mrs. Thimgan recalled the first performance, the moment she surprised thousands of halftime fans as she burst from a bass drum — the first woman in the Cornhusker Marching Band.

"It was the greatest sound I've ever heard," she said. "It was opening my eyes in the middle of a dream. After four years my golden costumes and batons still twirl and spin. Is it really me inside or just the golden girl of my dreams? Can I take the golden charm of success with me?"

The names may change, but the gleam of that dream, as Connie Pomajzl knows, still has luster.

CONTORTIONIST . . . hours of driveway practice pay off.

Single Girl Upset By Married Mailman Who Wears No Ring

DEAR ABBY: I am terribly upset right now. I just asked a man whom I have admired for a long time if he was married, and when he said, "yes," I came into the house and had a good cry.

Abby, why doesn't a man wear a wedding ring if he's married? This one doesn't have the kind of job that would make wearing a ring dangerous because he is a postman.

It seems to me that a married man — especially one who is out-of-this-world handsome — would want the girls he meets to know that he is already spoken for. Don't men who go around without a wedding ring realize that they leave the impression that they aren't married?

Abby, please tell married men to wear wedding rings because I'm not the only girl who respects marriage.

SINGLE AND 27

(P.S. My mother says that the problem is with ME. I don't understand why. It's the MAN who gives the mistaken impression that he's available when he's not.)

DEAR SINGLE: Your mother is right, dear. Only a small percentage of married men wear wedding rings, so a girl shouldn't assume that the absence of a ring is an "all-clear" signal.

DEAR ABBY: I have a great idea. I think all the men who have had vasectomies should form a club (they could call it the "V" Society — for vasectomy) and carry a membership card signed by their physicians as proof that they're sterile. That way a girl wouldn't have to worry about getting P.G.

TRUDY

DEAR TRUDY: Right. Then, all she'd have to worry about would be getting V.D.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago my daughter married a young man with teaching credentials, but so far he's taught only one year.

He's had several job offers, but he turned them down because they were in "undesirable" schools. He's supposed to be looking for another kind of job, but he'll never find one unless he meets someone on the tennis court who offers him one.

Meanwhile, my beautiful daughter works five days a week while I look after her preschool child. If I say a word to her about her "tennis bum," she defends him.

Abby, if a man refuses to support his wife and child, isn't that sufficient grounds for divorce? How can I get my daughter to see this?

TIRED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter wants a divorce, let her dig up her own grounds. The word from here is, don't meddle, Mama.

DEAR ABBY: For several years now we have sent our son-in-law a check for his birthday. We used to buy him gifts, but it is so hard to pick out a gift to please a 28-year-old man, we thought a check made more sense.

We have never received a thank-you, verbal or written. He and our daughter live here in town, and we see them fairly often, so it would be a simple matter for him to say "Thank you for the check."

The only way we know that he has received these checks is because they come back cancelled with our bank statement.

Our son-in-law is not dumb. He went to college. He has a birthday coming up soon, and I'm considering sending him a card so he won't think we've forgotten him — but no check this time. His money is easier to come by than ours. Or should I just forget his birthday altogether?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I would.

Goodyear Blimp Deflated, Packed Away In Big Box

Houston (UPI) — All that's left for the Goodyear blimp Mayflower is a slow "pssst" and a box about the size of two coffins in the spare parts department.

Dwarfed by towering thunderclouds, the airship made a final flight over downtown before being decommissioned.

She was accompanied on the four-hour farewell ride by the new sister ship that will replace her. Together they looked like a pair of plump jellybeans bowing and curtsying as the pilots alternately raised and lowered their noses.

"Since I started with and trained on this airship, I'm sorry to see it go," said Ron Bell, a Mayflower pilot who spent 4,000 hours flying her. "But I'm also anxious to get into the new equipment."

The Mayflower's career spanned eight years, two more than the average blimp's life. She logged 12,500 hours flying at an average speed of 30 miles per hour.

Her last official assignment was a flyover of the Parade of Tall Ships in New York harbor July the Fourth.

Usually when Goodyear decommissions one of its blimps, the hardware is refurbished and the giant air sack simply scrapped. Such won't be the case for the Mayflower.

Instead, the 147,300 cubic feet of nonflamable helium that fills her will be let out and the 160-foot by 50-foot rubber-coated polyester bag will be folded neatly and packed into a box.

Almost 475,000 miles of lazy travel behind her, the Mayflower will become a spare part for her replacement, also named Mayflower, since the two ships are the last of a smaller breed of blimps.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead - six of hearts.

It was Somerset Maugham who said that bridge is "the most intellectually challenging game ever devised by the wit of man." Today's hand may not altogether prove the point, but it illustrates the kind of reasoning a careful declarer must sometimes apply.

West leads a heart and South wins East's jack with the king. It is true that declarer would often duck the jack with this heart combination, but here he does not do so because he is afraid East may shift to a club.

South's next step is to try to establish dummy's diamonds, but he must pursue the task in a gingerly fashion. Thus, if he plays the A-K of diamonds, or plays the ace and a low diamond, he goes down one against proper defense.

Instead, South leads a diamond at trick two and follows low from dummy. In the actual hand, East wins with the ten and returns the nine of hearts, overtaken by West with the ten. Declarer ducks but wins the next heart in dummy with the ace, noting that East follows suit.

If South now makes the mistake of leading the ace of diamonds — hoping to find the suit divided 3-2 — he goes down. But this would be a terribly wrong thing to do, as he can guarantee the contract 100 per cent by leading a low diamond from dummy instead. Eventually South scores three diamond tricks and three sets of A-Ks.

Note that every play by declarer is strictly dictated by logic. South takes every step possible to guard against a 4-1 diamond division (because he reasons that if the diamonds are divided 3-2 he is sure to make the contract) and he is ultimately well rewarded for doing everything just right.

All Lit Up

What can we do about getting street lights down by where we live? It's quite dark in the vicinity of our H street apartment building.

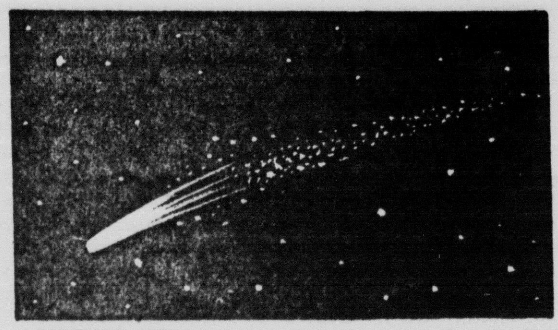
—J. Manyon, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Frank Grant, a spokesman for Lincoln Electric System, says you should either write or call Larry Pelter or Dave Decker of the LES Street Light Dept. with your suggestion. They will follow up on your request with a study to see if street lighting is necessary and will contact you with their decision.

Star Bright, What Light?

While reading some old family diaries I'm studying for a 4-H project, I found two references to an unexplained event on Nov. 11, 1833. Both times it was referred to as "the night the stars fell." What was this phenomenon?

—Rochelle Rohlfs, Unadilla



ACTION LINE: Local astronomers say that what the diary entries are probably referring to is a meteor shower. According to an astronomer from Nebraska Wesleyan University, about every 66 years there is an exceptionally bright meteoric show. One such shower probably occurred during the year you mentioned in your letter.

Please settle a friendly argument — a steak dinner goes to the winner: Is the Miss America Pageant and the Miss U.S.A. Pageant the same contest or are they separate?

To Your Good Health:

Pills No Answer To Job Irritations

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 23 years old and married. I have no children. In order to make ends meet I work full-time in a professional office. Up until nine months ago I was very happy with my position.

At that time a new partner became associated with our office, and there has been nothing but trouble ever since. I am not allowed to defend myself but am told to be quiet and stay out of everyone's way.

The frustration and loss of self-respect is incredible. I am a nervous wreck from morning until I get home, and even then it is difficult to unwind. I am sure my husband suffers because of my tension.

As long as I am forced into this position, is it feasible for me to take a daily tranquilizer to calm my nerves? I am generally not drug-oriented and am in perfect health, but I don't know how much longer I can go without getting an ulcer or some other related problem. — G.C.

Turning to tranquilizers would be a bad precedent to set for yourself. And besides, it probably won't work — not in the long run.

Let me quote from a recent news release published by the American Medical Association on this very subject.

"Everyone would like to turn on contentment or excitement and turn off discomfort and boredom at will. Drug abusers think they can. But the fact is that reality cannot be changed with a drink, a pill or an injection. When the drug wears off, reality is still there."

The drug use you are contemplating falls into the category called "circumstantial" — to cope with a specific problem. That would be fine if it were not for the pattern that follows — which may include intensified use or daily use to avoid daily situations, and finally, compulsive use, in which the drug dominates life and actually hinders social activities.

At 23 you are still forming your character. And this is formed as much by unpleasant episodes as by pleasant ones. What you get out of a pill won't substitute for what you can draw out of yourself during your troubles.

It seems obvious from your letter that you should start thinking of new employment. But meanwhile, try to accept things as they are. Be determined to be as pleasant and efficient as possible under the circumstances.

You worry about getting an ulcer. True, ulcers can develop from the strains anxiety can place on such functions as digestion. But tranquilizers are no more a complete answer to that than they are for an emotional problem.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been put on a 1,000-calories-a-day diet by my doctor. My husband and I both like to hunt and eat the meat we get. Has anyone calculated the amount of calories contained in game? I mean small game as well as big game like elk, deer, bear and antelope.

I'd like an answer because our diet consists mainly of venison for many months of the year. — B.B.

Yes, the food value of big game has been calculated. Most are low in fat, so would be comparable to very lean beef — 150 calories per 100 grams (three ounces). Pheasant also is lean meat.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am bothered with a film forming over my eyes. I have been to four different eye doctors and they say it is nothing to be bothered about and give me eyedrops, which don't help. I am in my late 60s. Can you advise on this? — B. C. H.

It could be either a chronic lid infection or excess tear formation caused by an allergy. Your doctors have apparently ruled out infection.

A plugged tear duct could be a cause, but with this you would have tears dripping out of the eye. If there is itching and redness of the eyeball or of the inside of the lids, you might suspect an infection.

It's more likely an allergic reaction — possibly to dust, pets or fumes about the house.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor has advised me that I cannot eat any foods containing gluten. I know gluten is found in flour, so I can't eat bread, crackers, potato chips, pretzels, cookies, pasta, etc.

Are there any other foods that contain gluten?

How about potatoes, corn, corn meal? — Mrs. S. H.

First question first. Yes, many other non-wheat products contain gluten. You will have to become an expert "label reader." For example, some puddings are thickened with flour. So are some canned meats, and prepared meats like sausage. Gluten-containing foods are too numerous to list even partially here.

Gluten is a vegetable protein found in wheat, buckwheat, oats, barley and rye, also malt, so all those should be avoided.

There are special low-protein bread, potato, rice and corn mixes for those on gluten-free diets.

White potatoes and corn are usually tolerated, but again, beware of those unless you can prove there is no gluten added.

Generally "anything that rises" in baking should be avoided. It is gluten that gives dough its elastic quality and its peculiar ability to rise when gas is released by yeast in the baking process.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Shirt Tail — The Mother Lode is wonderful country to putter around. Feeling your way off the highways on dirt roads. Discovering brick foundations where once there was a town of 10,000 people, three stores and 15 saloons.

On old graveled roads the stage coaches came down through the manzanita to find Black Bart, masked and pistols in hand, crying: "Throw down the box!"

(Black Bart dropped a handkerchief at the scene of a holdup. When they traced him by the laundry mark, he turned out to be a mild, little San Francisco clerk. He left poems when he held up the stages and signed himself "Black Bart the P08.")

☆ ☆ ☆

All around Placerville — once Hangtown — the towns melted into the summer grass. Shingle Springs and Diamond Springs. Webberville and Yelltown.

China Camp and Poverty Flat have disappeared.

French Flat is a cow pasture on the old road between Amador City and Sutter Creek where my great-grandfather prospected in 1850.

"I lost $1,000 on French Flat," he wrote later. "There was a Dutchman of the tribe of Ishmael working on the upper or east end of the flat. 'And he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and the presence of all his brethren.' " (Grandpa backed up all his statements with heavy doses of Scripture.)

"This man dwelt in our presence but we did not like him because he looked so savage."

"There was a place a hundred yards below where the big road crossed the flat we called 'the little island' " he wrote, describing the mining of those days. "When a hard rain fell, water ran around both sides. Rich claims (a mining claim was 15 square yards) had been worked 100 yards below and above it. We dug down to bedrock which had turned to clay, washed the pay dirt but got only $3. So we packed up and left.

"After we left, the Dutchman dug a prospect hole eight feet above and six feet east of the two ditches we had dug. He struck a spoon-shaped depression in bedrock that was yellow with lumps of gold and in four days had taken out $1,000."

He added: "I never saw this man wash his face or his clothes or comb his hair." Which showed, I suppose that the golden shower fell on the just and unjust alike. It was a matter of chance.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Certain drugs can be used to alleviate the physical symptoms of mental illness.

The Nebraska Medical Association reports one method of treatment besides psychotherapy is sedative drugs, which are used to promote sleep. Tranquilizing drugs are used to lower the level of anxiety. Mood-elevating drugs are used to lift a patient out of depression.

Some of these drugs have very real dangers. Even the mildest tranquilizers may cause the patient to become addicted. The sedative drugs, especially the barbiturates, have the same risk, and if taken in overdoses, can cause death. The use of sleeping pills is the most common way of committing suicide in this country.

All drugs are powerful agents and should be used only on the advice and prescription of a physician, emphasizes the Nebraska Medical Association.

Selloff Hits Blue Chips

NEW YORK (AP)—A late selloff directed especially at the auto issues and some other blue chips pinned the stock market with its fifth loss in a row Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been up 2 points in the early going and down only 2 going into the last hour, finished with an 8.56 loss at 962.63.

Over the last week the average has fallen 36.71 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 4-3 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume increased to 16.74 million shares from 15.45 million on Monday.

Among the auto stocks, Ford Motor fell more than 2, General Motors lost more than 1 and Chrysler was off nearly a point.

The automakers, for the first time in 32 ten-day reporting periods, failed to post an aggregate sales gain over year-ago levels in mid-August.

Analysts said Ford stock was hit hardest because the company's individual sales report showed a decline, and also because the United Auto Workers chose Ford as its target for a possible strike in contract negotiations.

Brokers said the flat car sales figures weren't all that shocking at this late stage of the model year.

But they said the news still seemed to provide a psychological push for sellers in an atmosphere of uneasiness over the market's recent weakness.

The market had made a small attempt at a rally beginning late Monday, when the Dow trimmed an early 7-point loss to 2.58 by the close. It picked up another 2 points at the outset Tuesday, but then stalled.

Brokers observed that that lukewarm upswing apparently convinced would-be buyers that they could hold off and be able to move in at lower prices later.

RCA lost a point. The company said late Monday it had set aside a $20 million reserve against an expected loss should it sell its British food subsidiaries.

—Staying Ahead

Officials Find Increase In Uninsured Motorists

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — Your chances of getting hit by an uninsured driver are going up. As auto insurance rates leap —sometimes by as mcuh as 50% — drivers who can't afford the cost simply drop their policies. Others cut down on the top coverage they've been carrying, and settle for something less.

There are nor hard figures yet on how many more uninsured drivers there are on the road nationwide, because the data are always published long after the fact. But the state motor vehicle officials and insurance people I spoke to last week says they're seeing more cases.

The Automobile Insurance Plans Service Office in New York publishes the data. The numbers are a little flaky in spots, but by AIPSO's best estimate, around 17.7% of drivers were entirely without insurance in 1974 (the latest year for which figures are available), compared with 17.2% the year before. AIPSO's Richard Decker agrees that the numbers have doubtlessly increased for 1975 and 1976.

It's illegal to drive without insurance in 22 states. Nevertheless, an average of 15.8% of the driving population in "mandatory" states didn't bother buying policies in 1974. In some states the penalty for breaking the law is quite lenient — in California, for example, there's only a $100 fine. Other states suspend your license, fine you, and sometimes make you personally liable for payments that would otherwise be covered by no-fault insurance.

In the 28 states where insurance is not required, there are financial responsibility laws that, in effect, allow drivers "one free accident." Only if a driver is convicted of an auto-related violation, or has an accident involving property damage of some minimum amount (usually in the area of $200), is insurance required.

In the financial-responsibility states, an average of 17.1% of drivers are uninsured. In other words, the majority of drivers there buy insurance to protect themselves from personal liability, even though the states do not require it. But if they decide to risk dropping their policies because the price is too high, there's no penalty.

For young people, auto insurance rates are getting to be virtually prohibitive, which will encourage uninsured driving among the very group most vulnerable to accidents.

The price of policies providing top coverage is increasing at a faster rate than for those written in lower amounts, which forces middle-income people to buy less coverage than they'd really like.

According to AIPSO, the following states have the highest percentage of uninsured drivers n the road: Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Rhode Island. Those with the lowest percentage are Delaware, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

If you're hit by an uninsured driver, the best hope for recovery is through your own insurance policy. You can sue the driver, of course, but unless the damages are small, he probably won't have enough funds to pay the judgment. You can attach his property and garnish his wages, but it will take a long time to get your money. If he skips to another town, you'll likely lose out entirely.

Nineteen states require that uninsured-motorists coverage be part of an auto policy; everywhere else it's optional. It costs only a few dollars, so is something every driver can afford. If you haven't bothered with it before, call your insurance agent and get the price.

Unfortunately, you can generally get coverage only for the state's minimum limits, which aren't large. Drivers involved in serious accidents rarely recover all their losses. Some states, however, allow higher levels of uninsured motorist protection, an option that should be open to everyone.

Uninsured motorist policies pay only for personal injury, not property damage. You have to sue the other driver for the price of getting you car fixed, or pay for it yourself.

What can we do about getting street lights down by where we live? It's quite dark in the vicinity of our H street apartment building.

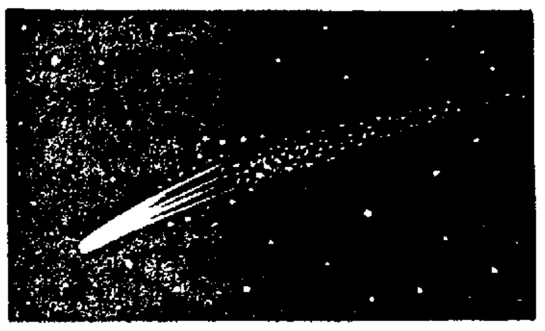
—J Manyon, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Frank Grant, a spokesman for Lincoln Electric System, says you should either write or call Larry Pelter or Dave Decker of the LES Street Light Dept. with your suggestion They will follow up on your request with a study to see if street lighting is necessary and will contact you with their decision

Star Bright, What Light?

While reading some old family diaries I'm studying for a 4-H project, I found two references to an unexplained event on Nov. 11, 1833. Both times it was referred to as "the night the stars fell." What was this phenomenon?

—Rochelle Rohlfs, Unadilla



ACTION LINE: Local astronomers say that what the diary entries are probably referring to is a meteor shower. According to an astronomer from Nebraska Wesleyan University, about every 66 years there is an exceptionally bright meteoric show One such shower probably occurred during the year you mentioned in your letter

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Certain drugs can be used to alleviate the physical symptoms of mental illness

The Nebraska Medical Association reports one method of treatment besides psychotherapy is sedative drugs, which are used to promote sleep Tranquilizing drugs are used to lower the level of anxiety Mood-elevating drugs are used to lift a patient out of depression

Some of these drugs have very real dangers Even the mildest tranquilizers may cause the patient to become addicted The sedative drugs, especially the barbiturates have the same risk, and if taken in overdoses, can cause death The use of sleeping pills is the most common way of committing suicide in this country

All drugs are powerful agents and should be used only on the advice and prescription of a physician, emphasizes the Nebraska Medical Association

To Your Good Health:

Pills No Answer To Job Irritations

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 23 years old and married. I have no children. In order to make ends meet I work full-time in a professional office. Up until nine months ago I was very happy with my position.

At that time a new partner became associated with our office, and there has been nothing but trouble ever since. I am not allowed to defend myself but am told to be quiet and stay out of everyone's way.

The frustration and loss of self-respect is incredible. I am a nervous wreck from morning until I get home, and even then it is difficult to unwind. I am sure my husband suffers because of my tension.

As long as I am forced into this position, is it feasible for me to take a daily tranquilizer to calm my nerves? I am generally not drug-oriented and am in perfect health, but I don't know how much longer I can go without getting an ulcer or some other related problem. — G.C.

Turning to tranquilizers would be a bad precedent to set for yourself And besides, it probably won't work — not in the long run

Let me quote from a recent news release published by the American Medical Association on this very subject

"Everyone would like to turn on contentment or excitement and turn off discomfort and boredom at will Drug abusers think they can. But the fact is that reality cannot be changed with a drink, a pill or an injection When the drug wears off, reality is still there "

The drug use you are contemplating falls into the category called "circumstantial" — to cope with a specific problem. That would be fine if it were not for the pattern that follows — which may include intensified use or daily use to avoid daily situations, and finally, compulsive use, in which the drug dominates life and actually hinders social activities.

At 23 you are still forming your character. And this is formed as much by unpleasant episodes as by pleasant ones What you get out of a pill won't substitute for what you can draw out of yourself during your troubles.

It seems obvious from your letter that you should start thinking of new employment But meanwhile, try to accept things as they are Be determined to be as pleasant and efficient as possible under the circumstances

You worry about getting an ulcer True, ulcers can develop from the strains anxiety can place on such functions as digestion But tranquilizers are no more a complete answer to that than they are for an emotional problem

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been put on a 1,000-calories-a-day diet by my doctor. My husband and I both like to hunt and eat the meat we get. Has anyone calculated the amount of calories contained in game? I mean small game as well as big game like elk, deer, bear and antelope.

I'd like an answer because our diet consists mainly of venison for many months of the year. — B.B.

Yes, the food value of big game has been calculated Most are low in fat, so would be comparable to very lean beef — 150 calories per 100 grams (three ounces). Pheasant also is lean meat

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am bothered with a film forming over my eyes. I have been to four different eye doctors and they say it is nothing to be bothered about and give me eyedrops, which don't help. I am in my late 60s. Can you advise on this? — B. C. H.

It could be either a chronic lid infection or excess tear formation caused by an allergy Your doctors have apparently ruled out infection

A plugged tear duct could be a cause, but with this you would have tears dripping out of the eye If there is itching and redness of the eyeball or of the inside of the lids, you might suspect an infection

It's more likely an allergic reaction — possibly to dust, pets or fumes about the house

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor has advised me that I cannot eat any foods containing gluten. I know gluten is found in flour, so I can't eat bread, crackers, potato chips, pretzels, cookies, pasta, etc.

Are there any other foods that contain gluten?

How about potatoes, corn, corn meal? — Mrs. S. H.

First question first Yes, many other non-wheat products contain gluten. You will have to become an expert "label reader" For example, some puddings are thickened with flour. So are some canned meats, and prepared meats like sausage Gluten-containing foods are too numerous to list even partially here

Gluten is a vegetable protein found in wheat, buckwheat, oats, barley and rye, also malt, so all those should be avoided

There are special low-protein bread potato, rice and corn mixes for those on gluten-free diets

White potatoes and corn are usually tolerated but again, beware of those unless you can prove there is no gluten added

Generally "anything that rises" in baking should be avoided It is gluten that gives dough its elastic quality and its peculiar ability to rise when gas is released by yeast in the baking process

Dr Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Shirt Tail — The Mother Lode is wonderful country to putter around. Feeling your way off the highways on dirt roads. Discovering brick foundations where once there was a town of 10,000 people, three stores and 15 saloons.

On old graveled roads the stage coaches came down through the manzanita to find Black Bart, masked and pistols in hand, crying: "Throw down the box!"

(Black Bart dropped a handkerchief at the scene of a holdup When they traced him by the laundry mark, he turned out to be a mild, little San Francisco clerk He left poems when he held up the stages and signed himself "Black Bart the P08 ")

☆ ☆ ☆

All around Placerville — once Hangtown — the towns melted into the summer grass Shingle Springs and Diamond Springs Webberville and Yelltown.

China Camp and Poverty Flat have disappeared

French Flat is a cow pasture on the old road between Amador City and Sutter Creek where my great-grandfather prospected in 1850

"I lost $1,000 on French Flat," he wrote later "There was a Dutchman of the tribe of Ishmael working on the upper or east end of the flat 'And he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and the presence of all his brethren.' " (Grandpa backed up all his statements with heavy doses of Scripture)

"This man dwelt in our presence but we did not like him because he looked so savage "

"There was a place a hundred yards below where the big road crossed the flat we called 'the little island' " he wrote, describing the mining of those days. "When a hard rain fell, water ran around both sides. Rich claims (a mining claim was 15 square yards) had been worked 100 yards below and above it We dug down to bedrock which had turned to clay, washed the pay dirt but got only $3 So we packed up and left

"After we left, the Dutchman dug a prospect hole eight feet above and six feet east of the two ditches we had dug. He struck a spoon-shaped depression in bedrock that was yellow with lumps of gold and in four days had taken out $1,000 "

He added "I never saw this man wash his face or his clothes or comb his hair " Which showed, I suppose that the golden shower fell on the just and unjust alike It was a matter of chance

Moore Conservative, Realistic About '76 KU Outlook

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Lawrence, Kan. — Kansas football coach Bud Moore admits he tries to be conservative about the game.

"At the same time I hope I'm realistic," the second-year Jayhawk coach told Big Eight Skywriters here Tuesday afternoon. "I wouldn't say I'm optimistic at all."

One skywriter, Charlie Smith of the Wichita Eagle-Beacon, said "I would agree with that."

On that note, the Skywriters, more than 40 of them, were on their own to assess the prospects of Kansas repeating last season's surprise performance which produced a 7-5 season, a Sun Bowl bid, and coach-of-the-year honors for Moore.

"Kansas is not realistically capable of winning the Big Eight championship," Moore said. "We're still scrambling, still trying to fill voids. I don't think we have 22 players capable right now. For us to be a contender some young people have to come through in the secondary and in the offensive line."

The Kansas situation, while obviously not as solid as the top contenders at Nebraska and Oklahoma, isn't nearly as bleak as Moore would like the rest of the conference to believe.

"I think we have some people capable of being good football players," Moore said in the same non-optimistic manner as he described prospects a year ago, A lot of those same players in 1975 jelled and Kansas became the Cinderella club of the Big Eight, even though the Jayhawks didn't nudge Nebraska and Oklahoma for the conference championship.

Depth, or a lack of it, is a common matter of discussion by the unfavored Big Eight teams, perhaps rightfully so, but Kansas isn't totally devoid of prospects for being a solid football team.

Moore admits he's trying some experiments at various positions, but none so drastic as the switch of Nolan Cromwell from defensive back to quarterback, which proved so effective last season.

"We're going to try to use Tom Dinkel some at linebacker as well as defensive end. He's capable of playing both places in the same game," Moore said.

Another switch could involve moving Tom Fitch to strong safety, which would free Harry Murphy to become defensive end.

Another effort to bolster the defensive secondary, where Kansas lost heavily by graduation, is the move of Skip Sharp from halfback to defensive corner.

"Sharp has picked things up in the secondary," Moore said. "He's a good athlete, intelligent and has good football sense. Chris Golub's knee is better than I expected. He has worked hard to rehabilitate it."

With the defensive secondary problems ironing themselves out and with the return of such stalwarts as Dinkel, Mike Butler, Franklin King and Terry Beeson, the Jayhawks might not be too shabby on defense.

BIG EIGHT Skywriters REPORT

Offensively, KU has intact a strong backfield plus a good split end corps, a returning tight end starter and some solid interior linemen. A boost here and there could vault the Jayhawks into prominence in Big Eight play.

Passing improvement would be a plus, although Moore comes from the 'old school' in that department. The Jayhawks ranked 134th among the nation's college teams in aerial efficiency last season.

Moore, however, says that when you put the ball in the air three things can happen and two of them are bad.

"We're going to have to throw more in order to move the football," Moore said. "If we don't, we're going to see nine and 10-man defensive fronts. Last year we were able to overcome it in some cases. We now have better execution and pretty good receivers even though they haven't caught the ball well."

Moore said Cromwell has been throwing much better than he did last season when he completed 20 of 49 passes for 333 yards and three touchdowns.

Moore, however, says he's prejudiced against throwing the football.

"I don't like to think of throwing the ball 15 times," he said. "I'm from the old school. I think it's better for your defensive team and for your team overall to maintain possession of the ball on the ground. If you throw 12 to 15 times, you've got to complete 50 per cent."

Moore bemoaned Kansas' lack of ability to take advantage of one of the 'beauties' of the wishbone, which he said is the ability to hit the long gainer as a surprise element.

When Moore started naming his team's top stars with potential, the list wasn't exactly short. His Jayhawks have a lot of key returners:

Laverne Smith, a running back who has become a complete football player.

Mike Butler, a defensive tackle with all the physical tools.

Tom Dinkel, a great contributor last season at defensive end.

Terry Beeson, a fine linebacker described as physically tough.

Norris Banks, a fullback who had an outstanding spring.

Billy Campfield, a halfback who is a good receiver and an outstanding blocker.

Kansas might not be as far down as Moore indicates.

Time will tell.

Bonness' Play No Surprise

By RANDY YORK

Watching Rik Bonness make the transition from all-American center to middle linebacker with the Oakland Raiders may have caught many Nebraska football fans by surprise last Saturday night.

It hardly snuck up on Nebraska head coach Tom Osborne, though.

"I've thought all along that Rik would make it as a pro linebacker and it's getting to look more like he's going to," Osborne said.

Bonness, Nebraska's starting center for three years, twice was the target of television's isolated camera in the Raiders' 23-14 loss to Los Angeles last Saturday night.

According to Raider linebacker coach Don Shinnick, the next two weeks will be critical for Bonness' chances of making the Oakland roster.

"Rik did well against the Rams," Shinnick said from the Raiders' training camp in Santa Rosa, Calif. "If he continues to do well against San Francisco this Sunday and Seattle the following week, he should be okay."

Three middle linebackers remain in the Raider training camp — starter Monte Johnson, a former Nebraska standout, No. 3 draft choice Bonness and Greg Blankenship, a free agent rookie from California.

"We'll keep two," Shinnick said. "Right now, Rik has done as well as any other first-year player and he's far ahead of many, even though he's playing a new position and was injured for a month."

Bonness suffered a pulled hamstring the week after Oakland opened its preseason camp. The Los Angeles game marked his pro debut.

"The Oakland coaching staff has been very patient with me," he said. "Monte has helped me quite a bit, too. I'm just dong the best I can and hoping everything falls into place."

Shinnick said "Rik has done everything we've asked him to do. He can cover people pretty well. He can hit and he's smart."

At 6-3½ and 215 pounds, Bonness is too small to play center in pro ball. He knew the minute he was drafted that was the case.

"They told me last April I would be tried at middle linebacker," Bonness said. "We had a four-day pre-camp in May and another in June. There's a great deal of difference and I need a lot of work on reading, but I'm enjoying it so far."

Bonness played center and defensive end at Bellevue High School.

"I remember when he came out of Shrine Bowl camp, we thought he'd make a great middle guard or linebacker," Osborne recalled.

"Some defensive coaches would have given up a lot to get him," he said, "but Doug Dumler was graduating and center was a real high priority for us. We needed someone quick and aggressive, who could start for three years."

Bonness' desire to become a better athlete was his greatest asset as a Husker according to Osborne.

"Rik played an awful lot of paddle ball and jumped rope constantly," he pointed out. "He was also one of our more fanatical weightlifters.

"In the off-season, he could get his weight up to 230 or 240," Osborne said, "but he's such a hyperactive, tense individual, he would always drop down to about 208-212. That's not big enough to play center in the pros."

Bonness accepted his fate and chose to ignore the obstacles in making the switch.

"I've never really stopped to ponder the reality of it all," he said. "The mental thing came into the picture a little when I was hurt, but I don't think about it now."

Shinnick, a linebacker with the Baltimore Colts for 12 years, likes that attitude.

"When you have the ability and certain other qualities," he said, "you don't worry about someone else. You just concentrate on your own job. That's what Rik is doing and that's why he's doing well."

Williams Favors Reserve Clause

BOSTON (AP) — Hall of Fame slugger Ted Williams said Tuesday baseball needs a reserve clause binding players to their teams.

But the former Boston Red Sox outfielder said players want changes and "I can't blame anyone for challenging it."

Williams threw out the ceremonial first ball in the Angels-Red Sox game, proceeds of which were turned over to the Jimmy Fund, a charity for children's cancer research.

Williams was a vigorous backer of the fund during his playing days. In the 1940s the charity was adopted as a favorite by the late Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey.

The 57-year-old Williams told reporters he agreed to come to Fenway Park for the first time since 1972 as a tribute to Yawkey, whom he called "the biggest non-big shot I ever knew."

Asked about the legal battle over the reserve clause, Williams said, "I have to think there should be some kind of a clause."

He said such a clause should bind players for at least six years.

Williams managed the Washington Senators and Texas Rangers following his 1960 retirement. He said he doubted he would manage again.

"I don't miss managing," he said, citing the pressure he felt from second-guessing by sports writers. "I don't think I'll ever come back."

NFL To Argue Lottery Case

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Walter K. Stapelton was scheduled to hear arguments Wednesday afternoon from the National Football League to support its effort to suppress Delaware's planned pro football wagering game.

The NFL's request for an injunction says the gambling game "injures the integrity of sports, causes fan disinterest or suspicion and undermines the financial investment of the clubs."

Peter M. Simmons, acting head of the Delaware lottery, told a news conference Tuesday that officials planned to push ahead to get the football gambling game into operation Sept. 1.

"We are continuing because we believe it is something desirable to the people, and in the opinion of our attorneys we have a proper and legal right to do that," Simmons said.

He made his comments after outlining how the "Scoreboard" game would work.

The proposed pari-mutuel wagering would come in two forms.

One part is named 'Touchdown" and is strikingly similar to illegal football cards which for years have attracted bets on college and pro games.

Under the proposed system, persons could bet on three, four or five games and must select both the winning teams and the point spreads. The card would list all 14 NFL games each week.

The other part of the game, called "Football Bonus," would have two slates of seven games each. A person could bet on one or both slates but must select the winning teams on each.

Simmons said the payoffs will be pari-mutuel in nature, with about 45 per cent of the money wagered in a particular segment being returned to the winning gamblers.

Bettors would be able to wager $1, $2, $3, $5 and $10 on their choices. Simmons said one million cards for each of the segments will be available Sept. 1.

The cards will be free. The money is collected when a person turns his selections over to a lottery agent.

The NFL is getting moral support from at least one Delaware source, the Rev. James M. Young, director of the Methodist Action Program in Wilmington.

"This is to register my person objection to the proposed football pool as an extension of the state lottery," the minister wrote to Simmons.

"The United Methodist Church has urged our state leadership to determine responsible forms of taxation to raise the necessary revenue our state requires,

"This exercise in one more form of irresponsible taxation is most unfortunate," he wrote. "Hopefully, the National Football League will be able to do what reason and persuasion have not been able to accomplish: put a halt to this folly."

Czechoslovakia, Soviets Withdraw

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia said Tuesday they will not allow their teams to play in the Federation Cup tennis championship here because of participation by teams from South Africa and Rhodesia.

Derek Hardwick, president of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, told a news conference the Russian and Czechoslovakian embassies in Washington informed tournament officials of their intention to withdraw from the $130,000 tournament.

Several teams, particularly from Africa, withdrew from Olympics competition in Montreal last month because of participation by the team from New Zealand. A rugby team from New Zealand was touring South Africa at the time.

That protest was against the racial policies of white-ruled South Africa.

Hardwick said that he has cabled the Soviet and Czechoslovakian governments asking them to reconsider their decision and has allowed a 24-hour postponement in their scheduled matches.

The Soviet Union was to have played Uruguay, and Czechoslovakia, the defending tournament champion, was to have played Canada at noon Tuesday.

Canada and Uruguay agreed to the 24-hour postponement. Both teams could have advanced by default because of the failure of the Russians and Czechs to show up.

Hardwick said the Russians and Czechs were not scratched from the tournament because "their withdrawal from the Federation Cup matches has wide implications for tennis and sports in general and in particular for the Olympic Games which the Russians will hold in 1980.

"Certain countries might reconsider their Olympic positions," he said. "We don't want politics in sports. We are giving the Russians 24 hours for them not to make fools of themselves."

Osborne: We Just Have To Improve A Lot

By DAVE SITTLER

Tom Osborne put a screeching halt Tuesday morning to some of the pre-season hoopla surrounding his Nebraska football team.

After sending the Cornhuskers through their first scrimmage of fall camp, Osborne attempted to put the brakes on the national publicity which has been building concerning Nebraska's chances this season.

"All this talk about national championships and Big Eight championships can wait," Osborne said following the drill which lasted about 70 minutes. "The way we played today, I'm not sure we'd win one football game. At this point we are a million miles away from being a good football team."

But Osborne wasn't suggesting Big Red fans should cancel their reservations in Miami for next January's Orange Bowl or forget about dusting off the old "we're No. 1 buttons."

"I'm not down on the team," Osborne said. "We just have to improve a lot.

"All this points up to all the pre-season publicity. It's really meaningless."

Osborne termed the initial scrimmage of the season, "fairly typical and kind of disheartening.

"But it was a controlled scrimmage. We called the plays. With the defensive sets we used some plays should go well and some shouldn't."

The No. 1 offensive and defensive units were not pitted against each other at any point during the drills. Instead, the frontliners worked against the reserves.

No touchdowns were scored by any unit, as I-back Byron Stewart pulled off the longest gainer of the day, a 20-yard burst while he was working with the No. 1 offense against the No. 3 defense.

Stewart, a sophomore from Oxen Hill, Md., who started the workout at no better than a third team I-back, suddenly found himself with No. 1 team because of injuries.

No. 1 I-back Monte Anthony was held out of action because the wrist he broke last spring is still tender. Dave Gillespie, who is sharing No. 1 duties with Anthony, suffered a muscle pull early in the drills and never reentered the scrimmage.

Taking advantage of his opportunity to run with the top offensive team, Stewart had gains of 15 and 10 yards in addition to his 20-yarder.

"Byron Stewart did some good things," Osborne said, "but then he probably had more opportunities than some of the others."

Osborne praised the work of quarterbacks Vince Ferragamo and Randy Garcia.

"Our offense is no oiled machine at this point," Osborne said. "But Ferragamo did a good job and Garcia did a few good things under a lot of pressure."

No serious injuries appeared to crop up from the workout. In addition to Gillespie's muscle pull, fullback Dodie Donnell had a groin pull and No. 1 safety, Larry Valasek, left early with a bloody nose.

Along with Anthony, No. 2 quarterback Tom Sorley and starting tight end Ken Spaeth did not participate in the scrimmage.

Sorley is still on the mend from a broken arm suffered last spring while Spaeth is slowed by a sore shoulder.

Osborne said Sorley and Anthony would not see any action in Saturday's scrimmage, but he plans to have them running a full speed by next week.

The Cornhuskers held Tuesday's scrimmage on the grass field because the opener against LSU will be played on natural turf. Osborne said he plans to have the team work out a couple of nights at Seacrest Field under the lights. The LSU game will be played at night in Baton Rouge on Sept. 11.

"We'd like to work at least twice at night before we go to Baton Rouge," Osborne said. "And then we will work out the Friday night before the game when we get to Baton Rouge."

The Cornhusker coach said no time has been set yet for the Saturday's scrimmage which will not be open to the public.

Osborne Unsure of Action

Cornhusker head coach Tom Osborne was not sure what legal action Nebraska might take in the wake of the Oklahoma district court ruling in favor of the Sooners against the NCAA Monday, concerning the limit of coaches per staff.

"I don't see what good it would do. Whatever is going to be done will probably be done on the Oklahoma and Alabama suits," Osborne said. "I can't go off half-cocked. Any action by us would depend on Bob Devaney and the Board of Regents.

"We generally feel the NCAA rule is incorrect. We're hoping the courts decide unilaterally, that the Oklahoma case applies to everyone. Of course, they may decide Oklahoma is a long-term special case. But we think there's a fair chance everyone will benefit."

Osborne said some coaching changes on the Nebraska staff are irreversible. For instance, Mike Church accepted a job at Washington State and Jim Ross is in charge of the Nebraska Sports Center.

Osborne indicated the greatest potential profit for Nebraska would be a move of head freshman coach Guy Ingles into a different category. Currently he is combining football coaching with alumni activities. Former offensive line assistant Dick Beechner, who is helping at the Sports Center and in the ticket office, might be able to return to coach.

"We had two or three graduate assistants we couldn't take because of the ruling and that might change too," Osborne said.

Selloff Hits Blue Chips

NEW YORK (AP)—A late selloff directed especially at the auto issues and some other blue chips pinned the stock market with its fifth loss in a row Tuesday

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been up 2 points in the early going and down only 2 going into the last hour, finished with an 8.56 loss at 962 63.

Over the last week the average has fallen 36 71 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 4-3 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues

Big Board volume increased to 16 74 million shares from 15.45 million on Monday.

Among the auto stocks, Ford Motor fell more than 2, General Motors lost more than 1 and Chrysler was off nearly a point.

The automakers, for the first time in 32 ten-day reporting periods, failed to post an aggregate sales gain over year-ago levels in mid-August.

Analysts said Ford stock was hit hardest because the company's individual sales report showed a decline, and also because the United Auto Workers chose Ford as its target for a possible strike in contract negotiations.

Brokers said the flat car sales figures weren't all that shocking at this late stage of the model year.

But they said the news still seemed to provide a psychological push for sellers in an atmosphere of uneasiness over the market's recent weakness.

The market had made a small attempt at a rally beginning late Monday, when the Dow trimmed an early 7-point loss to 2.58 by the close. It picked up another 2 points at the outset Tuesday, but then stalled.

Brokers observed that that lukewarm upswing apparently convinced would-be buyers that they could hold off and be able to move in at lower prices later.

RCA lost a point. The company said late Monday it had set aside a $20 million reserve against an expected loss should it sell its British food subsidiaries.

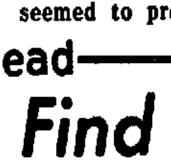
Officials Find Increase In Uninsured Motorists

By JANE BRYANT QUINN



Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — Your chances of getting hit by an uninsured driver are going up. As auto insurance rates leap —sometimes by as mcuh as 50% — drivers who can't afford the cost simply drop their policies Others cut down on the top coverage they've been carrying, and settle for something less.

There are nor hard figures yet on how many more uninsured drivers there are on the road nationwide, because the data are always published long after the fact But the state motor vehicle officials and insurance people I spoke to last week says they're seeing more cases.

The Automobile Insurance Plans Service Office in New York publishes the data. The numbers are a little flaky in spots, but by AIPSO's best estimate, around 17 7% of drivers were entirely without insurance in 1974 (the latest year for which figures are available), compared with 17.2% the year before. AIPSO's Richard Decker agrees that the numbers have doubtlessly increased for 1975 and 1976

It's illegal to drive without insurance in 22 states. Nevertheless, an average of 15 8% of the driving population in "mandatory" states didn't bother buying policies in 1974. In some states the penalty for breaking the law is quite lenient — in California, for example, there's only a $100 fine Other states suspend your license, fine you, and sometimes make you personally liable for payments that would otherwise be covered by no-fault insurance.

In the 28 states where insurance is not required, there are financial responsibility laws that, in effect, allow drivers "one free accident." Only if a driver is convicted of an auto-related violation, or has an accident involving property damage of some minimum amount (usually in the area of $200), is insurance required.

In the financial-responsibility states, an average of 17.1% of drivers are uninsured In other words, the majority of drivers there buy insurance to protect themselves from personal liability, even though the states do not require it. But if they decide to risk dropping their policies because the price is too high, there's no penalty.

For young people, auto insurance rates are getting to be virtually prohibitive, which will encourage uninsured driving among the very group most vulnerable to accidents.

The price of policies providing top coverage is increasing at a faster rate than for those written in lower amounts, which forces middle-income people to buy less coverage than they'd really like.

According to AIPSO, the following states have the highest percentage of uninsured drivers n the road: Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Rhode Island. Those with the lowest percentage are Delaware, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

If you're hit by an uninsured driver, the best hope for recovery is through your own insurance policy. You can sue the driver, of course, but unless the damages are small, he probably won't have enough funds to pay the judgment. You can attach his property and garnish his wages, but it will take a long time to get your money. If he skips to another town, you'll likely lose out entirely.

Nineteen states require that uninsured-motorists coverage be part of an auto policy; everywhere else it's optional. It costs only a few dollars, so is something every driver can afford. If you haven't bothered with it before, call your insurance agent and get the price.

Unfortunately, you can generally get coverage only for the state's minimum limits, which aren't large. Drivers involved in serious accidents rarely recover all their losses. Some states, however, allow higher levels of uninsured motorist protection, an option that should be open to everyone.

Uninsured motorist policies pay only for personal injury, not property damage. You have to sue the other driver for the price of getting you car fixed, or pay for it yourself.

Olympic Drug Use Confirmed

Morning Briefing

Repeat laboratory tests have confirmed findings that some Olympic weightlifting medal-winners used steroids, illegal muscle-building drugs, before competing in the summer games, official sources revealed Tuesday.

The results, which could lead to lifetime bans in any further world competition and possibly the loss of their medals, now must go to the International Olympic Committee for further action. The World Championship Medals were awarded in conjunction with the Olympic results and those medals, too, could be taken away.

Football

The Massachusetts house acted Tuesday to delay for 90 days the effective date of a bill designed to aid the New England Patriots football team.

Second-season punter Jeff West and first-year safety John Moseley of Missouri were among four players placed on waivers as the St. Louis Cardinals reduced their National Football League roster to 50 players.

Mankato State University announced Tuesday it had dropped intercollegiate football for the 1976 season but hopes to resume the sport, perhaps at a lower level of competiion in 1977.

San Diego Chargers' running back Joe Washington of Oklahoma will undergo surgery on an injured knee Wednesday and probably will be sidelined for eight weeks.

John Hufnagel, backup quarterback with the Denver Broncos, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the National Football League club announced Tuesday.

The New England Patriots waived seven players, including three veterans, Tuesday, and idled three others, cutting the squad to 51 players. Among those waived was linebacker Maury Damkroger, former University of Nebraska footballer and a graduate of Lincoln Northeast.

The Seattle Seahawks of the National Football League Tuesday acquired rookie wide receiver Cornelius Greene from the Dallas Cowboys and placed veteran safety Rondy Colbert on waivers.

Tennis

Jimmy Connors, in his first appearance at Longwood Cricket Club since winning in 1973, outlasted stubborn Steve Krulevitz, 7-5, 6-4, Tuesday in a first round match of the $125,000 U.S. pro tennis tournament.

Baseball

Seattle's American League expansion franchise was named the Mariners.

Former Boston outfielder Dom Dimaggio said Tuesday he was "very much interested" in buying the Red Sox, but that he has not made any offer to the widow of Thomas A. Yawkey.

Negotiators for the Montreal Expos of baseball's National League and the Olympic Installations Board have reached agreement that will, if given the blessings of the boards they represent, provide the Expos a long-term lease on the 70,000-plus seat Olympic stadium beginning in 1977.

Omaha Rallies For 4-1 Victory

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Pinch-hitter Craig Perkins singled in the go-ahead run Tuesday night as Omaha rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to defeat Indianapolis, 4-1, in American Association baseball.

Winning pitcher Mark Ballinger pitched six innings of no-hit ball and struck out seven before he was taken out of the game for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

After Indianapolis scored in the seventh, the Royals tied the game in the eighth on a bunt single by Brian Murphy. Singles by Perkins and Steve Staggs and a bases-loaded walk to Frank Ortenzio produced the final three Omaha runs.

Clark Seeks New NFL Team

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Boobie Clark, a rookie rage three years ago when he rumbled for 988 yards, says he doesn't fit into the Cincinnati Bengals' pass-oriented attack and wants to be traded.

"As long as they've got Ken Anderson here, they'll continue to emphasize the pass," said the 6-foot-2, 245-pound running back.

Clark said he plans to play out his option after next year and shop for a new National Football League club.

"I've asked them to trade me a couple times, but they flat out said they would not do it," said Clark.

Three years ago, Clark was named Rookie of the Year in the American Conference when he and halfback Essex Johnson teamed up for 988 and 995 yards respectively, giving the Bengals their best-ever ground game.

But the quick development of Anderson and a siege of backfield injuries has put emphasis on the passing game the past two seasons. Cincinnati ranked 24th in rushing last year among the NFL's 26 clubs.

"They want me to be more of a receiver than a running back," said Clark, a 12th-round draft choice out of Bethune-Cookman whose sure hands make him a frequent safety-valve target for Anderson.

Clark, 25, tied All-Pro wide receiver Isaac Curtis in receptions with 45 in 1973 and had 42 last year, five behind Curtis' team-leading total.

"They say they plan to run the ball more this year," said Clark. "But I'm skeptical. I don't prefer being a receiver. With me, being a running back is primary and receiving is secondary."

Clark sat out much of the 1974 season with a broken arm, but was the Bengals' leading rusher last year with 594 yards.

"I had a great preseason last year, but after the season started they just froze me. I was getting maybe 12 carries per game. I look around the league and see those other guys get 1,000 yards and I know I can do it.

"But those guys are getting 250 carries a season. I'll never get close again as long as I'm here. You can't do it on 150 carries a season."

Meanwhile, the Bengals appear to be moving away from their bulky backfields of recent years. The addition of two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and speedster Willie Shelby of Alabama indicate a return to a lighter, quicker backfield.

Yankee Rally Downs Twins

By United Press International

Willie Randolph's three-run double highlighted a four-run seventh inning rally Tuesday night that carried the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Chris Chambliss started the Yankees' uprising with a double and New York loaded the bases when Graig Nettles singled and Otto Velez walked. Bill Campbell replaced starter Ed Bane and allowed Randolph's basesclearing double down the right field line. Randolph was sacrificed to third base and Mickey Rivers delivered a run-scoring triple to score what proved to be the winning run.

Doyle Alexander held the Twins to just six hits over the first eight innings and received credit for his ninth win in 17 decisions, but he needed last out relief help from Grant Jackson after giving up a single to Dan Ford and a pinch homer to Tony Oliva in the ninth. It was Oliva's first homer of the year.

In other games, Cleveland edged Kansas City 2-1, California shaded Boston 6-5, Chicago turned bck Detroit 12-7, Oakland stopped Baltimore 5-4 and Milwaukee beat Texas 1-0 in 10 innings.

Rick Waits tossed a three-hitter and Ray Fosse singled home the go-ahead run in the fourth inning to pace the Indians over the Royals.

Terry Humphrey's two-out double in the ninth inning scored Rusty Torres and gave California a narrow victory over Boston. Paul Hartzell went the distance for the Angels, scattering seven hits to even his record at 4-4.

The White Sox, aided by four Detroit errors, scored seven unearned runs in the ninth inning and defeated the Tigers.

Gene Tenace's leadoff homer in the eighth inning and Joe Rudi's three runs-batted-in carried Oakland to a win over Baltimore.

Tim Johnson's third single of the game drove in Darrell Porter with the game's only run in the 10th inning to lift Milwaukee over Texas, the Brewers' seventh straight win against the Rangers.

Kings Sign Two Draft Choices

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Kings announced Tuesday they have signed two more of their 1976 draft choices — guard Clarence Ramsey, a fourth-round pick from Washington, and forward Willie Hodge, a fifth-round selection from Duke.

General Manager Joe Axelson said Hodge, who is 6 feet 9, signed a two-year pact. Ramsey, 6 feet 4, was signed to a one-year contract.

The latest signings brought to 20 the number of players on the roster of the National Basketball Association squad. The Kings will begin training Sept. 19 at Rockhurst College.

Tennis Wealth Spread Around

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United State Tennis Association Tuesday trimmed the top prizes in the U.S. Open tennis championships at Forest Hills by $10,000 and redistributed the wealth among the early losers at the request of the men's and women's associations.

The singles first prize had been reduced from $40,000 to $30,000. The runnerup, semifinalists and quarterfinalists also will receive decreased monetary awards as requested by the men's Association of Tennis Professionals and the Women's Tennis Association.

The competitors ousted in the round of 16 will receive an increase from $2,000 to $2,200, with similar increases all the way down to first-round losers, who will receive $425 instead of $300 as originally planned.

The total prize money for the U.S. Open, which runs from Sept. 1-12, is $416,000, an increase of more than $100,000 from last year. There also will be adjustments in the doubles payoffs.

Injuries Hit MU Gridders

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Completing two-a-day practices Tuesday, Missouri football Coach Al Onofrio said the major disappointment was the number of injuries.

"Most of them have been minor but they seem to hit one position harder and that's defensive tackle," Onofrio said.

The injured include defensive tackles Keith Morrissey and Randy Frisch along with nose guard Doug Bentlage.

Classes start Wednesday and the practices will be reduced to one a day.

Few of the injuries have been serious, and a lot of them didn't even happen in scrimmages.

"Some of them have been freakish," Onofrio said. "I walked into the dressing room today and one of our punters, Steve Blau, has an ice pack on his neck. He said, 'something snapped on the last punt.'"

Washington Deals For Defensive Help

STEVE OWENS . . . retirement now official.

By The Associated Press

The Washington Redskins moved to strengthen their defense Tuesday, obtaining safety Jake Scott from Miami and end John Matuszak from the Kansas City Chiefs.

Scott, the Dolphins' one-time All-Pro safety who had demanded to be traded, got his wish as Miami dealt him and a high draft choice to the Redskins for defensive back Bryant Salter.

Washington then picked up Matuszak from the Chiefs for two draft picks, one in 1977 and one in 1978. The draft rounds were not disclosed. The 6-foot-8, 275-pound defensive end, was the first player to be taken in the 1973 college draft.

As th National Football League's midnight deadline for roster cuts neared, the dealing became more intense. For the 26 established teams, the midnight roster limit is 49 players plus late-reporters from the College All-Star Game. For the expansion entries, Tampa Bay and Seattle, the limit remained at 60 plus all-stars.

The Houston Oilers spent a day of whirlwind dealing. They cut big defensive end Bubba Smith and three other players, then acquired running backs Altie Taylor from the Detroit Lions and Joe Dawkins from the New York Giants.

The Lions also lost another running back. Steve Owens confirmed what had been known for the past few days by announcing his retirement.

And the Lions may be losing a quarterback, too. General Manager Russ Thomas said Bill Munson had asked to be traded.

Scott, who had demanded last year to be traded, was suspended for a week this year by Coach Don Shula. He refused to take a painkiller in order to play in an exhibition game. "I never did refuse to play," Scott said. "I was always willing to play. But I will take no xylocaine in a preseason game. That's ridiculous."

In a trade late Tuesday night, the Dolphins dealt running back Mercury Morris to San Diego for an undisclosed draft choice.

The speedy back had been placed on waivers by Miami in hopes that another NFL team would show an interest so a deal could be worked out.

Dolphin spokesmen would not elaborate on the trade for Morris, second only to Larry Csonka in career rushing for the Dolphins.

Morris, who couldn't be reached for comment, had said Monday that he neither was surprised nor bitter about being placed on waivers.

The former West Texas State standout had asked last season to be played more or traded.

Salter beat out Brig Owens for the job as the Redskins' starting free safety last season but was moved to cornerback when Pat Fischer was injured. He regained the free safety job this year.

"It is difficult to give up a solid guy like Bryant Salter," Washington Coach George Allen said. "However, every decision that I make is because I think it makes us a stronger team. Scott is an all-pro and a big-play guy. He has leadership and wants to play for the Redskins. The high pick helps us."

Taylor was Detroit's all-time leading rusher with 4,297 yards in his seven seasons. Owens, often hampered by injuries, had 2,451 yards in 1970-74, then sat out last season following extensive knee surgery.

After the trade was announced, Taylor, Detroit's alltime leading rusher with 4,297 yards in his seven seasons, was discovered recuperating in Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital with what doctors described as "mental fatigue." Owens, often hampered by injuries, had 2,451 yards in 1970-74, then sat out last season following extensive knee surgery.

"I've always said that if I couldn't play up to the standards that I had set for myself, I wouldn't play at all," Owens said.

Smith, 31, signed with the Oilers last season to play behind his younger brother, Tody. Bubba, an all-pro at Baltimore, was dealt to Oakland, then was waived by the Raiders last year. "I'm going home (to Beaumont, Tex.)," he said. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I'm just going home."

Also cut by the Oilers were receivers Mike Montgomery and Steve Largent and punter Leroy Clark.

In Dawkins, Houston gets the Giants' leading rusher the past two seasons including 438 yards last year. New York also dealt offensive tackle Dave Simonson to the Oilers. For those two, the Giants received a pair of middle-round draft picks.

A pair of punters also bit the dust on this cut-down day. Among St. Louis' four cuts was second-year man Jeff West, and the New York Jets trimmed five players from their roster, including Greg Gantt.

Closed Circuit TV For OSU Contests

Stillwater, Okla. (UPI) — Arrangements have been completed for closed circuit television of Oklahoma State's football games at Arkansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma, athletic director Floyd Gass announced Tuesday.

The three road games will be "televised live at the actual time for each game site" and shown on a 15 foot by 20 foot screen in Gallagher Hall on the OSU campus, Gass said.

"We have tickets avilable now and we expect a very good response because the game at Little Rock is virtually sold out and there is little chance our game with OU will be televised," Gass said.

More Sports,

There will be no reserved seating, he said. The tickets, at $5 each, and seats will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

"There'll definitely be no instate television of the OSU-OU game because of litigation pending with cable television," he said. "Of course, there is the outside chance ABC-TV might select that game as a wild car contest but it's not very likely because OU is on nationally with Texas and Nebraska."

Approval has been received from the Big Eight conference office for the broadcasts by Champion Productions, directed by Jack Ogle, Gass said.

Oman Replaces Norfolk's McGill

Norfolk (AP) — Dave Oman, an Omaha native, has been hired to replace Rich McGill as head basketball coach at Norfolk High School.

McGill resigned after one year to accept a similar position at Platte College in Columbus.

Oman coached at Table Rock and most recently at Wilber-Clatonia, where he compiled an overall 99-61 record.

Dr. Richards Extended

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Dr. Renee Richards, the controversial transsexual who has stirred such a fear among women tennis pros, is not the invincible player that foes have made her out to be.

Little Caroline Stoll, a 15-year-old amateur from Livingston, N.J., made Dr. Richards a more human and vulnerable player when she battled through three sets before losing by scores of 6-2, 0-6, 6-1, Tuesday in the $60,000 Tennis Week Open.

Stoll, ranked No. 1 in the girls 16-years-and-under class by the Eastern Tennis Association, was outplayed in the first set before making a stirring comeback in the middle set. The majority of the crowd of 3,200 clearly cheered the local favorite and the 5-5 high school junior responded with fine topspin shots that produced numerous errors.

"I didn't resent the crowd at all," Dr. Richards said later. "It's that way in America, always rooting for the underdog. Caroline has a great future for a 15-year-old and she played an intelligent game."

The game referred to was her ability in the middle set to hit deep topspin shots that produced numerous unforced errors by the 42-year-old Dr. Richards, the former Dr. Richard Raskind, a New York eye surgeon, before a sex-change operation last year.

Then experience took over in the decisive third set. "I paced myself for the third," said Dr. Richards. "I was sure I'd win but I must say it was the toughest match I've had in a long time."

In truth Dr. Richards did have some worrying to do. She had a 0-40 lead on Caroline's serve in the first game of the third set only to find Stoll able to battle to three deuces before losing on a doublefault.

"Maybe if I blew that game then I might have been concerned," said Dr. Richards. She ran out the match 21 minutes later in a second-round tussle that consumed 1 hour 28 minutes.

The players chatted amiably prior to a press interview and Caroline remarked that she "couldn't believe that you (Renee) weren't in the game for the money." And Dr. Richards responded:

"Would you go through a sexchange operation for money?"

Caroline quickly answered: "No, but aren't you in this for the money and the publicity?"

"Absolutely not," Dr. Richards retorted. "I have a medical practice (ophthamology) in which I earn $100,000 a year."

This late afternoon match overshadowed the earlier victories by second-seeded Roscoe Tanner and seventh-seeded Dick Stockton.

Columbus

Columbus — The total mutuel handle for the recently concluded 10-day Nebraska State Fairgrounds horse racing season here at Agricultural Park was more than $200,000 higher than a corresponding period one year ago.

Columbus Races general manager Warren Albert said the 10-day Lincoln segment handled $2,655,179. A year ago, the first 10 days of the Columbus meet handled $2,404,133.

Albert said the State Fairgrounds will earn $132,758.95 from the Columbus meet.

In addition to those figures, the Columbus races also paid sales tax, State Racing Commission admission tax and taxes on claimed horses. While the State Fair does not share in that money, the State of Nebraska and the Nebraska State Racing Commission will benefit.

The first 15 days of the Lincoln races were held at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. The total profit to the Fairgrounds was about $146,000.

6 Cities To Talk Horses

Columbus — The Nebraska State Racing Commission will meet here Wednesday morning to decide the 1977 Nebraska quarterhorse racing schedule.

"This is the first meeting ever just for quarterhorses," noted commission executive secretary Mort Porter of Nebraska City.

Porter said six cities have requested time to explain their positions. But, he stressed, that doesn't necessarily mean all six cities are ready to run their meets in 1977.

"But they all for sure aren't going to ask for dates in 1977," Porter added. "Deshler and Broken Bow for sure will be ready to run, but we just aren't certain about the other groups."

Groups scheduled to appear at the meeting beginning at 11 a.m. at a local motel include Deshler, Broken Bow, McCook, Seward, Kearney and Alma.

"That's all that have contacted me. Some other groups may have contacted other members of the commission and I don't know about them," Porter said.

Although Deshler had a fairly successful 1976 meet, Broken Bow didn't fare as well. Deshler, in a more heavily-populated area near Kansas reportedly made money in its first season of racing.

Broken Bow, in its second season of racing, is rumored to have sustained financial losses.

"This is just a guess, but we don't think Broken Bow is ready to throw in the towel," Porter said. "But if they don't perk up a little next year, then we may have to call it off."

Other items onthe agenda include a progress report on open horse claiming and a rule change to allow betting entries in exacta races.

Commission members include chairman Harry Farnham of Elkhorn, vice-chairman Duane Fudge of Newman Grove and Virginia Coffey of Orleans.

UPI

WHITEY HERZOG . . . Managing Kansas City Royals in quest of American League championship.

Herzog, Royals Hoping Finley's 'Guess' Wrong

New York (UPI) — Whitey Herzog knows Charlie Finley. He probably knows him better than any of the 14 managers Finley has had. Herzog once worked for Finley as a coach and turned down a chance to manage the A's. That's how well he knows Finley.

Whitey Herzog has his Kansas City Royals well out in front in the American League West and he knows Charlie Finley's habits and methods so well that he didn't have too much reaction recently when one of Finley's statements was called to his attention.

Finley said the Royals were going to choke and the A's were going to catch them and win in the West for the sixth straight year. Herzog knew Finley had said what he did hoping to upset the Royals and cut down the distance between them and the second place A's.

"They've been talking all year," says Herzog. "We've kept out mouths shut and played. So far, we've won 75 games. Our goal is to win 95-96. If we do that, we don't have to pay attention to what anybody says. Last year we won 91 games, which wasn't too bad. When I got here a year ago, we were 11 games back. We got within 5 and finished 7 back.

The Royals, now in Cleveland, are in the middle of their longest road trip, and their most important one. They're 8½ games up on the A's and if they can get back home Sept. 3 with anywhere near the same kind of lead they have now, they can start making playoff plans.

Mindful of how close Kansas City came to surprising everybody last year, only to fall back in the final weeks, Herzog feels that experience automatically makes his ball club stronger this time around.

"We're loose, but we're not overconfident," he says. "We've got nine more games left on this road trip. Every one is mighty mportant to us.

"When Finley said we were gonna choke, we were 7 games ahead. Yeah, we all saw what he had to say in the papers, but we didn't make a big issue of it. If we win our share of ball games, what Charlie Finley says isn't going to make a whole lot of difference."

Win or lose, the blond, 44-year-old Herzog has done an outstanding job with the Royals this year especially considering he lost three of his top pitchers, Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird, but he realizes if the Royals should stumble and fail to win, despite their excellent showing up to now, the season would be considered a disaster.

Bird, the 6-4 right-hander with the good fastball and slider who was the club's top reliever the past three seasons but converted into a regular starter this year, is the only one of the three back in action among the three pitchers who were sidelined with injuries.

"I don't know what other ball club has lost three pitchers like Busby, Splittorff and Bird," says Herzog, who can be thankful Dennis Leonard, Al Fitzmorris and Marty Pattin took up some of the slack among the starters and Mark Littell and Steve Mingori some of it among the relievers.

Herzog can also be crateful he has had hitters like Hal McRae, George Brett and Amos Otis available all year, and he is. McRae and Brett are running 1-2 for the American League batting title and although Otis' average doesn't match theirs, he has had a good year all around.

Right now, it looks as if Herzog will be managing against a long-time buddy of his, Billy Martin, in the American League playoffs.

The Yankees' pitching would give them an edge but you know how that goes, anything can happen in a short series and nobody believes that more than Herzog.

"We played them 12 games this year and all of them went right down to the last out, the last pitch, except one," he says. "Only one game was lopsided, and we won it, 8-2. In the 12 games we played the Yankees, we won 7 and lost 5."

Whitey Herzog keeps drawing a great deal of praise these days, and he always makes sure to channel it back to his players.

"I got good players," he says. "Not only good players, but good guys. Just because your team is winning doesn't make you a good manager. I just happened to step into a situation where the material already was there. It's the ballplayers who win the ball games, not the manager."

Talbert To Bypass U.S. Open Tennis Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — The U. S. Open Tennis Championships pitch their tents at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills next week, and for the first time in years one of the most familiar faces will be missing.

As ranking player, Davis Cup captain, volunteer benefactor of youngsters and more recently general chairman of the big event, William F. Talbert had established himself as an integral part of the mushrooming sport.

Now he is on the sidelines— technically fired without cause by the U. S. Tennis Association.

"See you at Forest Hills next week," a friend casually remarked to the Wall Street banknote executive.

"Not me—I won't be there," Talbert replied.

"Not even as a spectator?" the friend asked.

"No, not as a spectator," he said.

More's the pity.

It is easy to understand Talbert's bitterness, if such exists. Tennis has saturated his life. He has been one of the most dedicated and progressive instruments in a sport that has suffered badly from 19th Century stuffiness, absence of imagination and lack of direction.

The current popularity of tennis has been achieved in spite of—not because of—the men in blue jackets who make the policy decisions. The International Lawn Tennis Federation is a colossal joke, without backbone and without power. It has allowed international game to deteriorate into a mish-mash of widely scattered events of little more than exhibition significance.

The Davis Cup, rich in tradition and once the centerpiece of world tennis, has so eroded that its demise is thought imminent. It isn't commercial enough for the hungry pros and the wheelers and dealers now running the game.

Kudos for the tennis boom must go to independent operators such as Texan Lamar Hunt, who bankrolled the World Championship Tennis circuit; Gladys Heldman, who conceived and built the Virginia Slims women's tour; Billie Jean King, who beat Bobby Riggs; Chris Evert, who was just Chris Evert, and Talbert, the innovator, the revolutionary, the fresh breeze in a stagnant atmosphere.

Talbert, now in his 50s, grew up in Cincinnati, was one of the first diabetics to take part in active sports, battled his way to the top, ranked in the top 10 for 13 years, twice gained the men's final at Forest Hills.

Wisconsin Test For Unser

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) — Al Unser, third in the U. S. Auto Club national point standings after his Tony Bettenhausen speedway car race triumph in Milwaukee last Sunday, will try to overtake the Formula 5,000 road racing circuit leaders Saturday.

Unser, two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, is one of the top entrants in the 80 mile test scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the twisting, four mile Road America circuit here.

Australian Alan Jones and Jackie Oliver of England share the Formula 5,000 lead with 84 points each after five races in the seven-event series. Both have entered Saturday's $25,000 test, although Jones' appearance is doubtful because he also has entered a grand prix event scheduled Sunday in Holland.

Brian Redman of England, who has won the 5,000 series the last two years, currently ranks third with 80 points after a slow start. Unser, a speedway car circuit veteran but relatively new to road racing, is fourth with 60. Danny Ongais of California is fifth with 54.

The winner will earn 36 points toward the series championship. Second place is worth 24 points and third 12.

Unser, who missed the season's first two 5,000 events, has finished second twice and fourth once in his only starts. He was second to Oliver by 4.8 seconds in a series race here July 24.

After Saturday's race, officials will combine the results with those of previous races this season to handicap drivers for Sunday's 5,000 handicap race, a 100 miler with $40,000 at stake.

Steelers' Banaszak 'More Secure'

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Last season, John Banaszak was a nervous rookie sweating out roster cuts at the Pittsburgh Steelers training camp. This year, he's enjoying a measure of job security on the defensive line.

The 6-foot-3, 244-pound ex-Marine nailed down a job as the Steelers' sixth defensive lineman last week when Bob Barber was traded to Green Bay.

"I was happy to see him get traded. But I wasn't that worried if he stayed," Banaszak said.

"They were thinking of carrying seven linemen and I thought if I played well, they'd keep me. There was nothing personal. We got along well," he added.

The Steelers press guide calls Banaszak, a 1975 free agent from Eastern Michigan, the "most impressive player in the 1975 training camp."

He was used sparingly early in the season but won the confidence of the coaches substituting for L. C. Greenwood in the first Houston game in which he was in on two sacks and six tackles.

In last Friday's 17-0 loss to the New York Giants, Banaszak was in three series in the first half, including a second-quarter sack, and also saw some action in the final period.

His style is flamboyant and when he makes a particularly good play, he seems to enjoy it as much as the fans.

"I'm always fired up, even on the sidelines. I like to be prepared emotionally as well as mentally and physically," he said.

Part of his preparation involes a technique known as "visualization," which he learned at Eastern Michigan.

"It's mind training. A lot of people don't utilize all of their body, and the mind is the first thing they don't use correctly. It's helped me out quite a bit in getting my mind to bring future to reality," he said.

Banaszak says he visualizes what the opposing line will do in certain situations to prepare his reflexes for the time when that situation doe

Moore Conservative, Realistic About '76 KU Outlook

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Lawrence, Kan. — Kansas football coach Bud Moore admits he tries to be conservative about the game.

"At the same time I hope I'm realistic," the second-year Jayhawk coach told Big Eight Skywriters here Tuesday afternoon. "I wouldn't say I'm optimistic at all."

One skywriter, Charlie Smith of the Wichita Eagle-Beacon, said "I would agree with that."

On that note, the Skywriters, more than 40 of them, were on their own to assess the prospects of Kansas repeating last season's surprise performance which produced a 7-5 season, a Sun Bowl bid, and coach-of-the-year honors for Moore.

"Kansas is not realistically capable of winning the Big Eight championship," Moore said. "We're still scrambling, still trying to fill voids. I don't think we have 22 players capable right now. For us to be a contender some young people have to come through in the secondary and in the offensive line."

The Kansas situation, while obviously not as solid as the top contenders at Nebraska and Oklahoma, isn't nearly as bleak as Moore would like the rest of the conference to believe.

"I think we have some people capable of being good football players," Moore said in the same non-optimistic manner as he described prospects a year ago, A lot of those same players in 1975 jelled and Kansas became the Cinderella club of the Big Eight, even though the Jayhawks didn't nudge Nebraska and Oklahoma for the conference championship.

Depth, or a lack of it, is a common matter of discussion by the unfavored Big Eight teams, perhaps rightfully so, but Kansas isn't totally devoid of prospects for being a solid football team.

Moore admits he's trying some experiments at various positions, but none so drastic as the switch of Nolan Cromwell from defensive back to quarterback, which proved so effective last season.

"We're going to try to use Tom Dinkel some at linebacker as well as defensive end. He's capable of playing both places in the same game," Moore said.

Another switch could involve moving Tom Fitch to strong safety, which would free Harry Murphy to become defensive end.

Another effort to bolster the defensive secondary, where Kansas lost heavily by graduation, is the move of Skip Sharp from halfback to defensive corner.

"Sharp has picked things up in the secondary," Moore said. "He's a good athlete, intelligent and has good football sense. Chris Golub's knee is better than I expected. He has worked hard to rehabilitate it."

With the defensive secondary problems ironing themselves out and with the return of such stalwarts as Dinkel, Mike Butler, Franklin King and Terry Beeson, the Jayhawks might not be too shabby on defense.

BIG EIGHT Skywriters REPORT

Offensively, KU has intact a strong backfield plus a good split end corps, a returning tight end starter and some solid interior linemen. A boost here and there could vault the Jayhawks into prominence in Big Eight play.

Passing improvement would be a plus, although Moore comes from the 'old school' in that department. The Jayhawks ranked 134th among the nation's college teams in aerial efficiency last season.

Moore, however, says that when you put the ball in the air three things can happen and two of them are bad.

"We're going to have to throw more in order to move the football," Moore said. "If we don't, we're going to see nine and 10-man defensive fronts. Last year we were able to overcome it in some cases. We now have better execution and pretty good receivers even though they haven't caught the ball well."

Moore said Cromwell has been throwing much better than he did last season when he completed 20 of 49 passes for 333 yards and three touchdowns.

Moore, however, says he's prejudiced against throwing the football.

"I don't like to think of throwing the ball 15 times," he said. "I'm from the old school. I think it's better for your defensive team and for your team overall to maintain possession of the ball on the ground. If you throw 12 to 15 times, you've got to complete 80 per cent."

Moore bemoaned Kansas' lack of ability to take advantage of one of the 'beauties' of the wishbone, which he said is the ability to hit the long gainer as a surprise element.

When Moore started naming his team's top stars with potential, the list wasn't exactly short. His Jayhawks have a lot of key returners:

Laverne Smith, a running back who has become a complete football player.

Mike Butler, a defensive tackle with all the physical tools.

Tom Dinkel, a great contributor last season at defensive end.

Terry Beeson, a fine linebacker described as physically tough.

Norris Banks, a fullback who had an outstanding spring.

Billy Campfield, a halfback who is a good receiver and an outstanding blocker.

Kansas might not be as far down as Moore indicates.

Time will tell.

Bonness' Play No Surprise

By RANDY YORK

Watching Rik Bonness make the transition from all-American center to middle linebacker with the Oakland Raiders may have caught many Nebraska football fans by surprise last Saturday night.

It hardly snuck up on Nebraska head coach Tom Osborne, though.

"I've thought all along that Rik would make it as a pro linebacker and it's getting to look more like he's going to," Osborne said.

Bonness, Nebraska's starting center for three years, twice was the target of television's isolated camera in the Raiders' 23-14 loss to Los Angeles last Saturday night.

According to Raider linebacker coach Don Shinnick, the next two weeks will be critical for Bonness' chances of making the Oakland roster.

"Rik did well against the Rams," Shinnick said from the Raiders' training camp in Santa Rosa, Calif. "If he continues to do well against San Francisco this Sunday and Seattle the following week, he should be okay."

Three middle linebackers remain in the Raider training camp — starter Monte Johnson, a former Nebraska standout, No. 3 draft choice Bonness and Greg Blankenship, a free agent rookie from California.

"We'll keep two," Shinnick said. "Right now, Rik has done as well as any other first-year player and he's far ahead of many, even though he's playing a new position and was injured for a month."

Bonness suffered a pulled hamstring the week after Oakland opened its preseason camp. The Los Angeles game marked his pro debut.

"The Oakland coaching staff has been very patient with me," he said. "Monte has helped me quite a bit, too. I'm just dong the best I can and hoping everything falls into place."

Shinnick said "Rik has done everything we've asked him to do. He can cover people pretty well. He can hit and he's smart."

At 6-3½ and 215 pounds, Bonness is too small to play center in pro ball. He knew the minute he was drafted that was the case.

"They told me last April I would be tried at middle linebacker," Bonness said. "We had a four-day pre-camp in May and another in June. There's a great deal of difference and I need a lot of work on reading, but I'm enjoying it so far."

Bonness played center and defensive end at Bellevue High School.

"I remember when he came out of Shrine Bowl camp, we thought he'd make a great middle guard or linebacker," Osborne recalled.

"Some defensive coaches would have given up a lot to get him," he said, "but Doug Dumler was graduating and center was a real high priority for us. We needed someone quick and aggressive, who could start for three years."

Bonness' desire to become a better athlete was his greatest asset as a Husker according to Osborne.

"Rik played an awful lot of paddle ball and jumped rope constantly," he pointed out. "He was also one of our more fanatical weightlifters.

"In the off-season, he could get his weight up to 230 or 240," Osborne said, "but he's such a hyperactive, tense individual, he would always drop down to about 208-212. That's not big enough to play center in the pros."

Bonness accepted his fate and chose to ignore the obstacles in making the switch.

"I've never really stopped to ponder the reality of it all," he said. "The mental thing came into the picture a little when I was hurt, but I don't think about it now."

Shinnick, a linebacker with the Baltimore Colts for 12 years, likes that attitude.

"When you have the ability and certain other qualities," he said, "you don't worry about someone else. You just concentrate on your own job. That's what Rik is doing and that's why he's doing well."

Williams Favors Reserve Clause

BOSTON (AP) — Hall of Fame slugger Ted Williams said Tuesday baseball needs a reserve clause binding players to their teams.

But the former Boston Red Sox outfielder said players want changes and "I can't blame anyone for challenging it."

Williams threw out the ceremonial first ball in the Angels-Red Sox game, proceeds of which were turned over to the Jimmy Fund, a charity for children's cancer research.

Williams was a vigorous backer of the fund during his playing days. In the 1940s the charity was adopted as a favorite by the late Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey.

The 57-year-old Williams told reporters he agreed to come to Fenway Park for the first time since 1972 as a tribute to Yawkey, whom he called "the biggest non-big shot I ever knew."

Asked about the legal battle over the reserve clause, Williams said, "I have to think there should be some kind of a clause."

He said such a clause should bind players for at least six years.

Williams managed the Washington Senators and Texas Rangers following his 1960 retirement. He said he doubted he would manage again.

"I don't miss managing," he said, citing the pressure he felt from second-guessing by sports writers. "I don't think I'll ever come back."

NFL To Argue Lottery Case

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Walter K. Stapelton was scheduled to hear arguments Wednesday afternoon from the National Football League to support its effort to suppress Delaware's planned pro football wagering game.

The NFL's request for an injunction says the gambling game "injures the integrity of sports, causes fan disinterest or suspicion and undermines the financial investment of the clubs."

Peter M. Simmons, acting head of the Delaware lottery, told a news conference Tuesday that officials planned to push ahead to get the football gambling game into operation Sept. 1.

"We are continuing because we believe it is something desirable to the people, and in the opinion of our attorneys we have a proper and legal right to do that," Simmons said.

He made his comments after outlining how the "Scoreboard" game would work. The proposed pari-mutuel wagering would come in two forms.

One part is named 'Touchdown" and is strikingly similar to illegal football cards which for years have attracted bets on college and pro games.

Under the proposed system, persons could bet on three, four or five games and must select both the winning teams and the point spreads. The card would list all 14 NFL games each week.

The other part of the game, called "Football Bonus," would have two slates of seven games each. A person could bet on one or both slates but must select the winning teams on each.

Simmons said the payoffs will be pari-mutuel in nature, with about 45 per cent of the money wagered in a particular segment being returned to the winning gamblers.

Bettors would be able to wager $1, $2, $3, $5 and $10 on their choices. Simmons said one million cards for each of the segments will be available Sept. 1.

The cards will be free. The money is collected when a person turns his selections over to a lottery agent.

The NFL is getting moral support from at least one Delaware source, the Rev. James M. Young, director of the Methodist Action Program in Wilmington.

"This is to register my person objection to the proposed football pool as an extension of the state lottery," the minister wrote to Simmons.

"The United Methodist Church has urged our state leadership to determine responsible forms of taxation to raise the necessary revenue our state requires,

"This exercise in one more form of irresponsible taxation is most unfortunate," he wrote. "Hopefully, the National Football League will be able to do what reason and persuasion have not been able to accomplish: put a halt to this folly."

Czechoslovakia, Soviets Withdraw

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia said Tuesday they will not allow their teams to play in the Federation Cup tennis championship here because of participation by teams from South Africa and Rhodesia.

Derek Hardwick, president of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, told a news conference the Russian and Czechoslovakian embassies in Washington informed tournament officials of their intention to withdraw from the $130,000 tournament.

Several teams, particularly from Africa, withdrew from Olympics competition in Montreal last month because of participation by the team from New Zealand. A rugby team from New Zealand was touring South Africa at the time.

That protest was against the racial policies of white-ruled South Africa.

Hardwick said that he has cabled the Soviet and Czechoslovakian governments asking them to reconsider their decision and has allowed a 24-hour postponement in their scheduled matches.

The Soviet Union was to have played Uruguay, and Czechoslovakia, the defending tournament champion, was to have played Canada at noon Tuesday.

Canada and Uruguay agreed to the 24-hour postponement. Both teams could have advanced by default because of the failure of the Russians and Czechs to show up.

Hardwick said the Russians and Czechs were not scratched from the tournament because "their withdrawal from the Federation Cup matches has wide implications for tennis and sports in general and in particular for the Olympic Games which the Russians will hold in 1980.

"Certain countries might reconsider their Olympic positions," he said. "We don't want politics in sports We are giving the Russians 24 hours for them not to make fools of themselves"

Osborne: We Just Have To Improve A Lot

By DAVE SITTLER

Tom Osborne put a screeching halt Tuesday morning to some of the pre-season hoopla surrounding his Nebraska football team.

After sending the Cornhuskers through their first scrimmage of fall camp, Osborne attempted to put the brakes on the national publicity which has been building concerning Nebraska's chances this season.

"All this talk about national championships and Big Eight championships can wait," Osborne said following the drill which lasted about 70 minutes. "The way we played today, I'm not sure we'd win one football game. At this point we are a million miles away from being a good football team."

But Osborne wasn't suggesting Big Red fans should cancel their reservations in Miami for next January's Orange Bowl or forget about dusting off the old "we're No. 1 buttons."

"I'm not down on the team," Osborne said. "We just have to improve a lot.

"All this points up to all the pre-season publicity. It's really meaningless."

Osborne termed the initial scrimmage of the season, "fairly typical and kind of disheartening.

"But it was a controlled scrimmage. We called the plays. With the defensive sets we used some plays should go well and some shouldn't."

The No. 1 offensive and defensive units were not pitted against each other at any point during the drills. Instead, the frontliners worked against the reserves.

No touchdowns were scored by any unit, as I-back Byron Stewart pulled off the longest gainer of the day, a 20-yard burst while he was working with the No. 1 offense against the No. 3 defense.

Stewart, a sophomore from Osen Hill, Md., who started the workout at no better than a third team I-back, suddenly found himself with No. 1 team because of injuries.

No. 1 I-back Monte Anthony was held out of action because the wrist he broke last spring is still tender. Dave Gillespie, who is sharing No. 1 duties with Anthony, suffered a muscle pull early in the drills and never reentered the scrimmage.

Taking advantage of his opportunity to run with the top offensive team, Stewart had gains of 15 and 10 yards in addition to his 20-yarder.

"Byron Stewart did some good things," Osborne said, "but then he probably had more opportunities than some of the others."

Osborne praised the work of quarterbacks Vince Ferragamo and Randy Garcia.

"Our offense is no oiled machine at this point," Osborne said. "But Ferragamo did a good job and Garcia did a few good things under a lot of pressure."

No serious injuries appeared to crop up from the workout. In addition to Gillespie's muscle pull, fullback Dodie Donnell had a groin pull and No. 1 safety, Larry Valasek, left early with a bloody nose.

Along with Anthony, No. 2 quarterback Tom Sorley and starting tight end Ken Spaeth did not participate in the scrimmage.

Sorley is still on the mend from a broken arm suffered last spring while Spaeth is slowed by a sore shoulder.

Osborne said Sorley and Anthony would not see any action in Saturday's scrimmage, but he plans to have them running a full speed by next week.

The Cornhuskers held Tuesday's scrimmage on the grass field because the opener against LSU will be played on natural turf. Osborne said he plans to have the team work out a couple of nights at Seacrest Field under the lights The LSU game will be played at night in Baton Rouge on Sept. 11.

"We'd like to work at least twice at night before we go to Baton Rouge," Osborne said "And then we will work out the Friday night before the game when we get to Baton Rouge"

The Cornhusker coach said no time has been set yet for the Saturday's scrimmage which will not be open to the public.

Osborne Unsure of Action

Cornhusker head coach Tom Osborne was not sure what legal action Nebraska might take in the wake of the Oklahoma district court ruling in favor of the Sooners against the NCAA Monday, concerning the limit of coaches per staff.

"I don't see what good it would do. Whatever is going to be done will probably be done on the Oklahoma and Alabama suits," Osborne said. "I can't go off half-cocked. Any action by us would depend on Bob Devaney and the Board of Regents.

"We generally feel the NCAA rule is incorrect. We're hoping the courts decide unilaterally, that the Oklahoma case applies to everyone. Of course, they may decide Oklahoma is a long-term special case. But we think there's a fair chance everyone will benefit."

Osborne said some coaching changes on the Nebraska staff are irreversible. For instance, Mike Church accepted a job at Washington State and Jim Ross is in charge of the Nebraska Sports Center.

Osborne indicated the greatest potential profit for Nebraska would be a move of head freshman coach Guy Ingles into a different category. Currently he is combining football coaching with alumni activities. Former offensive line assistant Dick Beechner, who is helping at the Sports Center and in the ticket office, might be able to return to coach.

"We had two or three graduate assistants we couldn't take because of the ruling and that might change too," Osborne said

Auto Workers Select Ford As Strike Target

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union selected Ford Motor Co. on Tuesday as its strike target for forging an auto industry pattern settlement on new three-year contracts this fall.

In announcing the target, UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the nation's No. 2 automaker was tagged primarily because it is Ford's "turn" — the company was last chosen in 1967.

The union chief also said he saw no "insurmountable" problems that would block a settlement with the company when the current three-year accord expires at midnight Sept. 14.

Woodcock said he would begin joining negotiations at Ford on a regular basis Wednesday. Talks with all companies started in mid-July.

Under the UAW's "target" strategy, bargaining at other companies virtually ceases until a settlement is reached with the selected firm. If there is a strike, the other companies would continue uninterrupted production.

The union's selection of Ford drew little surprise from labor observers who had been predicting all year the union would pick Ford because it hasn't been the target for nine years.

In 1967, the union reached a settlement with Ford following a 66-day strike. General Motors, the target in 1970, was struck for 67 days, and Chrysler, picked in the last triennial round of contract talks, was shut down in 1973 by a nine-day walkout.

Asked if the UAW could avert a nationwide strike this fall for the first time in a dozen years, Woodcock responded, "We certainly can. There is nothing insursmountable, no complicated or technical problems standing in the way, and we certainly are going to do everything we possibly can to conclude a settlement on both sides of the table before the 14th."

Ford's top negotiator said he, too, is confident of averting a fall walkout. Labor Vice President Sidney F. McKenna said his company always bargains with the UAW on the assumption it will be the target.

Thus, Ford is "prepared for the serious collective bargaining before us," he said. "Ford and the UAW have a number of very tough issues to dispose of during the next three weeks.

"We believe that responsible collective bargaining can result in sound and mutually acceptable solutions to these issues without disruption of our operations . . . We will do our part to achieve that objective."

The UAW, which represents 160,000 U.S. hourly workers at Ford, expects to have a record $175 million in its strike fund when the current agreement expires, enough to sustain a four-month walkout against the company.

Industry-wide contracts covering 680,000 workers at the Big Three companies and American Motors Corp. all expire in mid-September.

County Approves Heckert For Jury Commissioner

The Lancaster County Board concurred with the District Court judges' appointment of Larry Heckert to succeed Paul Beave as jury commissioner Tuesday.

Heckert has been appointed Lancaster County Chief Adult Probation Officer to succeed Beave, who is retiring Sept. 1. Beave also held the jury commissioner post.

The County Board agreed to Heckert's appointment to that $3,000 a year commissioner's post as well. The money already has been budgeted for the job.

The County Board also awarded a $23,420 contract to the Joseph Augustine Construction Co. to remodel first floor office space in the County-City Building for the Public Defender's office.

Commissioner Bob Colin voted against the contract. Last week Colin argued that all remodeling work in the County-City Building should be stopped while courthouse needs are reevaluated.

Colin claimed the work should be halted until voters decide this November whether the number of county commissioners should be increased from three to five. If two more commissioners are elected, Colin said the County Board will need more space. A contract already has been let to remodel the commissioner's hearing room for a second county courtroom.

Commissioners Bruce Hamilton and Jan Gauger favored the remodeling of space for the public defender, contending the two issues are separate.

Henry Park Suspect Brought In

Lincoln police arrested the apparent Henry Park molester Monday morning, but it took a week of intensive and patient undercover work to do it.

Police Lt. John Hewitt said officers arrested a 17-year-old youth who police believe has been responsible for a number of molests in Henry Park and the surrounding area, at 44th and Prescott St.

Since June, citizens have reported five molests in the neighborhood park. Last week, police stepped up surveillance of the area, which included placing policewoman in the park to act as decoys.

Sunday afternoon, one undercover officer spotted a teenage male who matched the description of the assailant. The molester always wore a stocking over his head when he assaulted young women, which made him hard to identify.

Police later identified the youth spotted in the park Sunday and arrested him at his job Monday. The youth has been referred to juvenile court authorities.

Candidate Kossack Issues Streets Policy Statement

Ted Kossack, candidate for Lancaster County Commissioner, supports street improvements where the needs appear to justify it.

But he "emphatically opposes any road building program which would needlessly displace persons, impair the environment or exceed needs of the community to be served."

In a prepared press release, Kossack, a Democrat, said he supports business and industry but he denies any "alliance with any business, industry, labor union or other special interest group."

Kosack, an employe in the county engineer's department, was named in an early August news story about Commissioner Bruce Hamilton's theory on an alliance between the development industry and the local planning bureaucrats.

The story said that Kossack, who is opposing Commissioner Jan Gauger for the First District commissioner seat, was "presumed" to be favorable to more aggressive road improvement programs because of his association with the county engineer's office.

Kossack said his support so far in the campaign has been grass roots, principally from wage earners and retired laborers. And he said he alligns himself "only with the voters and taxpayers who support fiscal responsibility in government."

Huey Long Role Goes To Asner

Los Angeles (AP) — Edward Asner, news boss of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and Emmy winner for his role in "Rich Man, Poor Man," faces another challenging role, Sen. Huey Long of Louisiana.

Asner will play the TV title role in "Huey Long — The Late Great Populist," to be produced by Tomorrow Entertainment, maker of "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman." Long was the colorful politician whose share-the-wealth proposals drew national attention.

Bids Opened On UNL Addition

Bids received Tuesday on construction of the Plant Science Complex addition to Keim Hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln east campus came close to matching the University's estimate, according to Harley Schrader, UNL Physical Plant director.

The Physical Plant estimated the construction to cost $4,050,000 while the lowest bids in each of the four construction areas — general, mechanical, electrical and elevator — totaled $3,979,600.

Apparent low bid for general construction was submitted by Peter Kiewit and Company at $2,284,000; Morrisey Plumbing and Heating Co. submitted a $1,303,400 bid for mechanical work; ABC Electric Company bid totaled $329,200 for electrical work; and O'Keefe Elevator submitted their bid of $63,000 for elevator construction.

Schrader said the department will recommend acceptance of the four lowest category bids to the Board of Regents at its Sept. 8 meeting.

The Plant Science Complex will be a four-story addition to Keim Hall, providing the NU agronomy, horticulture and plant pathology departments with 86,500 square feet of classrooms, laboratories and offices. Projected completion date is fall, 1978.

Schrader said Tuesday's bids covered construction of the building only and that bids would be taken later for interior construction including cabinets and laboratory facilities.

Scottsbluff Food Lingers In His Mind

Gering (UPI) — A retired German postal clerk says he'll never forget how good the food was in western Nebraska in December of 1945.

Reinhold Schulz, 65, was not touring the continent when he tried the food. He was a prisoner of war.

He returned to the area over the weekend for the first time since World War II.

He said when he arrived at Scottsbluff May 13, 1945, he weighed 138 pounds and by August he weighed 180 pounds.

"I'll never forget how good the food was," Schulz said.

He was at a POW camp located just south of the Scotts Bluff County Airport. Little remains of the POW facility now.

His trip was arranged by his son, Winfried, of Pinewood Springs, Colo. Schulz and his wife live in Hattinggen-Ruhr, Germany.

After the war, Schulz was returned to Germany. He was shipped to Great Britain in January of 1946 and then to Germany. He and his family were sent to East Germany, but escaped to West Germany in 1953.

Schulz had intended to take home 10 movies of his trip to America.

But so far he has over 48 movies, including ones of the Big Thompson Canyon in Colorado before and after the flood that took more than 100 lives two weeks ago.

Omaha Rallies For 4-1 Victory

OMAHA, Neb (AP) — Pinch-hitter Craig Perkins singled in the go-ahead run Tuesday night as Omaha rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to defeat Indianapolis, 4-1, in American Association baseball

Winning pitcher Mark Ballinger pitched six innings of no-hit ball and struck out seven before he was taken out of the game for a pinch-hitter in the eighth

After Indianapolis scored in the seventh, the Royals tied the game in the eighth on a bunt single by Brian Murphy Singles by Perkins and Steve Staggs and a bases-loaded walk to Frank Ortenzio produced the final three Omaha runs

Clark Seeks New NFL Team

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Boobie Clark, a rookie rage three years ago when he rumbled for 988 yards, says he doesn't fit into the Cincinnati Bengals' pass-oriented attack and wants to be traded.

"As long as they've got Ken Anderson here, they'll continue to emphasize the pass," said the 6-foot-2, 245-pound running back

Clark said he plans to play out his option after next year and shop for a new National Football League club.

"I've asked them to trade me a couple times, but they flat out said they would not do it," said Clark

Three years ago, Clark was named Rookie of the Year in the American Conference when he and halfback Essex Johnson teamed up for 988 and 995 yards respectively, giving the Bengals their best-ever ground game

But the quick development of Anderson and a siege of backfield injuries has put emphasis on the passing game the past two seasons Cincinnati ranked 24th in rushing last year among the NFL's 26 clubs

"They want me to be more of a receiver than a running back," said Clark, a 12th-round draft choice out of Bethune-Cookman whose sure hands make him a frequent safety-valve target for Anderson

Clark, 25, tied All-Pro wide receiver Isaac Curtis in receptions with 45 in 1973 and had 42 last year, five behind Curtis' team-leading total

"They say they plan to run the ball more this year," said Clark. "But I'm skeptical I don't prefer being a receiver With me, being a running back is primary and receiving is secondary "

Clark sat out much of the 1974 season with a broken arm, but was the Bengals' leading rusher last year with 594 yards

"I had a great preseason last year, but after the season started they just froze me I was getting maybe 12 carries per game I look around the league and see those other guys get 1,000 yards and I know I can do it

"But those guys are getting 250 carries a season I'll never get close again as long as I'm here You can't do it on 150 carries a season "

Meanwhile, the Bengals appear to be moving away from their bulky backfields of recent years The addition of two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and speedster Willie Shelby of Alabama indicate a return to a lighter, quicker backfield

Yankee Rally Downs Twins

By United Press International

Willie Randolph's three-run double highlighted a four-run seventh inning rally Tuesday night that carried the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins

Chris Chambliss started the Yankees' uprising with a double and New York loaded the bases when Graig Nettles singled and Otto Velez walked Bill Campbell replaced starter Ed Bane and allowed Randolph's basesclearing double down the right field line Randolph was sacrificed to third base and Mickey Rivers delivered a run-scoring triple to score what proved to be the winning run

Doyle Alexander held the Twins to just six hits over the first eight innings and received credit for his ninth win in 17 decisions, but he needed last out relief help from Grant Jackson after giving up a single to Dan Ford and a pinch homer to Tony Oliva in the ninth It was Oliva's first homer of the year

In other games, Cleveland edged Kansas City 2-1, California shaded Boston 6-5, Chicago turned bck Detroit 12-7, Oakland stopped Baltimore 5-4 and Milwaukee beat Texas 1-0 in 10 innings

Rick Waits tossed a three-hitter and Ray Fosse singled home the go-ahead run in the fourth inning to pace the Indians over the Royals

Terry Humphrey's two-out double in the ninth inning scored Rusty Torres and gave California a narrow victory over Boston Paul Hartzell went the distance for the Angels, scattering seven hits to even his record at 4-4

The White Sox, aided by four Detroit errors, scored seven unearned runs in the ninth inning and defeated the Tigers

Gene Tenace s leadoff homer in the eighth inning and Joe Rudi's three runs-batted-in carried Oakland to a win over Baltimore

Tim Johnson's third single of the game drove in Darrell Porter with the game's only run in the 10th inning to lift Milwaukee over Texas, the Brewers' seventh straight win against the Rangers

Injuries Hit MU Gridders

COLUMBIA, Mo (AP) — Completing two-a-day practices Tuesday, Missouri football Coach Al Onofrio said the major disappointment was the number of injuries

Most of them have been minor but they seem to hit one position harder and that s defensive tackle, Onofrio said

The injured include defensive tackles Keith Morrissey and Randy Frisch along with nose guard Doug Bentlage

Classes start Wednesday and the practices will be reduced to one a day

Few of the injuries have been serious, and a lot of them didn t even happen in scrimmages

Some of them have been freakish Onofrio said 'I walked into the dressing room today and one of our punters Steve Blau has an ice pack on his neck He said, 'something snapped on the last punt "

Kings Sign Two Draft Choices

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Kings announced Tuesday they have signed two more of their 1976 draft choices — guard Clarence Ramsey, a fourth-round pick from Washington, and forward Willie Hodge, a fifth-round selection from Duke

General Manager Joe Axelson said Hodge, who is 6 feet 9, signed a two-year pact Ramsey, 6 feet 4, was signed to a one-year contract

The latest signings brought to 20 the number of players on the roster of the National Basketball Association squad The Kings will begin training Sept 19 at Rockhurst College

Tennis Wealth Spread Around

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United State Tennis Association Tuesday trimmed the top prizes in the U S Open tennis championships at Forest Hills by $10 000 and redistributed the wealth among the early losers at the request of the men's and women's associations

The singles first prize had been reduced from $40 000 to $30,000 The runnerup, semifinalists and quarterfinalists also will receive decreased monetary awards as requested by the men s Association of Tennis Professionals and the Women's Tennis Association

The competitors ousted in the round of 16 will receive an increase from $2,000 to $2,200, with similar increases all the way down to first-round losers, who will receive $425 instead of $300 as originally planned

The total prize money for the U S Open, which runs from Sept 1-12, is $416,000, an increase of more than $100,000 from last year There also will be adjustments in the doubles payoffs

Washington Deals For Defensive Help

STEVE OWENS . . .
retirement now official.

By The Associated Press

The Washington Redskins moved to strengthen their defense Tuesday, obtaining safety Jake Scott from Miami and end John Matuszak from the Kansas City Chiefs.

Scott, the Dolphins' one-time All-Pro safety who had demanded to be traded, got his wish as Miami dealt him and a high draft choice to the Redskins for defensive back Bryant Salter.

Washington then picked up Matuszak from the Chiefs for two draft picks, one in 1977 and one in 1978. The draft rounds were not disclosed. The 6-foot-8, 275-pound defensive end, was the first player to be taken in the 1973 college draft.

As th National Football League's midnight deadline for roster cuts neared, the dealing became more intense. For the 26 established teams, the midnight roster limit is 49 players plus late-reporters from the College All-Star Game. For the expansion entries, Tampa Bay and Seattle, the limit remained at 60 plus all-stars.

The Houston Oilers spent a day of whirlwind dealing. They cut big defensive end Bubba Smith and three other players, then acquired running backs Altie Taylor from the Detroit Lions and Joe Dawkins from the New York Giants.

The Lions also lost another running back. Steve Owens confirmed what had been known for the past few days by announcing his retirement.

And the Lions may be losing a quarterback, too. General Manager Russ Thomas said Bill Munson had asked to be traded.

Scott, who had demanded last year to be traded, was suspended for a week this year by Coach Don Shula. He refused to take a pain-killer in order to play in an exhibition game. "I never did refuse to play," Scott said. "I was always willing to play. But I will take no xylocaine in a preseason game. That's ridiculous."

In a trade late Tuesday night, the Dolphins dealt running back Mercury Morris to San Diego for an undisclosed draft choice.

The speedy back had been placed on waivers by Miami in hopes that another NFL team would show an interest so a deal could be worked out.

Dolphin spokesmen would not elaborate on the trade for Morris, second only to Larry Csonka in career rushing for the Dolphins.

Morris, who couldn't be reached for comment, had said Monday that he neither was surprised nor bitter about being placed on waivers.

The former West Texas State standout had asked last season to be played more or traded.

Salter beat out Brig Owens for the job as the Redskins' starting free safety last season but was moved to cornerback when Pat Fischer was injured. He regained the free safety job this year.

"It is difficult to give up a solid guy like Bryant Salter," Washington Coach George Allen said. "However, every decision that I make is because I think it makes us a stronger team. Scott is an all-pro and a big-play guy. He has leadership and wants to play for the Redskins. The high pick helps us."

Taylor was Detroit's all-time leading rusher with 4,297 yards in his seven seasons. Owens, often hampered by injuries, had 2,451 yards in 1970-74, then sat out last season following extensive knee surgery.

After the trade was announced, Taylor, Detroit's alltime leading rusher with 4,297 yards in his seven seasons, was discovered recuperating in Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital with what doctors described as "mental fatigue." Owens, often hampered by injuries, had 2,451 yards in 1970-74, then sat out last season following extensive knee surgery.

"I've always said that if I couldn't play up to the standards that I had set for myself, I wouldn't play at all," Owens said.

Smith, 31, signed with the Oilers last season to play behind his younger brother, Tody. Bubba, an all-pro at Baltimore, was dealt to Oakland, then was waived by the Raiders last year. "I'm going home (to Beaumont, Tex.)," he said. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I'm just going home."

Also cut by the Oilers were receivers Mike Montgomery and Steve Largent and punter Leroy Clark.

In Dawkins, Houston gets the Giants' leading rusher the past two seasons including 438 yards last year. New York also dealt offensive tackle Dave Simonson to the Oilers. For those two, the Giants received a pair of middle-round draft picks.

A pair of punters also bit the dust on this cut-down day. Among St. Louis' four cuts was second-year man Jeff West, and the New York Jets trimmed five players from their roster, including Greg Gantt.

Closed Circuit TV For OSU Contests

Stillwater, Okla. (UPI) — Arrangements have been completed for closed circuit television of Oklahoma State's football games at Arkansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma, athletic director Floyd Gass announced Tuesday.

The three road games will be "televised live at the actual time for each game site" and shown on a 15 foot by 20 foot screen in Gallagher Hall on the OSU campus, Gass said.

"We have tickets avilable now and we expect a very good response because the game at Little Rock is virtually sold out and there is little chance our game with OU will be televised," Gass said.

More Sports,

There will be no reserved seating, he said. The tickets, at $5 each, and seats will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

"There'll definitely be no instate television of the OSU-OU game because of litigation pending with cable television," he said. "Of course, there is the outside chance ABC-TV might select that game as a wild car contest but it's not very likely because OU is on nationally with Texas and Nebraska."

Approval has been received from the Big Eight conference office for the broadcasts by Champion Productions, directed by Jack Ogle, Gass said.

Oman Replaces Norfolk's McGill

Norfolk (AP) — Dave Oman, an Omaha native, has been hired to replace Rich McGill as head basketball coach at Norfolk High School.

McGill resigned after one year to accept a similar position at Platte College in Columbus.

Oman coached at Table Rock and most recently at Wilber-Clatonia, where he compiled an overall 99-61 record.

Dr. Richards Extended

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Dr. Renee Richards, the controversial transsexual who has stirred such a fear among women tennis pros, is not the invincible player that foes have made her out to be.

Little Caroline Stoll, a 15-year-old amateur from Livingston, N.J., made Dr. Richards a more human and vulnerable player when she battled through three sets before losing by scores of 6-2, 0-6, 6-1, Tuesday in the $60,000 Tennis Week Open.

Stoll, ranked No. 1 in the girls 16-years-and-under class by the Eastern Tennis Association, was outplayed in the first set before making a stirring comeback in the middle set. The majority of the crowd of 3,200 clearly cheered the local favorite and the 5-5 high school junior responded with fine topspin shots that produced numerous errors.

"I didn't resent the crowd at all," Dr. Richards said later. "It's that way in America, always rooting for the underdog. Caroline has a great future for a 15-year-old and she played an intelligent game."

The game referred to was her ability in the middle set to hit deep topspin shots that produced numerous unforced errors by the 42-year-old Dr. Richards, the former Dr. Richard Raskind, a New York eye surgeon, before a sex-change operation last year.

Then experience took over in the decisive third set. "I paced myself for the third," said Dr. Richards. "I was sure I'd win but I must say it was the toughest match I've had in a long time."

In truth Dr. Richards did have some worrying to do. She had a 0-40 lead on Caroline's serve in the first game of the third set only to find Stoll able to battle to three deuces before losing on a doublefault.

"Maybe if I blew that game then I might have been concerned," said Dr. Richards. She ran out the match 21 minutes later in a second-round tussle that consumed 1 hour 28 minutes.

The players chatted amiably prior to a press interview and Caroline remarked that she "couldn't believe that you (Renee) weren't in the game for the money." And Dr. Richards responded:

"Would you go through a sexchange operation for money?"

Caroline quickly answered: "No, but aren't you in this for the money and the publicity?"

"Absolutely not," Dr. Richards retorted. "I have a medical practice (ophthamology) in which I earn $100,000 a year."

This late afternoon match overshadowed the earlier victories by second-seeded Roscoe Tanner and seventh-seeded Dick Stockton.

McIntire Honored By State Group

Peru — Former Peru State College coach and athletic director Jack McIntire has been named a 25-year coach at the Nebraska Coaches Association awards and recognition banquet held in Lincoln.

His previous honors include selection by the Lincoln Journal and Star and the Omaha World-Herald as high school coach of the year and college coach of the year. He has served as president of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Coaches Association and he was named by the NAIA to the Helms Athletic Foundation Hall of Fame at Los Angeles.

Blues to KC For 3 Games

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Blues play only one of their 10 National Hockey League exhibition games in the St. Louis Arena this fall but will stage three contests in Kansas City's Kemper Arena.

The Blues open their exhibition season against Pittsburgh Sept. 18 in Kansas City, then host the New York Islanders there Sept. 21 and the Atlanta Flames Sept. 25. The only exhibition contest to be played in St. Louis will be against the New York Rangers Oct. 2.

The Blues established a minor league farm club at Kansas City this season to replace their Providence, R.I., team.

NU-Canadian Series Set Back

Nebraska women's sports information director Jay Davis announced Tuesday a schedule change in this weekend's basketball series with the Quebec National team.

The schedule has been moved back a day. The games will now be held Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 11 a.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

All three of the contests between the Cornhuskers and the Canadian team will be held in the Nebraska Coliseum.

Tournament Canceled

The annual Ballard Invitational Girls' Softball tournament, held in conjunction with the Men's Major Division Fast Pitch Softball tournament has been canceled.

The girls tourney was set for the upcoming weekend but was eliminated due to scheduling conflicts with high school fall sports.

Columbus

Columbus — The total mutuel handle for the recently concluded 10-day Nebraska State Fairgrounds horse racing season here at Agricultural Park was more than $200,000 higher than a corresponding period one year ago.

Columbus Races general manager Warren Albert said the 10-day Lincoln segment handled $2,655,179. A year ago, the first 10 days of the Columbus meet handled $2,404,133.

Albert said the State Fairgrounds will earn $132,758.95 from the Columbus meet.

In addition to those figures, the Columbus races also paid sales tax, State Racing Commission admission tax and taxes on claimed horses. While the State Fair does not share in that money, the State of Nebraska and the Nebraska State Racing Commission will benefit.

The first 15 days of the Lincoln races were held at Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. The total profit to the Fairgrounds was about $146,000.

6 Cities To Talk Horses

Columbus — The Nebraska State Racing Commission will meet here Wednesday morning to decide the 1977 Nebraska quarterhorse racing schedule.

"This is the first meeting ever just for quarterhorses," noted commission executive secretary Mort Porter of Nebraska City.

Porter said six cities have requested time to explain their positions. But, he stressed, that doesn't necessarily mean all six cities are ready to run their meets in 1977.

"But they all for sure aren't going to ask for dates in 1977," Porter added. "Deshler and Broken Bow for sure will be ready to run, but we just aren't certain about the other groups."

Groups scheduled to appear at the meeting beginning at 11 a.m. at a local motel include Deshler, Broken Bow, McCook, Seward, Kearney and Alma.

"That's all that have contacted me. Some other groups may have contacted other members of the commission and I don't know about them," Porter said.

Although Deshler had a fairly successful 1976 meet, Broken Bow didn't fare as well. Deshler, in a more heavily-populated area near Kansas reportedly made money in its first season of racing.

Broken Bow, in its second season of racing, is rumored to have sustained financial losses.

"This is just a guess, but we don't think Broken Bow is ready to throw in the towel," Porter said. "But if they don't perk up a little next year, then we may have to call it off."

Other items onthe agenda include a progress report on open horse claiming and a rule change to allow betting entries in exacta races.

Commission members include chairman Harry Furnham of Elkhorn, vice-chairman Duane Fudge of Newman Grove and Virginia Coffey of Orleans.

UPI

WHITEY HERZOG . . . Managing Kansas City Royals in quest of American League championship.

Herzog, Royals Hoping Finley's 'Guess' Wrong

New York (UPI) — Whitey Herzog knows Charlie Finley. He probably knows him better than any of the 14 managers Finley has had. Herzog once worked for Finley as a coach and turned down a chance to manage the A's. That's how well he knows Finley.

Whitey Herzog has his Kansas City Royals well out in front in the American League West and he knows Charlie Finley's habits and methods so well that he didn't have too much reaction recently when one of Finley's statements was called to his attention.

Finley said the Royals were going to choke and the A's were going to catch them and win in the West for the sixth straight year. Herzog knew Finley had said what he did hoping to upset the Royals and cut down the distance between them and the second place A's.

"They've been talking all year," says Herzog. "We've kept out mouths shut and played. So far, we've won 75 games. Our goal is to win 95-96. If we do that, we don't have to pay attention to what anybody says. Last year we won 91 games, which wasn't too bad. When I got here a year ago, we were 11 games back. We got within 5 and finished 7 back.

The Royals, now in Cleveland, are in the middle of their longest road trip, and their most important one. They're 8½ games up on the A's and if they can get back home Sept. 3 with anywhere near the same kind of lead they have now, they can start making playoff plans.

Mindful of how close Kansas City came to surprising everybody last year, only to fall back in the final weeks, Herzog feels that experience automatically makes his ball club stronger this time around.

"We're loose, but we're not overconfident," he says. "We've got nine more games left on this road trip. Every one is mighty important to us.

"When Finley said we were gonna choke, we were 7 games ahead. Yeah, we all saw what he had to say in the papers, but we didn't make a big issue of it. If we win our share of ball games, what Charlie Finley says isn't going to make a whole lot of difference."

Win or lose, the blond, 44-year-old Herzog has done an outstanding job with the Royals this year especially considering he lost three of his top pitchers, Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird, but he realizes if the Royals should stumble and fail to win, despite their excellent showing up to now, the season would be considered a disaster.

Bird, the 6-4 right-hander with the good fastball and slider who was the club's top reliever the past three seasons but converted into a regular starter this year, is the only one of the three back in action among the three pitchers who were sidelined with injuries.

"I don't know what other ball club has lost three pitchers like Busby, Splittorff and Bird," says Herzog, who can be thankful Dennis Leonard, Al Fitzmorris and Marty Pattin took up some of the slack among the starters and Mark Littell and Steve Mingori some of it among the relievers.

Herzog can also be crateful he has had hitters like Hal McRae, George Brett and Amos Otis available all year, and he is. McRae and Brett are running 1-2 for the American League batting title and although Otis' average doesn't match theirs, he has had a good year all around.

Right now, it looks as if Herzog will be managing against a long-time buddy of his, Billy Martin, in the American League playoffs.

The Yankees' pitching would give them an edge but you know how that goes, anything can happen in a short series and nobody believes that more than Herzog.

"We played them 12 games this year and all of them went right down to the last out, the last pitch, except one," he says. "Only one game was lopsided, and we won it, 8-2. In the 12 games we played the Yankees, we won 7 and lost 5."

Whitey Herzog keeps drawing a great deal of praise these days, and he always makes sure to channel it back to his players.

"I got good players," he says. "Not only good players, but good guys. Just because your team is winning doesn't make you a good manager. I just happened to step into a situation where the material already was there. It's the ballplayers who win the ball games, not the manager."

Talbert To Bypass U.S. Open Tennis Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — The U. S. Open Tennis Championships pitch their tents at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills next week, and for the first time in years one of the most familiar faces will be missing.

As ranking player, Davis Cup captain, volunteer benefactor of youngsters and more recently general chairman of the big event, William F Talbert had established himself as an integral part of the mushrooming sport.

Now he is on the sidelines— technically fired without cause by the U S. Tennis Association

"See you at Forest Hills next week," a friend casually remarked to the Wall Street banknote executive.

"Not me—I won't be there," Talbert replied.

"Not even as a spectator?" the friend asked.

"No, not as a spectator," be said

More's the pity

It is easy to understand Talbert's bitterness, if such exists Tennis has saturated his life He has been one of the most dedicated and progressive instruments in a sport that has suffered badly from 19th Century stuffiness, absence of imagination and lack of direction

The current popularity of tennis has been achieved in spite of—not because of—the men in blue jackets who make the policy decisions. The International Lawn Tennis Federation is a colossal joke, without backbone and without power. It has allowed international game to deteriorate into a mish-mash of widely scattered events of little more than exhibition significance.

The Davis Cup, rich in tradition and once the centerpiece of world tennis, has so eroded that its demise is thought imminent. It isn't commercial enough for the hungry pros and the wheelers and dealers now running the game.

Kudos for the tennis boom must go to independent operators such as Texan Lamar Hunt, who bankrolled the World Championship Tennis circuit; Gladys Heldman, who conceived and built the Virginia Slims women's tour, Billie Jean King, who beat Bobby Riggs; Chris Evert, who was just Chris Evert, and Talbert, the innovator, the revolutionary, the fresh breeze in a stagnant atmosphere.

Talbert, now in his 50s, grew up in Cincinnati, was one of the first diabetics to take part in active sports, battled his way to the top, ranked in the top 10 for 13 years, twice gained the men's final at Forest Hills.

Wisconsin Test For Unser

ELKHART LAKE, Wis (AP) — Al Unser, third in the U S Auto Club national point standings after his Tony Bettenhausen speedway car race triumph in Milwaukee last Sunday, will try to overtake the Formula 5,000 road racing circuit leaders Saturday.

Unser, two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, is one of the top entrants in the 80 mile test scheduled for 3 30 p m. Saturday at the twisting, four mile Road America circuit here.

Australian Alan Jones and Jackie Oliver of England share the Formula 5,000 lead with 84 points each after five races in the seven-event series. Both have entered Saturday's $25,000 test, although Jones' appearance is doubtful because he also has entered a grand prix event scheduled Sunday in Holland.

Brian Redman of England, who has won the 5,000 series the last two years, currently ranks third with 80 points after a slow start Unser, a speedway car circuit veteran but relatively new to road racing, is fourth with 60. Danny Ongais of California is fifth with 54.

The winner will earn 36 points toward the series championship Second place is worth 24 points and third 12.

Unser, who missed the season's first two 5,000 events, has finished second twice and fourth once in his only starts He was second to Oliver by 4 8 seconds in a series race here July 24.

After Saturday's race, officials will combine the results with those of previous races this season to handicap drivers for Sunday's 5,000 handicap race, a 100 miler with $40,000 at stake.

Steelers' Banaszak 'More Secure'

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Last season, John Banaszak was a nervous rookie sweating out roster cuts at the Pittsburgh Steelers training camp. This year, he's enjoying a measure of job security on the defensive line.

The 6-foot-3, 244-pound ex-Marine nailed down a job as the Steelers' sixth defensive lineman last week when Bob Barber was traded to Green Bay.

"I was happy to see him get traded. But I wasn't that worried if he stayed," Banaszak said.

"They were thinking of carrying seven linemen and I thought if I played well, they'd keep me. There was nothing personal. We got along well," he added.

The Steelers press guide calls Banaszak, a 1975 free agent from Eastern Michigan, the "most impressive player in the 1975 training camp."

He was used sparingly early in the season but won the confidence of the coaches substituting for L. C. Greenwood in the first Houston game in which he was in on two sacks and six tackles.

In last Friday's 17-0 loss to the New York Giants, Banaszak was in three series in the first half, including a second-quarter sack, and also saw some action in the final period.

His style is flamboyant and when he makes a particularly good play, he seems to enjoy it as much as the fans.

"I'm always fired up, even on the sidelines. I like to be prepared emotionally as well as mentally and physically," he said.

Part of his preparation involes a technique known as "visualization," which he learned at Eastern Michigan.

"It's mind training. A lot of people don't utilize all of their body, and the mind is the first thing they don't use correctly. It's helped me out quite a bit in getting my mind to bring future to reality," he said.

Banaszak says he visualizes what the opposing line will do in certain situations to prepare his reflexes for the time when that situation doe

Auto Workers Select Ford As Strike Target

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union selected Ford Motor Co. on Tuesday as its strike target for forging an auto industry pattern settlement on new three-year contracts this fall.

In announcing the target, UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the nation's No. 2 automaker was tagged primarily because it is Ford's "turn" — the company was last chosen in 1967.

The union chief also said he saw no "insurmountable" problems that would block a settlement with the company when the current three-year accord expires at midnight Sept. 14.

Woodcock said he would begin joining negotiations at Ford on a regular basis Wednesday. Talks with all companies started in mid-July.

Under the UAW's "target" strategy, bargaining at other companies virtually ceases until a settlement is reached with the selected firm. If there is a strike, the other companies would continue uninterrupted production.

The union's selection of Ford drew little surprise from labor observers who had been predicting all year the union would pick Ford because it hasn't been the target for nine years.

In 1967, the union reached a settlement with Ford following a 66-day strike. General Motors, the target in 1970, was struck for 67 days, and Chrysler, picked in the last triennial round of contract talks, was shut down in 1973 by a nine-day walkout.

Asked if the UAW could avert a nationwide strike this fall for the first time in a dozen years, Woodcock responded, "We certainly can. There is nothing insursmountable, no complicated or technical problems standing in the way, and we certainly are going to do everything we possibly can to conclude a settlement on both sides of the table before the 14th."

Ford's top negotiator said he, too, is confident of averting a fall walkout. Labor Vice President Sidney F. McKenna said his company always bargains with the UAW on the assumption it will be the target.

Thus, Ford is "prepared for the serious collective bargaining before us," he said. "Ford and the UAW have a number of very tough issues to dispose of during the next three weeks.

"We believe that responsible collective bargaining can result in sound and mutually acceptable solutions to these issues without disruption of our operations . . . We will do our part to achieve that objective."

The UAW, which represents 160,000 U.S. hourly workers at Ford, expects to have a record $175 million in its strike fund when the current agreement expires, enough to sustain a four-month walkout against the company.

Industry-wide contracts covering 680,000 workers at the Big Three companies and American Motors Corp. all expire in mid-September.

County Approves Heckert For Jury Commissioner

The Lancaster County Board concurred with the District Court judges' appointment of Larry Heckert to succeed Paul Beave as jury commissioner Tuesday.

Heckert has been appointed Lancaster County Chief Adult Probation Officer to succeed Beave, who is retiring Sept. 1. Beave also held the jury commissioner post.

The County Board agreed to Heckert's appointment to that $3,000 a year commissioner's post as well. The money already has been budgeted for the job.

The County Board also awarded a $23,420 contract to the Joseph Augustine Construction Co. to remodel first floor office space in the County-City Building for the Public Defender's office.

Commissioner Bob Colin voted against the contract. Last week Colin argued that all remodeling work in the County-City Building should be stopped while courthouse needs are reevaluated.

Colin claimed the work should be halted until voters decide this November whether the number of county commissioners should be increased from three to five. If two more commissioners are elected, Colin said the County Board will need more space. A contract already has been let to remodel the commissioner's hearing room for a second county courtroom.

Commissioners Bruce Hamilton and Jan Gauger favored the remodeling of space for the public defender, contending the two issues are separate.

Henry Park Suspect Brought In

Lincoln police arrested the apparent Henry Park molester Monday morning, but it took a week of intensive and patient undercover work to do it.

Police Lt. John Hewitt said officers arrested a 17-year-old youth who police believe has been responsible for a number of molests in Henry Park and the surrounding area, at 44th and Prescott St.

Since June, citizens have reported five molests in the neighborhood park. Last week, police stepped up surveillance of the area, which included placing policewoman in the park to act as decoys.

Sunday afternoon, one undercover officer spotted a teenage male who matched the description of the assailant. The molester always wore a stocking over his head when he assaulted young women, which made him hard to identify.

Police later identified the youth spotted in the park Sunday and arrested him at his job Monday. The youth has been referred to juvenile court authorities.

Candidate Kossack Issues Streets Policy Statement

Ted Kossack, candidate for Lancaster County Commissioner, supports street improvements where the needs appear to justify it.

But he "emphatically opposes any road building program which would needlessly displace persons, impair the environment or exceed needs of the community to be served."

In a prepared press release, Kossack, a Democrat, said he supports business and industry but he denies any "alliance with any business, industry, labor union or other special interest group."

Kosack, an employe in the county engineer's department, was named in an early August news story about Commissioner Bruce Hamilton's theory on an alliance between the development industry and the local planning bureaucrats.

The story said that Kossack, who is opposing Commissioner Jan Gauger for the First District commissioner seat, was "presumed" to be favorable to more aggressive road improvement programs because of his association with the county engineer's office.

Kossack said his support so far in the campaign has been grass roots, principally from wage earners and retired laborers. And he said he alligns himself "only with the voters and taxpayers who support fiscal responsibility in government."

Huey Long Role Goes To Asner

Los Angeles (AP) — Edward Asner, news boss of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and Emmy winner for his role in "Rich Man, Poor Man," faces another challenging role, Sen. Huey Long of Louisiana.

Asner will play the TV title role in "Huey Long — The Late Great Populist," to be produced by Tomorrow Entertainment, maker of "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman." Long was the colorful politician whose share-the-wealth proposals drew national attention.

Bids Opened On UNL Addition

Bids received Tuesday on construction of the Plant Science Complex addition to Keim Hall on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln east campus came close to matching the University's estimate, according to Harley Schrader, UNL Physical Plant director.

The Physical Plant estimated the construction to cost $4,050,000 while the lowest bids in each of the four construction areas — general, mechanical, electrical and elevator — totaled $3,979,600.

Apparent low bid for general construction was submitted by Peter Kiewit and Company at $2,284,000; Morrisey Plumbing and Heating Co. submitted a $1,303,400 bid for mechanical work; ABC Electric Company bid totaled $329,200 for electrical work; and O'Keefe Elevator submitted their bid of $63,000 for elevator construction.

Schrader said the department will recommend acceptance of the four lowest category bids to the Board of Regents at its Sept. 8 meeting.

The Plant Science Complex will be a four-story addition to Keim Hall, providing the NU agronomy, horticulture and plant pathology departments with 86,500 square feet of classrooms, laboratories and offices. Projected completion date is fall, 1978.

Schrader said Tuesday's bids covered construction of the building only and that bids would be taken later for interior construction including cabinets and laboratory facilities.

Scottsbluff Food Lingers In His Mind

Gering (UPI) — A retired German postal clerk says he'll never forget how good the food was in western Nebraska in December of 1945.

Reinhold Schulz, 65, was not touring the continent when he tried the food. He was a prisoner of war.

He returned to the area over the weekend for the first time since World War II.

He said when he arrived at Scottsbluff May 13, 1945, he weighed 138 pounds and by August he weighed 180 pounds.

"I'll never forget how good the food was," Schulz said.

He was at a POW camp located just south of the Scotts Bluff County Airport. Little remains of the POW facility now.

His trip was arranged by his son, Winfried, of Pinewood Springs, Colo. Schulz and his wife live in Hattinggen-Ruhr, Germany.

After the war, Schulz was returned to Germany. He was shipped to Great Britain in January of 1946 and then to Germany. He and his family were sent to East Germany, but escaped to West Germany in 1953.

Schulz had intended to take home 10 movies of his trip to America.

But so far he has over 48 movies, including ones of the Big Thompson Canyon in Colorado before and after the flood that took more than 100 lives two weeks ago.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, August 25, 1976

"When you tell me things you couldn't know, when you ask for birthdates and reel off information, I feel you not only have a sixth sense, but maybe a seventh or an eighth . . . it may be astrology but surely there also is something else!"—Henry Miller to Sydney Omarr.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on health, work, unique services. New Moon highlights diet, ability to protect your interests, dialogue with relative, diversity, versatility. You learn to analyze, to synthesize, to come up with viable concept after piecing together clues.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New Moon stresses are of Solar horoscope related to creativity, children, affairs of heart, change, travel, variety and speculation. Vitality makes comeback; you feel more alive. Member of opposite sex says something that sends morale soaring!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Lunar position emphasizes land, property, completion of deal, escrow, economic factors affecting your security. Look deep — reject superficial answers, explanations. You have right, even a duty to be analytical. One close to you is on your side and wants the best for you. Be grateful!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on trips, talks, relatives, ideas which could become viable concepts, theories. Family involvements, home base decisions are featured. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. Key is using your voice calmly, making your words eloquent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): New Moon highlights money, assets, ability to collect and to locate missing articles. You display extrasensory talent; you see beyond what is on surface. You sense truth and falsehood. You become somewhat of a human lie detector. You have fine chance to increase income potential.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New Moon in your sign portends new starts, contacts, success with original ideas. Get into production. Show organizing capabilities — and let others know you mean business. Time for rehearsal is finished. The starting gate is open — go!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Obtain hint from Virgo message; peek behind scenes. No one is going to tell all, not without pressure. Realize it and arm yourself with factual information. Dig, investigate — get rid of outmoded procedures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romance, creativity, dream world, wishes. Popularity increases. You find ways of fulfilling desires. Business, career prospects brighter due to "friendly intervention. Message should come into sharp focus.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on sense of direction. Goal may be in sight — but conflict could exist in connection with arriving at destination. Cancer, Aquarius persons figure prominently. Follow through on hunch. Teach and learn. Unorthodox procedure brings desired results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Long-range plans, communication, publishing, travel — these could be part of your montage. Gemini, Sagittarius figure in picture. You find new means of expression, definite ways of getting message, product across to public attention.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Concern with hidden or obscured matters, the occult, financial position of partner or mate — these could dominate. Be willing to review basic material. Avoid basing actions on impulse. Learn rules before attempting to break them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Emphasis on publicity, public relations, legal agreements, long-term relationships and marriage. You find that more people than in recent past are concerned with your views, actions, intentions. Don't rush to decisions.

IF AUGUST 25th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, introspective, "special" in sense that you are not easy to know, yet you yearn to fight loneliness. One dilemma-after-another could sum up many of your experiences. In October, more fun begins — potential will be greater next year, including travel and social life — and it all begins in October. Pisces, Virgo persons play important roles in your life.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, August 25, 1976

When you tell me things you couldn't know, when you ask for birthdates and reel off information, I feel you not only have a sixth sense, but maybe a seventh or an eighth .... It may be astrology but surely there also is something else. —Henry Miller to Sydney Omarr

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on health, work, unique services. New Moon highlights diet, ability to protect your interests, dialogue with relative, diversity, versatility. You learn to analyze, to synthesize, to come up with viable concept after piecing together clues.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): New Moon stresses area of Solar horoscope related to creativity, children, affairs of heart, change, travel, variety and speculation. Vitality makes comeback; you feel more alive. Member of opposite sex says something that sends morale soaring!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Lunar position emphasizes land, property, completion of deal, escrow, economic factors affecting your security. Look deep — reject superficial answers, explanations. You have right, even a duty, to be analytical. One close to you is on your side and wants the best for you. Be grateful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on trips, talks, relatives, ideas which could become viable concepts, theories. Family involvements, home base decisions are featured. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. Key is using your voice calmly, making your words eloquent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): New Moon highlights money, assets, ability to collect and to locate missing articles. You display extrasensory talent; you see beyond what is on surface. You sense truth and falsehood. You become somewhat of a human lie detector. You have the chance to increase income potential.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New Moon in your sign portends new starts, contacts, success with original ideas. Get into production. Show organizing ability — and let others know you mean business. Time for rehearsals is finished. The starting gate is open — go!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Obtain hint from Virgo message, peek behind scenes. No one is going to tell all, not without pressure. Realize it and arm yourself with factual information. Dig, investigate — get rid of outmoded procedures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romance, creativity, dream world, wishes. Popularity increases. You find ways of fulfilling desires. Business, career prospects brighter due to friendly intervention. Message should come into sharp focus.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on sense of direction. Goal may be in sight — but conflict could exist in connection with arriving at destination. Cancer, Aquarius persons figure prominently. Follow through on hunch. Teach and learn. Unorthodox procedure brings desired results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Long-range plans, communication, publishing, travel — these could be part of your montage. Gemini, Sagittarius figure in picture. You find new means of expression, definite ways of getting message, product across to public attention.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Concern with hidden or obscured matters, the occult, financial position of partner or mate — these could dominate. Be willing to review basic material. Avoid basing actions on impulse. Learn rules before attempting to break them.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Emphasis on publicity, public relations, legal agreements, long-term relationships and marriage. You find that more people than in recent past are concerned with your views, actions, intentions. Don't rush to decisions.

IF AUGUST 25th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, introspective, special in sense that you are not easy to know, yet you yearn to fight loneliness. One dilemma after another could sum up many of your experiences. In October, more fun begins — potential will be greater next year, including travel and social life — and it all begins in October. Pisces, Virgo persons play important roles in your life.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
